SUMMARY.

The Brazilian, Argentine, and Chilian diplomats have offered to mediate between the United States and Mexico.

The United States Government accepted the offer. President Wilson, however, is not hopeful of the plan's success.

The U.S. Cabinet has decided vigorously to prosecute war preparations in the meantime.

Congressional leaders are more favourable towards the prompt declaration of war with Mexico.

Public sentiment points to an outburst of war fever such as preceded the Spanish-American War.

The mob at Tampico attacked the hotels where United States citizens had taken refuge.

The foreigners were rescued by a German cruiser, whose captain threatened to land marines if the rioting continued.

Dr. Golding Bird, formerly Dean of Newcastle, was consecrated Bishop of Kalgoorlie on Saturday.

The ceremony, which was largely attended, was performed by the Archbishop of Sydney in St. Andrew's Cathedral.

A letter from Mr. James Larkin, regarding the Dublin strike, has been received by the Sydney I.W.W. secretary.

It is stated that a cargo of 70,000 rifles was landed and distributed in Ulster on Saturday.

The police were powerless spectators, being unable to communicate with Belfast.

The whole of this week in the Federal Parliament is expected to be taken up with the "No Confidence" debate.

No interest whatever is felt, but almost the entire Opposition has "something important to say."

Inquiries by the Federal Ministry throw fresh light on the trans-Australian Railway contract.

Mr. Cook explained that its terms were less favourable to Mr. Teesdale Smith than many people had supposed.

A large conference of Liberal League delegates was held at Wollongong on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. G. W. Fuller was selected as the Liberal candidate for the district.

Mr. Trefle, who is visiting Queensland, expressed surprise at the absence of extensive irrigation works.

No form of land enterprise, declared the Minister, could equal irrigation in solving the population question.

A special meeting of the Queensland Cabinet has been held, in view of the New South Wales outbreak of smallpox.

A large gathering attended the Kurnell celebrations on Saturday. Admiral Patey "broke" the flag, with a characteristically brief speech.

"Captain Cook," said the admiral, "was a very silent man. I will endeavour to follow his example."

Mr. Hoyle dealt with the achievements of the white man since Captain Cook landed at Kurnell, 144 years ago.

A serious fire occurred in Kent-street on Saturday night. The damage amounts approximately to £10,000.

A fireman, through falling down a lift well, was seriously injured, and is in a critical condition.

A two-days' reliability contest to Goulburn and back was begun by the Automobile Club of Australia on Friday.

Out of a field of 13 competitors, only seven finished. The winner is not yet known.

An alarming accident befell one competitor, whose motor was charged by a mob of horses being driven towards Liverpool.

The car was considerably damaged, but, fortunately, the occupants of the car were uninjured.

A dinner in honour of the eight-hours pioneers was given by the Eight Hours Anniversary Committee in Melbourne.

Mr. Elmslie, M.L.A., described the Premiers' Conference as a "constitutional excrescence."

A man at Broken Hill shot his wife three times with a revolver, and then shot himself fatally.

The woman was not dangerously injured. Jealousy is believed to have been the cause of the tragedy.

The Autumn Race Meeting of City Tattersall's Club was held at Randwick on Saturday in glorious weather.

There was a large attendance, which was estimated to number about 25,000.

Sir Oswald Brierley's painting of "H.M.S. Rattlesnake in a Storm" was successfully removed from The Rangers at Mosman.

A suggestion has been made that the painting should be removed to the Mitchell Library.

Some interesting figures were given by the Minister for Agriculture at his visit to the Bathurst Show.

In 1863 the State sheep flock numbered only 5,000,000, as compared with 40,000,000 in 1913.

The crop area was 307,000 acres, as against 3,737,000 in 1913, representing a twelve-fold increase.

An ambitious Melbourne policeman arrested a prominent detective, on suspicion of being a notorious jewel thief.

He was about to take him to the station in handcuffs, when the detective produced his warrant card.

A record for high jumping was established in the ladies' contest at the Bathurst Show on Saturday.

Five pounds bonus was awarded by a New Zealand county council to the mother of triplets.

A New Zealand bookmaker has been charged with fraudulently converting £1050 to his own use.

The Otira Tunnel, New Zealand, is progressing satisfactorily, and seems likely to be completed within three years.

A bushman, whose leg was smashed to pulp, was carried 30 miles to Wanganui. The journey occupied 14½ hours.

Despite the extraordinary roughness of the journey, the sufferer reached the hospital cheerfully smoking his pipe.

A Goulburn woman was seriously burned on Saturday, through throwing kerosene on the fire.

The State Governor made an exhaustive inspection of Goulburn on Saturday morning.

He spoke approvingly of the State educational system, and of the combination of high school with military training.

The jubilee meeting of the Goulburn Church Society was held on Friday, Bishop Barlow presiding.

Sir Gerald Strickland said the architecture of the cathedral city reminded him of Trinity College, Cambridge.

The annual competition of the N.S.W. senior cadets was held on Saturday.

Newington again won the championship, with 653 points, Bulli being second and Bathurst third.

On Friday evening a man snatched a handbag from a lady at the Quay, and escaped in safety.

The bag, emptied of its valuables, was found lying under a fig tree in the Government House Domain on Saturday.

Three counterfeit sovereigns, dated 1894, have been given the Detective Office by a city firm.

They were exchanged in the course of business during the past week.

A considerable volume of business was transacted at the Stock Exchange on Saturday at firm prices.

The mining market showed a considerable change on Saturday, business being brisk.

The rise in share values generally was significant.

Little business was done at the Redfern railway yards on Saturday. Prices were, if anything, lower.

English mails per P. and O. Morea, dated London, March 27, are due for delivery at the G.P.O. to-day.

Weather forecast.—Fine generally, with cold, frosty, or foggy nights, becoming milder in the west, with N.W. to N.E. winds.

FARMER'S GOOD COSTUMES.

SERVICEABILITY AND GOOD STYLE

ARE THE HALLMARKS OF SUCCESS

OF OUR BIG COSTUME DEPARTMENT.

Underneath all successful enterprises will be found a reason—a basic principle, a solid foundation, on which success has developed and grown. The success and growth of our big Costume Department's Business has been built on the big basic principle of SERVICEABILITY and SUPREMACY OF QUALITY at the price charged. Every Costume must bear the Hallmark of style, but we draw the line at serviceability—no garment which fails to meet that test has a place in Farmer's Grand Costume Collection. Although we do not manufacture the materials, we stand behind the garments we select or make, which practically guarantees satisfaction in every costume we sell.

W. JNO. BAKER STROPS
AND STROPPING MACHINES.

MY STROPS are made from leather specially tanned to produce a soft, gripping surface. I work them up before I allow them to go from my factory, thus supplying a want that is often forgotten when a new Strop is purchased.

The price for my Strops for ordinary purposes are:
Single Leather, 1/6.
Double Leather, 2/6.
Leather and Canvas, 2/6.
Leather and Silk, 3/6.
Others range up to 12/6 each.

I also supply Strops for most makes of Safety Razors.

MY STROPPING MACHINES

are to be commended both to the novice and the expert. I have found out by experience that the best for old style and hollow-ground Sheffield Razors is the Double Action Machine. This Stropper gives the heel to toe movement, and represents a perfect imitation of a skilled Barber's hand.

Price 15/ COMPLETE.

My Stropping Machines for Safety Razor Blades are also to be highly recommended. I quote: Combination Stropper for Gillette and other Safeties, 5/. Wilkinson's Gillette Stropper, strops both edges without removing Blade from Machine, with Strop complete, 10/6. W. Jno. Baker new hand model Stropper—a very simple device. By merely turning the handle a few times you sharpen the blade perfectly. Gillette, Auto-strop, Clemak, W. Jno. Baker, "Pocket," and similar blades can be sharpened on this machine. Price, with one Blade Holder, 12/6 complete. Kindly ask for my Little Book of Household Cutlery. It contains numberless articles of interest, including the above. 80 Pages, Illustrated—free.

In the Real Detective Play,
THE ARGYLE CASE.
It is a detective play—not a crook drama.
It is tense, thrilling, sane, and logical.
It holds suspense to the final moment.
It does not glorify the criminal.
It shows the absolute futility of crime.
It has a charming vein of sentiment.
It is full of comedy that causes roars of laughter.
It illustrates modern methods for protecting the innocent and punishing the guilty.
It convinces by actual demonstration of scientific detective aids.

CHAPTER XXIX.
AN INTERRUPTION.

No sooner had the rough attendant removed the remains of the meal—the soup and rye-bread—than the heavy door was reopened.

The two prisoners stood up; again they expected this to be the summons to appear before the Duke.

Instead, a priest entered, with the usual guard behind him. He, however, immediately dispensed with this attendance, sending the soldiers into the passage, where the conversation could not be heard, unless conducted in very loud tones.

The priest came across to Captain Christopher. Stone liked the look of him; he had a kindly shrewd face, which seemed rather out of place in his present occupation, for he was Fra Pedro Alcara, keeper of the conscience of the iron-handed general-in-chief in the Low Countries, representing his Majesty of Spain.

Fra Pedro talked long and earnestly, first with Stone, then with Captain Flemyng. He had come on a hopeless errand, to try to persuade them to renounce what he regarded as their errors and be received into the bosom of the only true Church.

The Englishmen were both courteous and respectful to the priest, recognising in him sincerity and kindliness; a very different type of man from Father Anthony.

It was clear that if they were prepared to recant their errors some of the ignominy of their sentence would be abated, if not removed. The execution would not be preceded by a parade through the camp, and it would be conducted with due respect to their rank.

These overtures were, of course, met with an absolute negation.

Before leaving, after his fruitless errand, the confessor explained the cause of the delay. After writing his dispatches, the Duke of Parma had been informed that two of the largest barges, upon which he depended to convey his troops across the Channel, had sunk at their moorings. He had at once ordered his horse, so as to go and investigate, personally, the cause of this disaster, and to arrange, in company with the commodore of the boats, a plan by which the barges could be dragged up on to the shore and the mischief repaired.

As soon as the door had closed behind Fra Pedro, Flemyng laughed.

"That is the handiwork of friend Moses," he said. "He knows how to spring a leak in an enemy's boat as well as any man in England; at the same time he makes it appear as if the damage had been done by natural causes."

Shortly after two of the clock, as nearly as they could guess by the light overhead, they heard the sound of the tramp of horses. They guessed the Duke and his staff were returning.

The moments dragged out interminably. It was something of a relief when, at length, the suspense was over, and the guards—some twelve in number, with an officer at their head—came to conduct the prisoners into the trial chamber.

Their wrists and ankles were manacled, leaving the latter just enough space for the feet to move in a kind of shuffle. The chains, which had been about their middles, were removed.

Once more they were conducted into the great kitchen of the mill. It had been transformed in the meantime. At one end was a formidable-looking rack, with four attendants in readiness to set it in motion.

The walls on either side were lined with soldiers. The Duke was seated in the chair he had occupied before, but the table had been taken from the kitchen; instead there was a small one by the side of the Duke, at which was seated a notary, with parchments spread before him. He was engaged in cutting a quill pen, with apparent unconcern, but he shot a glance of curiosity nevertheless at the prisoners.

Stone, stripped to the waist, directly he entered the room, evoked glances of admiration for his fine physique from the soldiers, as well as from the notary at the table. Alva alone eyed him with lowering brow and malicious glance, yet he could on occasion display a more generous side. The lines, noted in the flare of the torches the previous night, were even more marked in full daylight.

Father Anthony stood, as before, just behind the Duke's chair. He, too, evinced no appreciation of the manliness which confronted him in Christopher Stone. His colourless face was like that of a statue, his eyes, intelligent as they were, betrayed no secrets of the brain at the back of them. It was a mask rather than a man, almost the mask of death.

In the fireplace huge logs flamed. Silence reigned except from the hissing sound which came from the fire. It was a tense moment, trying to the nerves even of the spectators.

At length the Duke spoke.

"You have resisted the affectionate ministrations of my chaplain and confessor. You have brought your fate upon your own heads." The words were dropped out one by one, with an intonation which revealed the dull anger in the Duke's mind.

He turned towards the bare-armed attendants on the instrument of torture, and was about to give a command. The words were arrested on his lips by the sound of loud knocking on the principal door, which opened on the courtyard outside.

Parma turned impatiently, and signed to the officer nearest to the door to open.

The Commodore of the fleet entered, his plumed cap in his hand; he bowed obsequiously to the Duke, who drummed with his knuckles on the arm of his chair.

"Another disaster?" he inquired irritably.

"No, your highness, but I come to inform you that an English fleet in in the offing, just beyond the range of our guns. Sir Francis Drake's flag, if I mistake not, is flying from one of the largest vessels. A boat has put off from it, and was about to land, when I left to inform your Excellency. It bears the flag of truce."

Parma did not answer immediately. He was pondering the matter.

Father Anthony bent over, and, in a whisper, which reached the ears of Christopher Stone, said:

"Surely there is time to get the first part over before the messengers can arrive."

The Duke shook his shoulders. "I can wait, I am not likely to be moved by anything these Englishmen may have to say. Doubtless they have come to plead for these spies, having heard they are in my hands. The harbour is too well guarded for the English ships to dare to attack."

"So it was at Cadiz," Stone put in quietly.

The Duke flushed, the colour mounting to his forehead, contrasting with the extreme pallor, the grey whiteness, which had been his characteristic before. Although he himself had been hundreds of miles away, the stigma of Drake's exploit had penetrated to the core of every Spanish soldier and sailor throughout the world.

He turned sharply, as if to give some order to the attendants by the rack. Then he apparently changed his mind, and waved to the guards to draw Stone further back, more out of his line of vision.

Christopher found himself rudely dragged close to the wall. When he had first entered the kitchen his eyes had been fascinated by the instruments of torture. To see a thing, to have it before you, knowing your own frame is to fit into it, is to realise the matter after a very different fashion from the way it presents itself when you merely hear it spoken about. Stone had not flinched, he had rather steeled himself to bear with fortitude whatever should betide, but the whole idea filled him with loathing, the thought of being made an object in front of these Spanish soldiers and the lackeys of the Duke—he, a well-born Englishman.

His remark had been made intentionally, not by accident, to let his enemies know that the attitude of the Duke of Parma, the preparations in the room, that other sequence which was to follow upon it, were all ineffective to daunt the spirits of the captives they had made.

Why did Parma hesitate to carry out his first intentions, to adopt the advice offered by Father Anthony? He was a man of tried courage, reckless of his life in battle, strong and resolute to plan and to act.

Yet, in a sense, he was afraid now. Perhaps no one, not even Nelson, has ever produced such a remarkable effect upon his adversaries as Sir Francis Drake had achieved in the great period of his life, when the Armada threatened the liberties of England. How much this had to do with what subsequently occurred in paralysing the courage, the efforts, of that fleet of Spanish ships, no one will ever know; that it was a factor in its defeat and destruction was recognised by every sailor from the Commander-in-Chief, Lord Howard of Effingham, down to the last seaman serving before the mast.

The name of the Admiral operated at this moment, whether Parma recognised it or not; it stayed his hand, it caused him to wait.

Once more there came loud knocks at the door. The Duke signalled permission to have it opened.

Four men entered. A little in front was a mere stripling, yet in the full uniform of a lieutenant in the service of the Queen of England. He bore a distinguished name, for he was the eldest son of Vice-Admiral Sir William Winter, and had already shown qualities which had caused Drake to offer him a position on the Revenge. Behind him came two warrant officers, and bringing up the rear the gigantic negro, whose reputation was only second to that of his master, the drummer who had given the signal for the final attack on Cadiz. He had an axe, of proportion suited to his huge frame, hanging loosely from his girdle; there was something sinister about it, something which suggested that, with that weapon in his hand, he could have mowed down the soldiers of the garrison as the sickle clears the field of its ripened grain.

Outside was a guard of a dozen English marine soldiers, who were not admitted to the kitchen, but remained in the courtyard.

Winter advanced towards the Duke of Parma and bowed profoundly three times; then his eye ranged round the room; he saw the instrument of torture, then his glance rested on the manacled prisoners.

"It seems, your highness, that I have arrived at a fitting moment!"

"Yet your errand is like to be abortive" —the Duke was answering the thought in Winter's mind, more than his actual words.

In response Winter drew from a pocket in the breast of his surtout a massive, sealed with the arms of the admiral. He held it out, and Parma took it from him.

The Duke broke the seal, and slowly examined the contents of the epistle.

Every man in the room watched him, wondering what the letter could contain; trying to imagine what effect it would have upon the duke, and what his answer might be.

So profound was the silence, so still the atmosphere of the room, that the sound of the tide, now at its full, came in through the unglazed windows. Did it speak of the English ships hovering near? Did it speak of that born fighter, who had entered the narrow neck of the harbour of Cadiz, and burnt every ship under the guns of its fortifications?

Parma rose and began to pace the apartment, all the middle of which was clear. Father Anthony looked on in intense wonderment, but even he did not dare to interfere with a word of advice, or to ask that he might be made acquainted with the contents of the missive.

The door had been left ajar when the party of Englishmen had entered; it was now pushed a little further open, the wizened face, monkey-like in its expression, of a man wearing a fisherman's cap, with the tassel cut in two, appeared in the opening.

At that moment the Duke in his pacing was not far from the door, so that the eyes of the assembly were directed the same way. Captain Tom Flemyng saw that face, that cut tassel, and, in spite of the tenseness of the situation, nearly laughed aloud.

"Moses" had come to witness the conclusion of his efforts; he it was who had dared to look through the grating of the prison, and to lower on to Stone's head his silent message, indicating that a friend was at hand. What he had achieved after that Flemyng could not conjecture, but he was sure that the coming of Lieutenant Winter and his following, the letter which Parma held in his hand, as if it burnt his fingers, were due in some mysterious way to the shrewd cunning and determined courage of this old comrade of the sea, who had sailed with the redoubted captain for more than twenty years.

The quick eyes of the seaman soon detected the place where his master was standing, half hidden by the files of soldiers. He put his hand to his cut tassel, and took it off with a gesture half of respect, half of satisfaction for what he had done, and the result which he felt already within his grasp. Then he placed his cap once more on the side of his head, put his hands on his hips, and watched the Duke of Parma, a malicious grin overspreading his features.

OUR NEW SERIAL.

"THE LURKING SHADOW."

Clive Hartridge lost his prospects and the girl whom he was to marry on the same day. That may not be an altogether unprecedented occurrence; but the circumstances were unusual in this case, for he lost the girl first and the prospects afterwards. Then he went away and bought an insurance for £1000 and tried to throw himself in front of a motor 'bus. That, in very few words, is the situation from which starts the new serial story, "The Lurking Shadow," by Alice and Claude Askew, which will commence in these columns on Wednesday next. The plot of the story becomes even more adventurous as it proceeds. Just as Clive Hartridge is preparing to rush to his death in the thick of the London traffic—a very easy matter in these days—he is seized firmly by the collar. He finds that a well-dressed, elderly gentleman in a motor car has been carefully watching him, and has guessed that he intended suicide. And the elderly gentleman happened to have a better use for Clive's life than he himself had. If the hero really wished to die, the elderly gentleman could give him something really worth dying for. What that something was, it is unnecessary to state here. The extraordinary adventures into which it led him; how he found one day what seemed to be a tobacco tin in the pocket of one of the coats in his room and then realised that there were wires attached to it, and that he had been within an ace of death; how he followed ghostly footsteps through the empty corridors of a certain castle at dead of night, when the very handle of one of the doors seemed to turn under his fingers whilst he held it; how there came across his path once more the girl from whom the incidents of the first chapter had separated him, and what happened at their meeting—these secrets and many more besides the reader will have discovered before he reaches the end of this interesting novel.

"MOLLY BAWN" AT THE PALACE.

The revival of "Molly Bawn" by the Allen Doone company, at the Palace Theatre on Saturday evening, proved a popular event. Early in 1913 this play was put on by the same combination.

Its plot is "old as the hills;" there is nothing in "Molly Bawn," as a whole, to suggest a story of real life. But, on the other hand, there are some situations in it just throbbing with genuine humour and pathos. These crises, indeed, acted with lifelike sincerity by the several principal characters, seem to give the play that realism which as a complete story it lacks. Lord Amherst, of Herst Royal, choleric, crafty, but yearning in his peevish senility for love, is the central puppet around which the story is constructed. Marcia Amherst and Phillip Shadwell are the wealthy old lord's designing niece and nephew. These two villains (the woman, of course, being the arch-conspirator) continue in the usual theatrical way to inherit the feeble old man's property. It is the advent of Molly Bawn, Lord Amherst's charming Irish granddaughter, that gives the conspirators opportunity for furtive whisperings and some malicious grimaces. They scheme mutually until a misunderstanding, caused by Shadwell's attraction for the sweetly coquettish Molly, leads to mutual distrust. Soon Shadwell secures his uncle's will in the absence of the guests at Herst Royal. Ted Luttrell, who has found in Molly Bawn his idol, appearing suddenly in the drawing-room, snatched the document from Shadwell. Molly runs in, Lord Amherst totters through the doorway—and Shadwell accuses Luttrell of stealing the will. The innocent man is banished from Herst Royal. His return later to reglimpse his "ideal," however, is followed by a conversation which Lord Amherst overhears in the next room. It reveals to him Shadwell as the real thief of the will; then follow happy reconciliation, and love-passages. But the villains are still at work separately to gain their object. A fancy-dress ball is in progress, Marcia, alone with her uncle, administers to the old fellow the fatal overdose of medicine. The old man dead, at last, the reading of the will in the last act reveals to the baffled villains Molly Bawn as the principal beneficiary.

Mr. Allen Doone acted the part of Ted Luttrell with easy grace and Irish good humour. His ingenuous wooing, softly affecting: "Won't ye be speakin' to me, Molly?" charmed the audience. And Miss Edna Keeley played to the life a saucy, insinuatingly sweet Irish girl, loving and being loved in spite of herself. "Molly's Eyes are Irish," one of the songs sung by Mr. Doone, introduced the two lovers in an especially touching love-scene. As the cadaverous-looking Lord Amherst Mr. Frank Cullenane sometimes overacted this gloomy character. Miss Ethel Grist endowed the figure of Molly's buxom maid with a soul of wit and superstition. Mr. Tom Buckley was silently mysterious as the Indian servant, Dimetri; and Mr. Onslow Edgeworth (as the ludicrous degenerate, Von Eithell), Miss Ethel Bashford and Mr. Clive Farnham (the two villains), Mr. J. Vincent White (as Amherst's lawyer) filled their roles suitably. In the fancy dress ball scene Mr. Doone introduced himself ingeniously in a circle of light as Robert Emmet, the Irish patriot. His recitation and the following chorus, "A Toast to Erin," gave the scene a distinctly Irish aspect, and the lines in which Emmet hoped Ireland would "one day take its place among the nations of the world," induced general applause in the audience.

Next Saturday Dion Boucicault's drama, "The Colleen Bawn," will be staged.

ITCHING OF ECZEMA HORRIBLE.

Mooroopna, Vic.—"I was suffering from an attack of eczema for about one month. The eczema affected my head, wrists, and ankles, and the itching was horrible. I could not get a good night's sleep for more than a week, and soon it came out on the part mentioned above in a scaly rash. I tried other ointments for a time, but they did not seem to do me any good. I saw the Cuticura Remedies advertised, and thought I would try the Cuticura Ointment, which I bought and applied as directed, and I am glad to say it has completely cured me after using two tins. (Signed) F. Chadaneau, November 24, 1913."

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of each, with 32-page Skin Book, will be mailed free on application, to R. Towns and Co., Dept. T., Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

CITY TATTERSALL'S.

AUTUMN MEETING.

CIDER WINS THE CUP.

AVERSE, THE DENMAN STAKES.

The autumn race meeting of City Tattersall's Club was held at Randwick on Saturday in glorious weather. There was a large attendance, estimated at about 25,000, and an interesting day's sport was witnessed, most of the finishes being close and exciting. The course and surroundings looked their best, having completely recovered from the wear and tear of the A.J.C. autumn meeting. The general arrangements, which were in the hands of Mr. Frank Walton, the club's secretary, were in every way satisfactory, and an ample tram service was provided, visitors being conveyed to and from the course with a minimum of discomfort. De Groen's Vice-Regal Concert Band, which was stationed on the lawn, played a programme of popular music during the afternoon.

THE RACING.

SOME CLOSE FINISHES.

The excellent bill of fare provided for the outing furnished high-class sport, the fields were of goodly proportions, and some remarkably close finishes were witnessed. With the exception of those incidental to racing over obstacles, the card was run through without serious mishaps, and there was very little to demand the interference of the stipendiary stewards. While taking part in the Hurdle Race North-east and Demand fell, and Hardy Bill parted company with his rider. E. Moon, who had the mount on North East, sustained a fracture of the collarbone, but the other riders and horses escaped injury. Iolite broke one of his fetlocks while taking part in the Club Welter, and was subsequently destroyed. The stipendiary stewards were called upon to decide on a protest for alleged interference in the final event, lodged by the trainer of Moonbria, and, after hearing evidence, declined to alter the judge's award. Speculation was very lively, but though a couple of favourites were successful, the victories of Cider in the Cup, Don Solvo in the Youthful Stakes, and Averse in the Denman Stakes, left a substantial margin of profit for the ringmen.

The Hurdle Race, with which proceedings commenced, attracted six of the half-score eligibles, and the New Zealander—Kopane—was in most demand when speculation opened, but he eased a trifle as the money came into the market, for his compatriot—North East—and Loughrea and the latter left the paddock at the head of the quotations half a point shorter than North East, while Hardy Bill was the outsider of the select party. Briarberry quickly assumed command, and with Hardy Bill and North East as his nearest attendants, and Kopane at the other end of the procession, set the pace until seven furlongs from home, where Hardy Bill parted company with his rider, leaving Briarberry still in the lead, with Loughrea as escort. Loughrea was up alongside Briarberry five furlongs from home, and the next obstacle brought down North East, while Kopane was hopelessly toiling in the rear. A little further on Loughrea shook off Briarberry, and the old son of War God, coming on, scored with consummate ease from Briarberry, who was headed by Demand as they came round the bend, but the latter toppled over the last obstacle, while Kopane was in the rear all the way.

The paddock withdrawals from the Denman Stakes were Polynesia, Clandora, Podaxon, and Ethel Buckley, leaving 17 to fight out the issue, and the race was regarded as very open. Despite his steadying burden, Gigandra was entrusted with most money, Gold Brew, Tofua, First Principle and Believo being next fancied, while Brattle, Averse, and Herringbone, each and all were well supported. Averse and Brattle on close terms made all the running; but, when fairly in line for home, Gold Brew came with a resolute run on the rails, headed Brattle at the half-distance, but failed to catch the imported mare by a short head in a most exciting encounter. The favourite was not well placed at any stage, and finished in a big bunch just in the wake of the placed horses, where Alfred Jackson, Believo, and First Principle were also conspicuous. Averse, who carried the livery of her owner (Mr. Fred. Merton), is an imported mare, by Orme from April Princess, by Ladas from Primrose, by Uncas from Mosque, by Pero Gomez. She is trained by P. T. Heywood for Mr. F. Merton, and last season won the V.R.C. Rothsay Trial Stakes at Flemington and the V.A.T.C. Rosny Plate at Caulfield.

A baker's dozen were stripped for the Novice Handicap, and Third Prize, an inmate of Barden's stable, was the popular selection, while Marchwood and Moringle had each a strong following, and the only other to receive much attention was Early Hope. Larelle set the pace for half the trip, and was then joined by Moringle, the favourite being at the head of the others. A little further on Larelle beat a retreat, leaving Moringle to conduct the favourite into the home stretch, where Marchwood took a hand in the game. Inside the distance Third Prize and Marchwood ran past Moringle, and the pair fought out a game battle in the run home, the favourite scoring by a very slight margin, while Stimulus filled the other situation. Third Prize is a five-year-old gelding, by imported Simile from First Prize, by Motto (son of Lochiel) from Prize, by Trenton, and was bred by his owner, "Mr. J. Baron."

The Youthful Stakes was responsible for a field of 21, the best fancied of whom was Maltster Lass, while Headwind and Queen Malt were also in good demand, and there was money for Garlin, Hopoast, Don Solvo, and Bobadine. The favourite never gave her party any hope, but Headwind ran prominently all the way, while Don Solvo, who was one of the first to find his legs, took charge soon after the rise of the barrier, was not afterwards headed, and won in a canter from the Queenslander—Hopoast—with Garlin in the other situation. Don Solvo, who is the property of the Victorian sportsmen Messrs. B. A. Armitage and P. T. Heywood, was bred by Messrs. W. and F. A. Mosse, and is by Earliston (imp.) from Solution (winner of the A.J.C. Metropolitan), by Soult (imp.) from Problem, by St. Hippo, and cost 800 guineas as a yearling. The winner is a stable mate of Averse, who secured the Denman Stakes.

The malcontents for City Tattersall's Cup were First Principle, Former, Brunnhilda, Marsinah, Counsel, and Podaxon, and the field was one short of two dozen. The race was regarded as very open when speculation commenced, but after a while the demand for Aurifer became so persistent that he rapidly hardened in the quotations, and at the rise of the barrier the best offer against the son of Flavius was 7 to 2, while, bar one, 10 to 1 was easily obtainable—Lochano, Believo, Atora, The Christian Brother, and Taunter figuring on that mark, Sunlike, Erungella and Sir Vive being the best backed of the others. The favourite was well served by the start, and he was among the leading division for the first half of the journey, but faded out of it half a mile from home, and had nothing to say in the latter stages. Owen Roe, with Beck's Lager in close company, set a sound pace to the bend, where the latter was done with, and the Queenslander came round the bend, with Offa, Believe, Erungella, and Britain in hot pursuit, while Cider and Sir Vive were making a forward move. Owen Roe faded out of it at the home turn, where Cider came through, escorted by Sir Vive, and The Christian Brother, who had been running in the ruck for the greater part of the trip, was making up his leeway in fine style. When the distance was reached Cider had full charge from Sir Vive, the nearest of his followers being Offa, Believe, and Sunlike. The field bunched up inside that point, and at the half-distance The Christian Brother and Sir Vive tackled Cider, and a splendid finish was fought out among the trio, the result being a neck win for Cider, from The Christian Brother, who had Sir Vive at his girths. Believe was just beaten out of a place. Atora was never in the hunt. Lochano shaped most disappointly, as did the unreliable Matouree, the pair finishing at the tail of the procession. Taunter was never sighted in the race, and though Sunlike threatened danger at the home turn, he failed when called upon to finish. The winner was bred by Hon. Agar Wynne, whose colours he carried successfully in a number of races, but was purchased last month by Mr. T. Scott for export to India. In the meantime he has remained in his old quarters, under the care of the Randwick trainer T. Payten, and has amply repaid the outlay of his new owner by capturing the richly endowed A.J.C. Allaged Stakes, which, with the prize for the Cup on Saturday, brings his winnings to about £2500. The Christian Brother made a bold bid for the prize, though badly served in the early stages, and Sir Vive's performance was also meritorious.

The form displayed by Moonbria at the A.J.C. meeting justified his position at the head of the quotations for the Club Welter in a field of 17, and for which St. Medoc and Maithusian also came in for sound support, while Blueberry, Marsinah, Virgilia, and Hobble Skirt had admirers at more expansive prices. Gibbergunyah set the pace for half the journey, and then retired, leaving Havard and Mandowa disputing the lead, and the former fading out of it at the bend, the favourite and St. Medoc escorted Mandowa into the straight. Mandowa was done at the distance, where St. Medoc got his head in front of Moonbria, and clear from their followers the pair had the finish to themselves. It was a most exciting encounter, in which St. Medoc had a slight advantage, and he just managed to secure the judge's verdict by a very small margin. On returning to scale the trainer of Moonbria lodged a protest against St. Medoc, on the ground of interference towards the finish, but after hearing evidence, the stipendiary stewards dismissed the objection. The winner is a Combadello-bred son of St. Alwyne (imp.), and Bridia (sister to Emlyn), by Wallace from mmie by Ribonson Crusoe. St. Medoc was purchased some time back by the local sportsman who races as Mr. J. Birks, for 900 guineas and this was his first contribution towards repayment. Moonbria, who made such a bold bid for success, is a New Zealand-bred half-brother (by Merriwee) to Noctuiform, who won the A.J.C. Derby, 1905, under the colours of the late Mr G. G. Stead.

The details of the racing are subjoined:—

Other starters: North East, 11st 10lb (E. Moon); Demand, 9st 4lb, inc. 4lb over (F. Cress); Hardy Bill, 9st (G. York).

Betting: 7 to 2 v Loughrea, 4 to 1 v North East, 5 to 1 each v Kopane and Demand, 6 to 1 v Briarberry, 25 to 1 v Hardy Bill.

They left in line, which was soon broken by Briarberry, who led over the first obstacle, with Hardy Bill, Demand, North East, Loughrea, and Kopane following in order. Without change they came round the bend and into the straight, Briarberry passing the judge's box for the first time a length and a half in advance of Hardy Bill, who was succeeded at four lengths' intervals by North East, Demand (who hit), and Loughrea, with Kopane eight lengths away last. At intervals of two lengths Briarberry, Hardy Bill, North East, and Demand turned out of the straight, and passed the nine furlongs post, and without alteration they passed the mile post, but Hardy Bill hit and jumped his rider out of the saddle at the obstacle near the seven furlongs post, leaving Briarberry a couple of lengths clear from Loughrea, after whom came North East and Demand, with Kopane 12 lengths away in the rear. In that order they raced along the back, and to the half-mile post, where Loughrea drew up level with Briarberry, and North East toppled over the obstacle. A little further on Loughrea headed Briarberry, and came round the bend with Demand and Briarberry in pursuit. Demand came to grief over the final obstacle, and Loughrea, coming on alone, won by 20 lengths from Briarberry, who was a similar distance in front of Kopane. Time, 3m 47⅘s.

Other starters: Gigandra, 10st 4lb (W. Black); Believo, 9st 11lb (R. Walker); Maltchester, 9st 6lb (F. Hickey); First Principle, 9st (W. Barnett); Tofua, 8st 2lb (A. Wood); Cool Air, 7st 11lb (J. Shanahan); Bellara, 7st 2lb (W. Callinan); Herringbone, 6st 12lb (J. Reynolds); Best Scot, 6st 7lb (W. M'Cabe).

Betting: 8 to 1 v Gigandra, 10 to 1 each v Gold Brew, Tofua, First Principle, and Believo, 12 to 1 each v Brattle, Averse, and Herringbone, 14 to 1 each v Sister Radius, Ryecroft, and Maltchester, 20 to 1 each v Cool Air, Lady Denman, and Alfred Jackson, 25 to 1 v Bellara, 33 to 1 v Best Scot.

From an excellent start Brattle, Maltchester, Cool Air, and Best Scot were the first to show out, while Sister Radius was last. At the end of the first furlong Averse came through and ranged up alongside Brattle, with Best Scot next, at the head of a big bunch, which included Herringbone, Alfred Jackson, and First Principle. With a slight advantage from Averse, Brattle came past the half-mile post, where the nearest of the others were Best Scot, Herringbone, and Alfred Jackson, and they were succeeded by Arrowborn, First Principle, and Bellara, with Tofua last. Without change they came round the bend, and Brattle and Averse almost on terms, swung into the straight, with Herringbone, Alfred Jackson, and Gold Brew in their wake. At the distance Averse and Brattle were still fighting it out in front, with Gold Brew on the rails coming through, followed by Alfred Jackson, Bellara, and Herringbone. Averse forged to the front at the half-distance, and just managed to get home by a short head from Gold Brew, who had Brattle at his heels. The placed horses were followed a length away, and almost in line, by Alfred Jackson, Bellara, Tofua, Gigandra, Believo, First Principle, and Herringbone, while Rymerhild and Maltchester were the last to get home. Time, 1m 13⅘s.

NOVICE HANDICAP, a handicap sweepstakes of 4 sovs each, with 200 sovs added. Second horse 10 sovs, and third horse 20 sovs from the prize. For all horses that have not won a race exceeding the value of 50 sovs at time of starting. 1m.

Betting: 5 to 2 v Third Prize, 7 to 2 v Marchwood, 9 to 2 v Moringle, 8 to 1 v Early Hope, 12 to 1 v Larelle, 20 to 1 each v others.

Larelle moved off in front, while Volcore was slow to get off. At the end of the first furlong Larelle was leading by a head from Child, after whom, on close terms, came Marchwood, Moringle, Third Prize, Miniva, and Stimulus. Moringle ran up near Larelle at the six furlongs post, Child was two lengths away, with Miniva, Third Prize, and Early Hope just in his wake. A little further on Moringle drew level with Larelle, and the pair passed the half-mile post a couple of lengths from Third Prize and Miniva, who were succeeded by Marchwood and Early Hope. Moringle took charge as they came round the bend, from Third Prize, Larelle, and Marchwood, and so they turned for home. Nearing the distance Third Prize and Marchwood ran past Moringle, and from the half-distance the leading pair, clear from Stimulus, fought out a great finish, Third Prize commanding the judge's attention, by half a head, with Stimulus a length and a half away third. Then, after a gap of four lengths, came Miniva, Moringle, and Larelle, a length in front of Royal Time, Child, and Early Hope, and they were succeeded, after an interval of four lengths, by Lord Lucan and Vif, with Fondo and Volcore bringing up the rear. Time, 1m 41s.

Betting: 4 to 1 v Maltster Lass, 5 to 1 v Headwind, 6 to 1 v Queen Malt, 10 to 1 each v Garlin, Hopoast, and Don Solvo, 12 to 1 v Bobadine, 14 to 1 each v Little and Giru, 20 to 1 v Herbie, 25 to 1 each v others.

Queen Malt, Little, and Don Solvo were smartest off the mark, but when they had settled into their places Don Solvo took charge and passed the half-mile post a couple of lengths in advance of Headwind and Little, after whom, on close terms, came Herbie, Garlin, Quairneta, and Hopoast, with Berangle last. Don Solvo came round the bend with Headwind, Little, Maltster Lass, Garlin, and Hopoast in pursuit, and so they swept into the straight. Well clear from his followers at the distance Don Solvo came on and won by five lengths, Hopoast, who beat Garlin by a head for second place, Little was a head away fourth, with Quairneta, Headwind, and Royal Alice at his heels; then, after a gap, came Toast and Bell Heather, with Maiala whipping in. Time, 1m 9⅘s.

Betting: 7 to 2 v Aurifer, 10 to 1 each v Lochano, Believe, Atora, The Christian Brother, and Taunter, 12 to 1 v Sunlike, 14 to 1 each v Erungella and Sir Vive, 16 to 1 each v Owen Roe and Kilmeadon, 20 to 1 each v Cider, Limelight, and Sir Alwynton, 33 to 1 v Matouree, 50 to 100 to 1 each v the others.

Sunlike, Aurifer, and Offa broke the long line of colours, while The Christian Brother, Limelight, and Simon Prisco were the last to get going. When fairly settled down Owen Roe took charge from Aurifer, Beck's Lager, Britain, and Matouree, after whom came Lochano and Cider, and so they turned out of the straight, and ran along the side. When they reached the mile post Owen Roe and Beck's Lager were disputing the lead, a couple of lengths in advance of Aurifer, Offa, and Britain, who were succeeded by Sunlike, Erungella, and Lochano. Without material alteration they raced along the back stretch and to the five furlongs post, where Owen Roe and Beck's Lager were still disputing the lead, with Britain at their girths, and he was closely followed by Cider, Aurifer, Offa, Erungella, and Sir Vive. Beck's Lager melted out of it as they came round the bend, where Offa moved up next Owen Roe, and they were pursued by Cider, Believe, Erungella, and Britain. Cider came through as they swept into the straight, followed by Sir Vive, Offa, Believe, and The Christian Brother, and at the distance Cider had charge from Sir Vive, Offa, and Believe, with The Christian Brother coming very fast, but the last-named, finishing with great resolution, failed to catch Cider by a neck. Sir Vive was half a length away, closely followed by Believe and Charleville, then succeeded Marcuffus, Sir Alwynton, Atora, and Delorium, after whom came a bunch which included Offa, Erungella, Limelight, and Kilmeadon, with Lochano at the tail of the main body, and Matouree six lengths away in the rear. Time, 2m 2⅘s.

Blueberry moved off in front, but at the end of the first furlong Gibbergunyah was in charge from Havard, Claude Mimer, Mandowa, and Moonbria, with Voldon at the head of the others, and so they raced past the five furlongs, and until nearing the half-mile post, where Havard and Mandowa, on terms, ran past Gibbergunyah, and the trio were succeeded by Moonbria, Claude Mimer, and St. Medoc. Mandowa headed Moonbria inside that point, and the pair swung into the straight, followed by Marsinah. St. Medoc took command at the distance from Moonbria, and the pair fought out a most exciting finish, which resulted in a half-head win for St. Medoc from Moonbria, with Marsinah four lengths off third. Maithusian was a length away fourth, followed by Blueberry, Balranald, Mandowa, and Havard, with Voldon and Gibbergunyah at the tail of the hunt. Time, 1m 40⅘s.

LANE'S EMULSION Comes to Australia

The Great Remedy for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Catarrh, Whooping Cough, General Debility and Wasting Diseases. A wonderful tonic and strengthener. Doctors recommend it to their patients and use it in their own households. Thousands enthusiastically testify to the good derived from its use

For the past sixteen years Lane's Emulsion has been doing good in New Zealand. In every part of the Dominion its merits are extolled by all classes.

The history of the discovery of Lane's Emulsion is interesting, and will bear repeating. Like most good things it was the outcome of necessity, being originally prepared by the inventor, a graduate chemist of Oamaru, N.Z., for use by one of the members of his own family, and restoring him to perfect health, the Emulsion was brought under the notice of the medical profession. Doctors were supplied with the exact formula, and, to test its value, prescribed it in cases where there was need of such a medicine. It proved as curative in the hands of the physicians as in Mr. Lane's household. One person of course recommended it to others, and in this way the wonderful goodness of Lane's Emulsion became known and a demand for it was established. Its fame spread to Australia, and for several years there have been enquiries for it from all parts of the Commonwealth.

Mr. Lane is, therefore, placing it before the public in the full assurance of an appreciative reception for a sterling article of the highest possible merit.

Lane's Emulsion is on sale at most chemists and stores at 2/6 and 4/6 per bottle. The large bottle is the most economical as it contains double the quantity. If unobtainable in your district write direct to E. G. Lane, Box 864, G.P.O., Sydney, and we will see that you are supplied.

Lane's Emulsion is manufactured by E. G. LANE, Chemist, Oamaru, N.Z.

HEAD OFFICE—16 HUNTER-STREET, SYDNEY.

THE PRINCIPAL OBJECTS OF THE COMPANY.

The Company was formed to transact Assurance business, and has already developed three distinct Branches, viz.:—

(1) HOUSE PURCHASE ASSURANCE.
(2) INDUSTRIAL.
(3) ORDINARY LIFE AND ENDOWMENT.

HOUSE PURCHASE ASSURANCES.

The SIMPLE EXPLANATION of our House Purchase proposition is that a certificate of surrender value of Life Assurance Policies may be accepted in lieu of a cash deposit or margin of value in connection with advances made for the acquiring of a House in which the Policyholder intends to live.

THE COMPANY TAKES A SECURITY over the Policy which has to be kept in force by the assured as well as a first mortgage over the house and land, the two securities being collateral.

THE AMOUNT ADVANCED is repayable to the Company under one of a number of repayment Tables open to selection by the policyholder.

It will, therefore, be seen that the LIFE ASSURANCE and HOUSE PURCHASE DEPARTMENTS are to some extent interdependent, and that they reciprocate to the advantage of both.

THE DEMAND FOR LOANS to enable the more thrifty class to purchase or build a home is CONSTANTLY ON THE INCREASE, especially in the suburban areas of the Capital Cities of Australia.

THE COMPANY THEREFORE PROPOSES TO RAISE ADDITIONAL CAPITAL TO COPE WITH THIS INCREASING DEMAND.

At the 30th September, 1913, £21,887 of the Company's Capital was already invested in this House Purchase business, the loans averaging at that date about £420 each.

There are no mortgaged properties in the Company's possession by foreclosure, showing that the class of persons approved by the Company for House Purchase advances may be generally relied upon to repay with promptness and regularity.

Even the humblest worker in the Empire has a natural objection to living in Government institutions, barracks, or stereotyped dwelling houses.

THE HOUSE PURCHASE PLAN, which affords freedom of choice and absolute ownership, has become so popular that, according to its latest report, The Provident Association of London, Ltd., alone, has assisted its clients to build or purchase no less than 29,789 houses, and over 75 per cent. of its mortgages were for sums not exceeding £400; only a very trifling proportion of the properties have fallen into the hands of the Company in question.

INDUSTRIAL BRANCH.

The Industrial Branch has received very careful attention, and an excellent system has been inaugurated. The first cost of new business is always very heavy, and the weekly collection of premiums by Agents calling from house to house throughout Sydney and Suburbs, involves a good deal of expense in the matter of supervision and record.

The expense ratio of this Branch has been steadily reduced from month to month, and the business written is remaining in force fully as well as was anticipated. The death claims have been very light indeed. So far, Industrial business has not been transacted by this Company outside New South Wales.

ORDINARY LIFE AND ENDOWMENT ASSURANCES.

OUR ORDINARY DEPARTMENT, which is more closely allied to the House Purchase Branch, has produced an excellent proportion of the whole volume of business written, and shows a splendid average production of new business from month to month.

PREMIUM RATES AND REDEMPTION TABLES.

Mr. T. W. Bremner, F.F.A., A.I.A., Consulting Actuary, of Martin-place, Sydney, has certified to all the tables of Rates in use, both in the Insurance and Investment Departments.

FURTHER ISSUE OF SHARES.

In order to have all Australia directly interested in the work and progress of the Company, a certain number of shares were reserved for each State.

Following this idea, it is proposed to offer 50,000 Shares FOR SUBSCRIPTION IN VICTORIA, 50,000 IN WESTERN AUSTRALIA, 50,000 IN QUEENSLAND, A FURTHER 35,000 IN NEW SOUTH WALES, AND AN ADDITIONAL 30,000 IN SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

AUSTRALASIAN LIFE ASSURANCE LAWS.

APPENDIX.

AUDITORS' REPORT.

In their report, dated 27th October, 1913, the auditors, Messrs. F. J. SMITH and JOHNSON, Public Accountants, of Moore-street, Sydney, say:—

"The substantial increase in the revenue and the decreased rate of expenses are satisfactory features in the progress of the young company, and give rise to the expectation that next year's figures will be even more successful."

"In conclusion, we have to report our entire satisfaction with the keeping, recording, and filing of the books, vouchers, accounts, etc., of all departments."

THE AUSTRALIAN INSURANCE AND BANKING RECORD of 21/11/'13 says:—

"That there is plenty of room for a new Company like the 'Co-operative' is beyond question, and as far as we can judge, ITS MANAGEMENT IS INTELLIGENT AND SHREWD."

"Much of the Capital has necessarily been invested in the foundation expenses of the Company, but that was only to be anticipated. The Report in all material respects is an informative one. The steps taken to promote the operations of the Company in Australia and New Zealand are clearly stated. Much organisation work has been accomplished, and the fruition has now to be enjoyed."

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

WHERE FARMERS FAIL.

No line of work has been more abused by lack of system than farming. In many cases the great fertility of the soil has made large crops possible with a minimum of cultivation. Farmers have often in the past gone to their work with little appreciation of the value of good management. They have looked upon the systematic keeping of accounts and a closer study of their business as something unnecessary, and not in keeping with the kind of work they do. These things are, however, gradually changing for the better, and the farmers of to-day are beginning to recognise the necessity for system, in dairying at least.

Perhaps nothing has tended more to demonstrate this fact than the herd-testing movement, which is making steady progress in the northern dairying districts. When business methods are applied to this branch of farming the farmer discovers how much more valuable his labours become. It is good management and system in farm work that will reclaim many neglected holdings one sees in different parts of the State, that will make apparently unproductive areas profitable, and that will increase the earning capacity of farm land everywhere. Business farming makes it possible for the farmer to know what each crop is costing him, and to know what each animal in the dairy herd is costing and returning; to know, in point of fact, just what profits he may reasonably expect from any of the departments of his farm. Greater profits must lie in reduced cost of production rather than in the hope of greater selling prices. The latter will vary from time to time, but the safe system of increasing the income is by systematising the cost of production. The true principle of good farming is to get as large a return as possible, at the same time maintaining, if not increasing, the fertility of the soil. Carting to market all the crops grown on the farm means also removing the fertility of the soil, and such a system must end in depletion. To maintain fertility the raw products must be converted into milk and meat, and the by-products returned to the land as manure. Farming, no more than any other business, can be conducted successfully by draining upon the capital. To obtain the best results fallowing and rotation of crops must be adopted. Deep and shallow rooting plants should be grown alternately, and one of these should be a legume, which ensures a supply of nitrogen in the soil. Takeall, it is contended, can be prevented by a proper system of rotation. If, as in green manuring, the whole of the plant is returned to the soil, the gain is represented by just so much material as is obtained from the air. When, however, it is fed to farm animals, a large percentage of the dry matter reappears as manure, and the balance is used in the animal functions and tissue of the stock. System and good management, indeed, raise the farmer to the level of the successful business man. It will put better fences on the land, better stock in the stables, more comforts in the home, better barns and silos upon the farm, and more money in the farmer's pocket.

BETTER PLOUGHING.

Speaking at the opening of the Bathurst Show, the Minister for Agriculture impressed upon the farmers the necessity for better ploughing, irrigation, and the use of better seed. The advance in irrigation methods is shown by the steady progress at the Yanco area; and the desirability of pure and unadulterated seed has been insisted upon in these columns on more than one occasion. The subject of better ploughing, which is the essence of all tillage, is perhaps the most important of the three factors mentioned. The thought should be uppermost in the mind of the farmer that his success depends entirely upon the power of the land he cultivates to produce good crops. Any practical agriculturist knows from experience that even a good class of land will not grow first-class crops without proper cultivation, no matter how rich the soil may be in plant food. An inferior soil will often produce fairly good results, providing the tillage is all that it should be; simply because the plant food in a well cultivated soil is rendered available for the crop instead of being locked up in the turf and clods, as is the case with an insufficiently cultivated soil. The methods of land working or soil tillage may differ greatly for various soils and crops over various areas, but the principles are the same. The soil, as a whole, is simply a factory in which are stored various combinations of elements that Nature changes into articles of finished and attractive form. An average of 90 per cent. of the weight of all cultivated soils is insoluble matter—sand, silt, clay, and loam—particles which hold in more or less available form the chemical constituents of plant food—ammonia, phosphoric acid, and potash. The farmer must, therefore, consider his work as a manufacturer that seeks to make the most of the sources of raw material in the soil. Nature, left to herself, can make much from the soil; but Nature was never able to produce in either plant or animal what man by his genius can produce by understanding and combining the forces and material of Nature.

Farmers, therefore, cannot be too careful in the treatment of the soil. This is as important as cultivating crops. It is no new idea in agriculture that soil can be so treated that good crops may be secured, and, at the same time, the land fertility increased, or, at least, not impaired. Good farming consists of producing heavy yields without impairing the power of the soil to reproduce heavy yields. It must not be assumed that the application of artificial manures will relieve the farmer of the responsibility of thorough cultivation. There are some who appear to think that heavily-manured crops do not require the same amount of tillage as unfertilised crops. As a matter of fact, heavy dressings of manure cannot be used at a full profit without preparatory tillage.

The plough is the forerunner of all implements, and the mainstay of thorough cultivation—therefore, the ploughing should receive careful attention. If we fail to plough the land carefully, we neglect the most important feature in the preparation of the land for a crop; whereas, if thoroughly ploughed at an even depth, other implements can also do good work, and the crop will grow more evenly than if badly ploughed.

Many consider that as long as the surface is turned over it is immaterial whether the work is done evenly or otherwise. Others, however, more experienced in cropping, will, no doubt, have noticed that a field ploughed roughly, or one that has been roughly disced after ploughing, has practically the same effect. The soil is left, more or less, in ridges. Where this is so, there is a greater depth of the rich surface soil in some parts than in others—in other words, the soil is taken from certain parts and heaped upon the other parts, thus leaving the well-ventilated or sweetened soil very unevenly distributed. The consequence is the crop will grow better on the ridges, where there is an abundance of plant food and a greater area for root development, while in the hollows the foliage will wear a more starved or stunted appearance.

It is, therefore, apparent that if an even crop is expected, it is essential that the land should be well ploughed and afterwards well cultivated. Atmospheric nitrogen is composed chiefly of nitrates and ammonia, and reaches the soil dissolved in rain or in other meteoric formed water, such as snow, hail, fog, or hoar frost, etc. It is also absorbed by the soil from the air, especially when the soil is in a damp condition. Therefore, soil that has been thoroughly cultivated is in a better position to draw and retain atmospheric nitrogen—hence the necessity for perfect cultivation.

PEACH TIP MOTH.

The information which was given in answer to a correspondent in Saturday's issue in reference to the fruit pest known as the peach tip moth will doubtless be of considerable interest to orchardists in the county of Cumberland. The pest has been found to be troublesome in the past in the suburban districts between Parramatta and Ryde. One of the inspectors of the department, who has been devoting special attention to peach culture, has discovered that it also attacks nectarines badly, plums and apricots slightly, and occasionally apples and quinces.

The life-history of the pest may be briefly given. The moth lays its eggs on the young tender shoots. When the grub hatches it eats its way down the centre of the shoot until it is fully developed, at which stage it eats its way out through the side, and seeks to shelter and pupate. The top of the shoot then droops over and dies off, as if it were scalded. When stone fruit is attacked the grub eats its way into the green fruit, sometimes before it is half grown, and causes the gum to exude and stick bunched fruit together. When it is the limbs that are attacked the gum oozes out at the end of the affected branch, and causes a gummy swelling. In the case of quinces and apples, the attack is chiefly on the fruit, and the number of grubs vary from one to half a dozen. Unlike the codlin grub, the peach tip grub is not satisfied with eating the pips, but riddles the fruit through, leaving it worthless. The larvae of the peach tip moth take shelter in bandages just as readily as the codlins do, and the inspector referred to estimated that last season two-thirds of the grubs he took out of many of the bandages on apple and quince trees were the larvae of this moth.

As the Government entomologist pointed out in the "answer" we gave on Saturday, it is too late to do anything with affected trees just now, except to cut out and destroy all the infested wood. Spraying with arsenate of lead when the grubs first appear, and later bandaging the tree trunks, examining the bandages now and then, and destroying the grubs, should tend to keep the pest in check.

RAILWAYS AND AGRICULTURE.

A number of the railroad companies in the United States are maintaining experimental farms to demonstrate to agriculturists the value of fertilisation, combined with intelligent cultivation. The manufacturers of commercial fertilisers, with an eye to business expansion, keep in close touch with this department of the American railroads, and extend every assistance towards the education of the farmer in this direction. The railroad companies know that the prosperity of the primary producer means a larger tonnage in freight, just the same as they recognise that every ton of commercial fertiliser hauled means an additional tonnage of produce to be sent to the markets. The example of the American railway companies is a commendable one, and is worthy of the notice of our railway department, where the farmers' interests have in the past been too often neglected, and preference shown to the importation of produce. The cheap and regular distribution by rail of fertilisers and feeding stuffs is sure to be followed by an increased quantity of agricultural produce to be carried on the railways.

INVERELL.

AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT.

GREAT PRODUCING CENTRE.

The fact that the whole of the produce forming the winning district trophy at the Royal Agricultural Show was drawn from within 25 miles of Inverell directs attention to the class of country from which it was produced, and the conditions prevailing therein. Inverell is situated on the head-waters of the McIntyre River, just above the confluence of Swan Creek. The country is nicely undulating, ranging about 2000 feet above sea-level. The river banks have an elevation of about 1900 feet, and the highest of the hills around is only some 400 feet higher. The soil may be roughly divided into three different classes, viz., a rich deep black loam, a lighter red soil, and alluvial. Experience has shown that the necessary constituents for all-round vegetable growth are particularly well balanced, for, excepting on some of the lighter red soils which have been worked for 30 years or more, none of the usual artificial fertilisers have produced any apparent effect on the succeeding crops, and even on the worn lighter lands the effect is slight. From this it would seem that good cultivation, judicious rotations, and the occasional feeding off of crops are all that are needed to maintain the soil in a highly productive condition for many years to come. The rainfall averages 3021 points per annum. The distribution conduces to a double season, the ample winter and spring precipitation being favourable for wheat, oats, and barley, and the later summer rainfall for maize.

Like many other thriving agricultural districts in the State, Inverell first attracted outside attention because of its mineral wealth. Immediately south lies a large mineral field, from which, amongst other products, diamonds, silver, and particularly tin, have been produced in profitable quantities. The centre of the tinfield is Tingha, 16 miles to the south-east. Inverell seems to have come into notice towards the end of the sixties, when the land was cut up into town lots and suburban holdings, the latter from 10 to 70 acres in area. Although many suburban holdings and selections had been taken up in the district, the bulk of the land, and particularly of the rich black soils and alluvials, was held in big areas, one or two of which came close up to the town. The opening of the railway from Moree led to the first Government resumption of large estates under the Closer Settlement Act, viz., Myall Creek, about 1903. This led to an influx of outside settlers, who brought fresh capital into the district, built substantial homesteads, and introduced improved farming methods. Now Myall Creek, which includes Mount Russell, Little Plains, Delungra, and Gragin Siding, is one of the finest farming areas in the district. This was followed by the voluntary subdivision of Gunnee, an adjacent large holding. The resulting farms ranged up to 2000 acres, which allowed of mixed farming, including the cultivation on a large scale of both wheat and maize, and the keeping of sheep. These portions of the Inverell district were largely representd in the trophy at the Royal Show. Then came the subdivision of Bannockburn on similar lines. Byron Station was next cut up, and so great was the demand that the whole of the farms were sold in a single day. Auburn Vale Station, which came to within two miles of the town, was then subdivided, nearly all being sold in one day, while the balance of the subdivision was taken up later. A large area of Inverell Station was sold in lots privately as buyers came along. This latter resulted in the whole of the land immediately surrounding the town being broken up. Prices for these later subdivisions ranged up to £5 and £6 per acre.

This cutting up of the big estates into farms had a wonderful effect. It brought to the district large numbers of men well supplied with capital, and equipped with the necessary energy and knowledge to make farming pay. To the contingent South Australia contributed a large quota. On the greater portion of the subdivisions the timber was already killed, and the new settlers speedily cleared this off, and in a very short time had large areas under cultivation for wheat and maize, depastured well selected flocks of merino and crossbred sheep, established dairy farms, and planted the flats, and even the hillsides, with lucerne.

Another large holding in the neighbourhood was not subdivided. This is the Arrawatta Estate, the fame of which has now spread over the whole of the Commonwealth. The owner, Mr. T. Bowling, set about to develop it as a large dairy farm. As a result there are now on the estate seven large dairies, each fully equipped with up-to-date buildings, including a large hay shed and from two to three silos. Some 2000 acres are planted with lucerne, besides which large areas are cultivated for wheaten and oaten hay and maize for silage. Each dairy has also calf pens, pigsties, and feeding stalls, and there is a beautiful central cheese factory, from which a splendid quality of cheese is turned out in large quantities, which find a ready sale. In addition, Mr. Bowling has leased the Dunalpine Estate, on which a similar transformation is being effected, several hundred acres having been put down to lucerne, and three further dairies established.

The effect of the subdivisions and of the development of the Arrawatta and Dunalpine estates upon the town has been marvellous. In population (6000) it is only surpassed on the north-western slopes and northern tablelands by Tamworth and Armidale, which have 8000 and 6500 respectively, while taking in the surrounding country it is distinctly ahead of both. It is estimated that there are no less than 20,000 acres under lucerne in the district, and the area is rapidly increasing. It is not confined to the alluvial flats, and it would appear that the legume may be profitably grown in any part of the district.

Inverell has established an enviable reputation for wool, which as far back as 40 years ago was exhibited at the Sydney Royal Show by Mr. Butler, who is still engaged in the woolgrowing industry. Of late years this industry has largely developed along the line of crossbreds, Lincolns, Leicesters, and Romneys, together with Shropshires and other Down breeds, having been used in crossing. The country is eminently suited for fattening lambs, but unfortunately the long railway journey (509 miles) to Sydney is a heavy handicap, owing to the loss of weight en route. This is the more tantalising when it is remembered that the air-line distance is little more than half as much, and after journeying over a hundred miles the traveller is still as far from Sydney as when he started. At the same time the railway west to Moree opens up a large market for Inverell chaff, flour, potatoes, and fruit, and with the completion of the Mungindi line this will be still further extended.

Fruit is a very important item of Inverell production, and includes a great variety. One grower has no less than 600 acres of orchard. His harvest commences with cherries in early November, and the output continues without a break with apricots, peaches, plums, apples, citrus fruit, and loquats right round to the following winter. This, too, finds its principal market to the westward.

Inverell people contend that the main northern railway line should have been west of the existing route through Manilla and Inverell, as it would have tapped a much greater extent of good country than the route adopted, without materially increasing the distance travelled. They now ask that the present anomally be abolished by a connection with the northern line and the north coast. There are rival routes, one to Glen Innes, with a connection between Tenterfield and Casino, and the other via Guyra and Dorrigo to Coff's Harbour. The former would open up the rich dairying districts of the North Coast, with Lismore as its capital, for Inverell flour, milk offals, mutton, and lamb, of which the dense population of the northern rivers are greatly in need, and which are at present supplied from inland districts via Sydney, besides providing a port at Byron Bay. This route would also open up the Brisbane market. When these connections are made, the Inverell district is bound to increase in importance, and cannot fail to become a producing centre unsurpassed in the State.

AGRICULTURAL PROGRESS.

SOM INTERESTING FIGURES.

The Minister for Agriculture gave some interesting particulars during his visit to the Bathurst show, relative to the progress of the district and the State generally. When the Bathurst A. H. and P. Association held its first show 51 years ago, the pastoral industry had already attained to considerable importance, the sheep flock of the State then numbering 5,000,000 head, as compared with 40,000,000 during the year ended March, 1913. Relatively, the cattle industry was then of more importance than it is now but the allurements of the golden fleece soon put the cattle in the shade. The three sheep for every head of cattle then grazed have so increased that there are now 13 sheep for every head of cattle. The 2,000,000 cattle have now increased to just over 3,000,000, while horses have gone up from 263,000 to 716,000. Crop farming in the days of the commencement of the association was of little account in comparison witr the present day operationse. The crop area was only 307,000 acres, as compared with the record of 3,737,000 for the year ended March, 1913, these figures showing a twelve-fold increase. The population of the State was then only 400,000, so that the crop area represented not more than three-quarters of an acre per head. The March, 1913, crop, with a population of 1,809,000, represented more than two acres per inhabitant. The Government Statistician's figures for this year are not available, but it is known that the wheat area alone is so great that it may be set down at 4,500,000 acres by the end of March next year. Taking a mean annual average for the five years 1908-13, the total value of each year's production from all the agrarian industries of the State was £36,375,000, as compared with an annual average of £28,256,000 for the preceding five years, 1904-8. The value of crop farming production, with apiculture and poultry added, was a mean average of £12,054,000, during 1904-13, as against an average of £8,241,000 for 1904-8. The area under crop in the county of Bathurst has increased from 110,000 acres to 133,000 acres during the last ten years, mainly at the Cowra end. In the two immediately adjacent counties of Forbes and Ashburnham, the increase in the same period has been from 181,000 acres to 326,000 acres.

IRRIGATION FARMS.

SUSPENSION OF RESIDENCE.

The Minister for Lands recently announced that in his capacity of Minister for Irrigation, he had approved of the policy of suspension of the residence clause attached to irrigation leases, under certain specified conditions, which require an expenditure of a sum of not less than £3 per acre per annum on the total irrigable acreage of his farm, exclusive of the value of homestead, and any improvements by the Commissioner which are paid for over a term of years. The residence clause will only be suspended, and residence will have to be performed at a later date, in accordance with the law. Everything is now in readiness to carry out the new proposal.

There will really be two propositions—(1) Where the settler will make his own arrangements in his absence to have his farm carried on for him; (2) where, a contract being entered into between the Commissioner and the holder of the farm, the Commissioner will carry on a farm for a period not greater than five years for the lessee. The settler who desires his farm carried on by the Commissioner will be restricted in his choice to those farms which are specially set aside for the purpose, which will be made available in adjoining lots of perhaps 20 or 30 farms. Pamphlets are now available for those persons desiring them, which set out the details of the scheme and give particulars of the costs which will be incurred by a settler who desires his farm carried on for him by the commission. These pamphlets may be obtained at the office of the commission, 29 Elizabeth-street, Sydney. A batch of the farms have been gazetted, and will be available for application on the 6th proximo. The farms number sixteen and range in acreage from 25 to 61 acres. Contract forms and specifications are being prepared by the Commissioner for Water Conservation and Irrigation, so that an intending settler will know exactly his obligations, and also the obligations of the Commissioner.

FLY AT COONAMBLE.

COONAMBLE.—Mr. E. W. Procter, stock inspector, reports that the fly trouble amongst the sheep is only patchy this year. Some parts so far are free from it, whilst on other holdings crutched sheep are attacked.

THE LAND LAWS.

SUGGESTED AMENDMENTS.

PARKES.—At the meeting of the Farmers and Settlers' Association resolutions dealing with the land laws were adopted. Amongst the amendments asked for are that the provision allowing improvements in lieu of rent for the first five years, now granted in the case of homestead farms, be made applicable to suburban holdings and Crown leases; that provision for relaxation, suspension, or remission of residence, now allowed on other tenures, be applied to homestead farms, Crown leases, or suburban holdings; that the interest charged under the Closer Settlement Act should not exceed 4 per cent., and that in any conversion of homestead selection, settlement lease, or special lease into an original holding the transferee shall be entitled to the benefit of any residence fulfilled by the previous holder or holders in respect of the titles held prior to such conversion. It was also decided to protest against the imposition of a super-tax.

MEETINGS OF FARMERS.

COONAMBLE.—At a meeting of the committee of the P. and A. Association, Mr. J. P. Murray was appointed treasurer, vice Mr. E. A. Barnett resigned. Entries are coming in freely for the show, and expected to establish a record.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

COONAMBLE.—Mr. Peter Ferguson, of Gulargambone station, has purchased for the district, 32 pure-bred Polled Angus heifers.

CASINO.—Notwithstanding the dry weather conditions prevailing early in the season, the Casino Show, which opens on Wednesday next, has received liberal treatment. The first batch of entries, which closed last Saturday night, totalled 2207. This number will be considerably augmented by late entries, which are still being received. Particulars of the entries in the various sections are:—Horses 655, cattle 256, pigs 42, poultry 278, dogs 53, farm produce 274, horticulture 109, prepared foods 226, arts and crafts 191, apiculture 5, school work 71, manufactures 21, non-competitive 11, sheep 13; total 2207.

DELEGATE.—At the annual meeting of the delegate branch of the Farmers and Settlers' Association, the officers were elected as follow:—President, Mr. A. H. Wright; vice-presidents, Messrs. C. Hayden and H. T. Allen; secretary, Mr. C. Allen; treasurer, Mr. G. B. Walcott; auditors, Messrs. C. Hayden and S. Martin. Messrs. A. H. Wright and J. Drummond were appointed delegates to the annual conference.

LISMORE.—In an effort to secure a shorter outlet for settlers' produce and avoid delays caused to ferries further up the river by the water hyacinth, the Gundurimba Shire is approaching the Austenbar Council to co-operate in a scheme for establishing a ferry at Broadwater.

NARROMINE.—The recent rains have been very beneficial in this district. A number of crops are well above the ground, and appear to be very healthy. Others are just beginning to show, while in places sowing is taking place, and the land is also being ploughed up for the later crops. There is an abundance of feed everywhere, and a good supply of water for the stock. The prospects for the winter are very encouraging.

PARKES.—The past week's rainfall, averaging nearly two inches for the district, has proved most beneficial. Seeding operations are now in full swing, and the area under crop will be considerably increased this year.

DAIRYING.

ULMARRA.—The Clarence River Pioneer Dairy Company, Ulmarra, manufactured 96 tons of butter last month. Suppliers received /10½ per lb net for first-class, and a penny per lb less for second-class butter. The output of butter was the largest for the present season. Four hundred and eighty-four pigs were treated during the month. The total pay for butter and pork was £11,000.

The Department of Agriculture exhibited samples of wheat, oats, barley, rye, and grasses. There were also grains, cow peas, potatoes, and fresh and preserved fruits. The display attracted keen interest. The chief features were the grand parade, which proved highly interesting and attractive, and a sports programme. The chief events resulted:—

A COUGH-MIXTURE RECIPE WORTH HAVING.

A BIG MONEY-SAVER.

BY A QUALIFIED CHEMIST.

If fourpence were lying on the footpath what would you do—leave it there or put it in your pocket?

Every time you pay eighteenpence for a bottle of family cough remedy you really pay fourteenpence more than your need to.

That's a fact thousands of thrifty Australian people are proving every day. And you can prove it straight away by trying this Hean's Essence recipe.

Into a jug put four teaspoonfuls of sugar, three of treacle, two of vinegar, and a large breakfastcupful of warm water. Stir till dissolved, pour into a big bottle, add one bottle of Hean's Essence, and shake all together.

This gives you a pint of the finest family cough remedy you can possibly buy. It means about eight eighteenpenny bottles for the price of one. In other words, an eighteenpenny bottle costs you less than fourpence. A tremendous and worth-while money-saving you will admit.

The mixture thus made in your own home is good for grandparents and grandchildren—and all the ages in between. Give from a few drops to a spoonful, according to age. It is a splendid remedy for now coughs or old coughs. It quickly relieves the coughs of asthma, bronchitis, influenza, croup, and even whooping-cough. Use it as a gargle for sore throats, and relief is instant. It lasts a long time, and never spoils.

This Hean's Essence recipe is so easy to make, is so good, and saves such a lot of money that it is now quite popular in thousands of New Zealand and Australian homes.

Hean's Essence is sold by chemists, but if yours does not yet stock it he can easily procure it from his wholesaler for you. It is regularly sold by Anthony Hordern and Sons', Pattinson's, Lassetter's, M'Ilrath's, or post free on receipt of price, 2/, from G. W. Hean, 178 Castlereagh-street, Sydney. Whatever you buy, be sure you get Hean's, as no other will do.—Advt. 12.

MOTOR TRIALS.

COLLISION WITH HORSES.

FINAL STAGE.

Something of a surprise was created in motoring circles on Saturday evening, when out of a field of 12 competitors who on Friday morning started from Sydney in the two days' reliability touring contest of the Automobile Club of Australia, only seven completed the 281 miles course to Goulburn and return.

The contest at the outset was looked upon more as a pleasure jaunt than a trial, and on account of the easy stages and reported good condition of the roads the officials anticipated a difficulty in eliminating a winner. However, two competitors, Messrs. H. R. Schwartz and R. A. Pye—as reported in Saturday's "Herald," failed to reach Goulburn under the ascribed conditions, on Friday, and Saturday's run of 152 miles from Woolongong to Sydney, via Moss Vale, Albion Park, Wollongong, Bulli, and Appin saw the withdrawal of three more competitors—Messrs. C. O. Sherwood, R. G. Todman, and Arthur Kidman. On this stage Mr. R. Gowing spoiled his clean reliability score through a leaking water joint, while Mr. Stroud, through lubricating his engine out of control, lost additional points to those penalties which he incurred on Friday.

The successful competitors to drive over the entire route without losing any points for reliability were:—Mr. Paul Meyer (12-60-h.p. Benz), Mr. R. A. Carter (15.46-h.p. Crossley), Mr. Boyd Edkins (19.71 Vauxhall), Mr. C. B. Bradley (23.90-h.p Empire), Mr. A. V. Turner (25.69-h.p. Benz).

FINDING A WINNER.

The absolute winner of the contest will not be known until the roads and tours committee of the promoting club has met on Monday evening, and computed the points scored by competitors in the petrol consumption test. Beyond the results of the two hill-climbing contests which appeared in Saturday's "Herald" and the reliability scores, no official data is available. At a late hour on Saturday evening Mr. H. C. Morgan, the club secretary, was stranded in a broken down car near Appin, with the official papers in his possession, and this accounted for the result not being announced earlier.

An unofficial calculation which was made at the club rooms as a result of telephonic communication on Saturday evening, however, places Mr. Reg. A. Carter in first place, with Mr. Paul Meyer a close second. It is expected that the third place will be filled either by Mr. Boyd Edkins or Mr. A. V. Turner. Although Mr. Meyer won both hill-climbing contests outright, and ran home with a clean reliability score, it was stated that Mr. Reg. Carter's phenomenal performance in the petrol economy test, in addition to his excellent hill-climbing and reliability scores, gave him a slight advantage in the general computation.

Mr. Boyd Edkins (19-71-h.p. Vauxhall) earned the distinction of establishing fastest times in both hill-climbing contests. He did not carry sufficient weight, however, to figure more prominently in the formula result.

ALARMING ACCIDENT.

An alarming accident, fortunately unattended by serious results, befel Mr. Reg. Gowing when in the vicinity of Warwick Farm on the run home. Mr. Gowing had stayed for two and a half hours assisting Mr. R. G. Todman, who was outspanned by the roadside with clutch trouble, and darkness had set in when the party passed the racecourse. Driving steadily by the brilliant light of his headlights, Mr. Gowing had reached the top of the sharp ascent beyond, when he was charged by a mob of galloping horses, which were being driven towards Liverpool, it is stated, by the military authorities. The car was stopped dead, and the motorists waved their caps and yelled their hardest, but a collision could not be averted. The leading horses, estimated to number 100, parted, but the second files crashed straight into the car. The lights were instantly extinguished, one head lamp being kicked right off into the roadway, while the mudguard was crumpled and the radiator and distance piece, it was afterwards found, bore unmistakable evidences of the force of the collision.

THE MORNING'S RUN.

For the first 36 miles the motorists who made an early start from Goulburn on Saturday morning retraced their steps over the latter portion of Friday's route. The weather was brilliant, and the air cold, and a white frost was just dispersing from the fields as the cars climbed steadily up the slopes of Governor's Hill. There was a magnificent panoramic view of Goulburn looking over the back of the car from the summit, but the "all-out" coast down the other side soon took the attention of the drivers, and incidentally passengers' breath away. At the cross roads the Main South-road was left, and after passing through Moss Vale (45 miles) and Robertson (59 miles) the precipitous descent down the Macquarie Pass to the coast was commenced. The coastal range at this point presents an almost perpendicular face to the sea, and down the narrow winding track the cars lurched and skidded, while the drivers applied first one brake and then another in an endeavour to keep the mechanism cool. Thousands of feet below were the plains, dotted here and there with tiny dwellings, while away to seaward was a lake, evidently some miles in extent, in whose glassy surface the reflection of the clouds was clearly visible even at that great distance.

The foliage of the pass was most varied, and the sunlight filtering through the overhanging trees produced the most beautiful light effects. The dangers of the sudden "hairpin" bends, however, were apparent, and it was somewhat of a relief, the motorists averred, to be again spinning over flat roads through Albion Park.

THE RUN HOME.

Mr. Sherwood withdrew with a leaking petrol tank at Wollongong, where the party stayed an hour for lunch. The road for the next eight miles to Bulli was atrocious, and even ten miles per hour was too fast for comfort. The climb up the Bulli Pass—there was no contest—put the drivers on their best metal, but the road surface was excellent, and the motorists could enjoy the wonderful coastal scene without trepidation as to whether their car would negotiate the next corner. There were four miles of "rough stuff" at the top of the plateau, and at the end of this Mr. R. G. Todman, who up till then had performed excellently, got into trouble with his clutch. A good Samaritan, in the form of George Innes, who was aboard Mr. Gowing's car, however, was at hand, and after considerable labour a repair was effected. Mr. Innes had also made clever repair to Mr. Gowing's car. In less than three minutes, or for the loss of 6 points, he devised and carried out an effective means of holding a defective water connection in place, a mishap which at first it was thought would put the car out of the contest altogether.

There was a fast piece of road for ten miles to Campbelltown, and the drivers took advantage of this to make up for the delays of the mountain roads. Many found it a difficult matter to average even 18 miles per hour over the rough South Coast-road, and had it not been for the Goulburn-Moss Vale portion and the Campbelltown-road there is no doubt many cars would have arrived behind schedule time. Mr. Gowing cut things very fine, and arrived dead on time. Speeding along the Campbelltown-road was the undoing of Mr. Arthur Kidman's hopes. A sharp turn and a loose plank in a bridge sent the Charron feet up into the air. The blow was sufficient to wreck any machine, but the damage sustained only amounted to a broken overflow pipe. The water from the radiator was lost, however, and a tramp to the nearest farmhouse to get a fresh supply occupied so much time that the party abandoned the contest, and toured home via Parramatta and the bridges.

Beyond Campbelltown the competitors had to put up with the discomforts of surburban travel until Circular Quay was reached, where the cars were weighed, and the contest officially ended. A special exception was made in Mr. Gowing's case, and the officials checked the contents of the belated motorists' fuel tank in a city garage.

The complete result of the contest will be published in Tuesday's "Herald."

The following are the competitors who completed the final stage of the trial within schedule time:—

"SEALED ORDERS."

SPECTACULAR MELODRAMA.

"Sealed Orders" gave promise in its prologue of proving a well and carefully written melodrama, and Saturday's crowded audience at the Theatre Royal settled down to watch with some show of serious interest a play of the "Silver King" type. A change came over the spirit of the authors' scheme, however, and Cecil Raleigh and Henry Hamilton, the long-time collaborators in many Drury Lane pieces, quickly revealed a number of situations verging on the preposterous. These required all the scenic effect of a "big" production to carry them through to success. The potential resources of the J. C. Williamson management having been laid under liberal contribution, however, something approaching a triumph was achieved in that respect, whilst on the acting side Mr. Edward O'Neill, whose only other part here as Simeon gave him scant opportunity, recommended himself as a fine artist. Miss Ethel Warwick's somewhat highly-coloured emotionalism as the erring heroine was entirely what was wanted, and Miss Beatrice Day possessed the needed breadth for a comedy character in such a piece, sharing with the other two artists the central successes of the evening. "Sealed Orders," which, unlike the better examples of its class from England's "national" playhouse, comes within the category of transpontine melodrama, is now enjoying a second long run in London, and may possibly become equally popular on this side. Indeed, the cordiality of Saturday night's reception culminated in a scene of enthusiasm, in which the efforts of the English producer, Mr. Cecil King, were warmly recognised.

The first of the sixteen scenes which illustrate the story shows an English garden, with an enchanting view of Epsom Downs, a little property acquired by John Le Page after 20 years of faithful and laborious service in the office of Hart and Sons, Hatton Garden, diamond merchants. Le Page's character is summed up by the elder sister, who keeps house for him (Miss Valentine Sidney), as "tender, lovable, pleasure-loving, and weak"; and, in fact, in spite of his devotion to the memory of his late wife, and his affection for his tiny daughter (Esma Cannon), he is heavily involved in racing debts. This comes to the ears of old Mendel Hart, who discharges him with three months' salary in lieu of the usual week's notice, and leaves him in the empty office secretly intent on suicide. His life insured for £4000 in the interests of his child, he determines to take a rapid, volatile poison, which will leave no trace, and he mixes it in a glass of old Hart's Marsala wine. It was here that Mr. Edward O'Neill, suggesting the reticence of a deep-seated grief, made his mark as John Le Page, a character which eventually took on a stereotyped form. However, whilst Le Page has the poison at his lips, falling plaster reveals the presence of burglars, and setting down the untasted wine, Le Page secretes himself. In a realistically-contrived scene, the audience sees an umbrella pushed through a hole in the ceiling, and then opened to catch the falling plaster. Soon a burglar descends a knotted rope, whilst his mate on the roof, engaged in pumping air for an oxygen flame, with which to attack the safe, becomes visible by means of a "transparency." How the burglar, half choked by the dust from the opened safe, drinks the wine and falls dead; how Le Page pockets the diamonds and slips out to fetch the police; and how Joe Allan, the man with the pump, is found kneeling by the dead body, and is accused of murder by the police inspector, is all swiftly shown in this first act, which forms an excellent prologue to "Sealed Orders."

The story is continued 20 years later at a Chelsea flower show, on the Chelsea Embankment, a beautifully-painted cloth, in a fashionable gambling club in Wilton-square, in a money-lender's office, where "objects of bigotry and virtue" are exchanged, and in the Admiral's cabin of H.M.S. Valiant. Two score characters move through these scenes, as in a cinematograph. There is the elegant Lady Felicia Galveston tempted to her ruin by Baron Kurdman, representing the German Embassy, with whom she plunges to the tune of several thousand pounds at the green tables; there are Hannibal K. Calhoun, an imposter, known as Cagliostro, and Mrs. O'Mara, an agent for scents and cosmetics, with whom he is in love. Here also reappears John Le Page, under an assumed name, in league with the Baron to force Lady Felicia to steal from her husband (Admiral Lord Hugh Galveston, G.C.B.) the sealed orders which the audience has seen him lock up with the utmost care. Miss Ethel Warwick, a striking figure as the unhappy Lady Felicia, vividly depicted the irresolution, helpless agony, and remorse of the high-born woman in the toils of ready-witted schemers. One of the best scenes in the play was that in which innocent little Ruth Le Page, a part attractively and sincerely played by Miss Dorothy Whitaker, reminds the hesitating sinner that "not jewels but her good name is a woman's most cherised possession;" "and I want you to guard yours," added the gentle advocate for right-doing. Ruth is in love with Lieut. the Hon. Denis Willoughby, R.N., an honest, boisterous, fatuous young lover, in which youthful character Mr. Malcolm Tearle, in complete contrast with his dreamily devotional "Joseph," was bustling, breezy, manlike, and rather inclined to shout in moments of stress and excitement.

The new melodrama parts company with probability from the big tableau of the deck of H.M.S. Valiant, but there is no lack of spectacular effect, and the suddenly illuminated ship, with its huge guns, and a crowd of dancers in gay and peaceful contrast with those harbingers of death and destruction, formed a splendidly imposing scene. Here Cagliostro, disguised as the Sultan of Medjina, is welcomed in state by the admiral, whose officers salute and men present arms, his mission being to warn the authorities that the despatches have probably been stolen. There is some question of a more or less enforced "search," to which there was even the incredible suggestion that the German and Spanish admirals on board as guests should submit!! Young Willoughby, at any rate, is directed to turn out his pockets, which unfortunately contain an incriminating letter from the Baron to his sister. Marines advance to arrest him, but he swarms up above to the bridge, plunges thence into the sea amidst the gun shots, and destroys the letter under water!

The pursuit of Le Page, now in possession of the "Sealed Orders" (which might have been cancelled in ten minutes by telephone to the First Lord of the Admiralty, who issued them), leads to the appearance of two motor cars outside his Dean-street (Park-lane, not Soho!) mansion, and to the chloroforming of his chauffeur, whose place is taken by Convict Joe Allan, intent upon clearing himself of the murder of his mate. Le Page is followed hot-foot by Willoughby, and beautiful scenes show Amherst Downs on a misty night, with the naval aeroplane-gun scouts ready to fire at Le Page's dirigible should he leave for France and Germany by means of an airship. The airship itself is shown equipped, and rising with Le Page, Joe Allan, and Ruth on board; the two men struggle in mid-air just as the gun is fired, and fall like stones; and another tableau reveals the Channel at sunrise, and Willoughby rescuing his sweetheart from the sinking machine. Finally, a picturesque painting of Amherst Quay, with the Admiral and all other characters on the rustic pier watching the rescue, followed by cheers and "Rule Britannia" as Willoughby sails swiftly in with Ruth in his arms.

Besides the artists already mentioned, an important role, that of Baron Kurdman, was cleverly taken by Mr. Hodgson Taylor, a coldly polite, faultlessly dressed foreigner, with a slight accent. Mr. Lincoln Plumer depicted "Cagliostro" as a business-like American. Too experienced an artist to fail in such a part, the actor missed the note of mystery, which might have raised it above the commonplace dialogue. Miss Day played brightly and well as Mrs. O'Mara, another long part, in which no trouble whatever had been taken by the authors with the dialogue. Mr. George E. Bryant, though impressive, was out of his element as Admiral Lord Hugh Galveston, rough old sea-dogs no longer filling such high positions. Mr. Frank Harvey's earnestness told in the part of Joe Allan; Mr. Frank Cambourne, who resembled the old grandfather without his little Nell, put in a notably fine character study as old Alf, "too old for 'asty judgments"; and another life-like study was Mr. H. W. Varna's Bertie Hart, a pushing vulgarian, as also the self-respecting Jewish merchant, Mendel Hart, by Carlton Rex. There were in all 44 speaking parts.

AUSTRALIA'S PROSPERITY.

While the celebrations at Kurnell on Saturday gave speakers an opportunity of noting the wonderful progress made since Captain Cook landed, it must be gratifying to Australians to learn from our cable messages that the prosperous conditions of the Commonwealth are being slowly realised in London. The "Financial Times" tells of the combination of favourable factors which in its opinion will bring about a record height to our prosperity this year. Doubtless these predictions are on the whole well-founded. Despite political strife, notwithstanding additions to our taxation and continued labour disputes which every now and again disorganise industry, Australia is thriving in a way for which it is difficult to find a parallel since the good old El Dorado days of the fifties. How comes it about that we are in a material way going ahead so rapidly? It is because our people are eminently industrious, because they are putting ever larger areas under the plough, because the prices for our exportable commodities are high, and the comparatively favourable seasons have given us an abundant surplus. But these conditions have not been confined to the last year. They have been with us now for a remarkably long period; so long that at last our condition is attracting world-wide attention. To our popular High Commissioner, Sir George Reid, we doubtless owe the growing realisation of our ever-increasing prosperity. He has returned to London brimful of the progress which his observant eye had seen to have taken place during his absence, and he has been spreading the news broadcast among an influential class at the centre of Empire.

That our condition should be fully realised in financial circles in London is highly satisfactory, for we have big undertakings ahead of us that will demand for their realisation further inroads into the greatest of all money markets, which has ever regarded us with comparatively favourable eyes. London as the centre of the investment world watches us with never-resting vigilance. When last mail left the same authority as that quoted in our cable message pointed out that agriculturists in the Commonwealth were securing a greater return per acre for their crops than ever before. It pointed out that the average yield of our cereals was excellent, while the average prices being obtained for our wool at Coleman-street showed an improvement of between 2d and 3d per pound as compared with those current at the end of 1913, while even at the higher level of prices buyers were bidding eagerly against one another for all the available supplies. It adds, however, that no one desires the price of wool to go much higher than it is at present, for experience shows that an abnormal level of values tends eventually to check business. It admits, though, that, taking things as they stand, Yorkshire combers are doing well, while the Australian wool companies, by which it means the Anglo-Australian companies, are literally coining money. The advance in the price of the staple during the last few months has exercised an important bearing on those companies whose accounts are made up either on March 31 or on June 30, and this has been signalised on the London Stock Exchange by a sharp upward movement in the quotations for all Australian land and pastoral companies, many of which are appreciably higher than they were during the closing months of last year, while it is thought that the upward movement has not even now received a check, as the yields upon the capital investment on the present market value of the shares is still high. When the mail left, the £5 shares in the Australian Agricultural Company, for instance, were £1 higher than they were three months earlier; those in the Australian Pastoral Company were 11 points higher at 105½ than they were at the close of 1913; while Goldsbrough, Mort, and Company's, and the New South Wales Land and Agency Company's shares were also correspondingly enhanced in price. It is difficult for us at this end to quite realise what this means. By the financial status of companies such as those, in which much English capital is invested, Australia is largely judged in London.

What has the immediate future in store? It may be that if the Mexican trouble develops in the way that some believe it will there will be a stronger demand than ever for Australian meat to feed the troops over the border. If this be so, then our graziers may rejoice, though our own consumers will be in no wise relieved. It may be, too, that the partial suspension of Mexico's huge production of silver will infuse new life into Broken Hill to our advantage. Certainly it will be well-nigh impossible for one-third of the world's supply to be materially interfered with without causing some upward movement. Then, too, we are developing our commercial relations with Europe in a satisfactory way. During Sir George Reid's absence in Australia Captain Moorehead Collins was very active on the Continent, and more especially in Germany, endeavouring to bind with firmer bonds our business relationship with that great industrial country, which is slowly but surely shaking off the shackles of agrarianism. Captain Collins reports that Australian commercial relations with the fatherland have of late years advanced with remarkably rapid strides. Not only, he says, has there been a great increase in the import of Australian meat into Germany, but the imports of Australian fruit and honey, to say nothing of wool, have likewise greatly improved, while Germany is developing a very receptive attitude towards Australian jewels. During Captain Collins' stay in Berlin he and Professor Manes, who represents the Commonwealth at that capital, inaugurated an "Australian day," which was an entire success. It is not easy to gauge exactly what an opening up of the immense markets of the Continent of Europe may mean for the Commonwealth. So far our foodstuffs have been practically shut out in a hopeless attempt to bolster up agrarian interests, but Germany is rapidly ceasing to be a country that depends upon the products of its own soil, and is fast assuming the role of an industrial country like Britain, which has growing dependence upon the outside world for her supplies, both of foodstuffs and raw supplies for her factories. This is certainly a happy augury for Australia as one of the greatest of the world's primary producers.

AN ANXIOUS OUTLOOK.

Our cable news this morning provides abundant justification for the anxiety with which the international outlook must be regarded at this moment. At a number of points events are occurring, or are imminent, which demonstrate how slender is the thread upon which hang the peace and stability of the world. One of the signs of the times is the tour of the Secretary of the German Treasury through the Southern German States, to persuade them to accept the increased taxation made necessary by a further piling up of armaments and an augmenting of troops. There is to be an increased naval vote, and this is but a sample of what is going on everywhere. The doors of the international powder magazines were never so wide open as they are to-day, though, possibly, the precautions against an explosion were never so anxiously overhauled and supplemented. In the nervous state in which Europe is to be found under such circumstances rumour has fine play. Attention is being concentrated upon several danger zones, and in the absence of the truth there is great speculation as to what is happening now, or may happen in the near future. This is specially applicable to Mexico. Whilst no further decisive step has been taken by either the United States or General Huerta, the American Government evidently contemplates and is preparing for a lengthy campaign in Mexico, and the opinion has been expressed that the war which now seems inevitable will be as lengthy and difficult as the South African War. Both General Carranza and General Villa have definitely declined to join General Huerta's forces. But this by no means implies that the "Constitutionalists" will ally themselves with the United States army, or even remain neutral.

A long and costly war, with the inevitable strain on the resources of the United States, however great these may be; its serious interference with commerce, and especially with the valuable British interests; and its potential ramifications so as to involve other countries, must all have their effect throughout the world. Commerce has become so internationalised that depression and financial stress in one country are felt elsewhere immediately, and the waste of prolonged war will not merely prove an expensive matter for the United States.

The serious illness of the veteran Emperor of Austria naturally leads to the consideration of what will happen after his death in the two kingdoms over which he rules. The heir to the throne is reputed to be a man of great ability and force of character. But it is extremely doubtful whether he will be able to deal successfully with the very serious internal dissensions which have only been allayed during recent years by the personal influence of the Emperor. The growing antagonisms between the Germanic and Slav elements in the Dual Monarchy; the jealousies between the German in Austria and the Magyar in Hungary; the rebellious spirit which has shown itself in Croatia; all the points of conflict which have arisen out of the inclusion of Bosnia and Herzegovina within territories governed by the Emperor, and the difficulties arising out of the Balkan Wars, provide a host of problems which might well baffle the most beloved, statesmanlike, and forceful of rulers. The Balkan Peninsula is still a powder magazine, and the news regarding renewed difficulties between Greece and Turkey provides a further indication of the fact that at any moment the peace recently concluded may once more be rudely disturbed. The political significance of the recent visit of the King to France has not been denied. If it is satisfactory that the friendly relations between the two countries have been still further cemented by the visits of the President to England and the King to France, it is also pertinent to refer to the international situation which makes the Entente necessary. Altogether the international barometer is set "stormy," and the world's statesmen who guide the ships of State through troubled waters will need all the watchfulness, courage, steadiness of hand, and clearness of vision at their command in the coming period.

NIGHT WORK AND THE PUBLIC.

The decision of Mr. Justice Rich in the "day baking" dispute possesses a great deal of importance to the public on account, not only of the particular issue involved in that case, but also of the general principle at stake. The operatives in bakeries had asked that night work should be abolished and day work substituted for it. The parties whose interests were concerned in the demand were three:—The employees, who for various reasons considered the present system unsatisfactory; the employers, who feared that the adoption of "day-baking" might prejudice them in their businesses, and the public, which, though it disclaimed any knowledge of the technical processes and business arrangements affected by the change, was by no means anxious to be compelled to eat stale bread. Too often in industrial disputes the public is overlooked, and is ground between the upper and nether millstones of employer and employee. In this case, however, the convenience of the public was one of the chief arguments which led his Honor to come to the conclusion he did. Mr. Justice Rich heard a great deal of evidence on both sides, and in his judgment he grouped the objections of the employees to night-baking under four heads—hygiene, social, domestic, and educational. He was quite prepared to attach all due weight to each of these, but he felt that they were counterbalanced by two other considerations. In the first place, to establish day-baking under the order of the Court would have far-reaching consequences. "Family-shops" and "non-union" shops, which would not be subject to its award, would immediately compete against those who were bound by it, while hotels and restaurants would begin to bake for themselves. The demand for bread baked by day would be less, and the result would be that, although some operatives would enjoy pleasanter conditions of labour, many would be thrown out of work altogether.

Moreover, there was the public to be considered, and the public, as the consumer, is entitled to have a voice in the matter. The unwillingness of the public to eat bread 17½ hours stale at breakfast, and 22½ hours stale at luncheon, was one of the main reasons which induced Mr. Justice Rich to declare in favour of the existing system. He was bound at the outset, he said, to consider how far the public would be benefited or penalised by the proposed change. In other words, the Court asserted a principle which holds good in other trades besides that of baking. The public is the consumer, and it has to pay the bill, and it is only fair that its interests should be considered. As far as the question of day work against night work goes, there is a tendency on the part of workers to endeavour to abolish the latter, and it is natural enough. There is no doubt that those who are compelled to reverse the normal order of things, and to turn the hours of darkness into the hours of day, and vice-versa, miss many of the pleasures of existence, and many of its advantages. But in the modern highly organised state of society this is inevitable. Some of us must work when others are sleeping; we should be very indignant if policemen, for instance, or railway employees, insisted on ceasing their labours at the setting of the sun, or if the night-watchmen's union paradoxically determined to follow their vocation by day alone. The community has certain needs which can only be satisfied by work performed at unseasonable hours. We like at our breakfast table a fresh newspaper and a fresh loaf. We take the former as a matter of course, and we cannot see why there should be any distinction in principle between the one and the other. If night-work constitutes a hardship, it should be provided for by better conditions of pay; to attempt to abolish it when the requirements of the community demand it would, we believe, prove utterly impracticable.

SOUTH AMERICAN MEDIATION.

The war between Mexico and the United States is almost sure to result in some very interesting developments of the Monroe doctrine. But is is impossible at present to see clearly what those developments will be. So far the war has merely involved the two republics each day in a more inextricable tangle. Perhaps within a week or a fortnight some clear issue will emerge from the confusion. The various parties may know within a few days exactly who is going to fight, and what they are going to fight about—or whether it will be necessary to go on fighting at all. The position to-day, as far as American estimates can be trusted, is almost the exact opposite of what it was reported to be on Saturday. Then it was stated that the war fever in the United States was cooling down. Now it appears that the South American republics have approached the United States in an endeavour to make peace between the two nations, but that the United States has become imbued with a war-fever similar to that which preceded the war with Spain. The House of Representatives is said to be wholly in favour of war. Senators are talking of insults offered to the American flag. The Government is charged with standing by meekly looking on at the murder of its citizens, and cutting a contemptible figure before the world. And the leaders of Congress are said to be urging that the United States ought promptly to declare war.

It is a very interesting spectacle, this, of all the South American States—Brazil, Argentine, Chili, Bolivia, Peru, Panama, and Cuba—endeavouring to calm their big Anglo-Saxon brother, whilst he is straining to avenge the slights which he feels to have been inflicted upon him by his smaller neighbour next door. The United States people is by no means the most pacific in the world; if its dignity is injured it is apt to become one of the most bellicose. And with the Mexicans actually firing across the border into one of the cities of Texas, the Americans will probably be very hard to hold. Even if the United States Government were willing to stay its hand, there seems no great probability of a similar attitude on the part of the Mexicans. In Mexico there is not one leader or party to be dealt with, but something nearer half a dozen; and even if General Huerta consented to be "eliminated," and General Villa decided not to fight against the United States—which he apparently has done—there is no guarantee as to what other sections of Mexicans would do. Every available United States warship is now hastening to the Mexican coast, and experience has not so far shown that this is the best way to induce Mexicans to cease from their resistance. The effect so far has been the reverse. The one main result of President Wilson's policy up to the present has been to cause the Mexicans, who were previously fighting each other, to turn round and attack him. If this had been a deep-laid scheme on the part of President Wilson to induce the various sections in Mexico to heal up the divisions between them, it would to some extent have succeeded. The Mexicans are probably closer together now than they have been for many months. But the great difficulty before the United States, whether the occasion for it comes now or later, will be the withdrawal. How that can be carried out without plunging Mexico immediately into the very turmoil with which the war started, and delivering a blow to the prestige of the United States which will shake its influence with every State in South America, it is quite impossible at present to foresee.

Federal Parliament.—Despite the fact that no interest whatever is being taken in the no-confidence debate in the House of Representatives it is expected that the whole of this week will be devoted to it. It appears that almost all the Opposition members "have something important to say" on the matter, and these, with a few Ministerialists, will take up the whole of the available time till Friday afternoon, when it is expected the vote will be taken. Both sides are well defined, and when the tellers have completed their work the numbers will be equal for and against the amendment moved by the leader of the Opposition, and once again the Speaker, Mr. Johnson, will be called upon to exercise his casting vote. Last session in similar circumstances he gave his vote in favour of the Ministry.

Country Party.—The names of half a dozen members on the Opposition side of the House were freely mentioned on Saturday as being likely to seek admission to the new country party almost immediately. Mr. Waddell's open invitation to country Labour members was discussed by politicians in town. The general view was that, whilst the invitation would have come more appropriately from the secretary of the country party, being, perhaps somewhat in the nature of an assumption of leadership by Mr. Waddell, it voiced the idea of the general membership of the new party. It was stated, indeed, that one new member of the Labour party, who represents an essentially rural constituency, is likely to be one of the first accessions of strength to the new party. It is not disputed that the new party would welcome Mr. Holman and other country representatives from the Labour ranks. But the country party for New South Wales was, in reality, it was explained, formed long before there was any split between Mr. Meagher and Mr. Holman. The public announcement of the move was delayed somewhat, mainly out of deference to Mr. Wade and the Liberal party generally, and also to allow time for the whole of the ten initial members to arrive at an absolutely common understanding.

Prisons Department Changes. — Official changes in the Prisons Department are imminent. It has been stated that Mr. W. M. Macfarlane will retire from the position of Comptroller-General of Prisons at the end of the month, and that he will return to the bench of stipendiary magistrates, from which he was transferred four years ago to succeed Captain Neitenstein in the control of the Prisons Department. Speculations as to Mr. Macfarlane's successor as Comptroller-General are being indulged in. One or two members of the bench of stipendiary magistrates have been mentioned, but in well-informed circles it is considered highly improbable that Mr. Samuel McCauley, the Deputy Comptroller-General, will be again passed over. Upon his retirement from the position of Comptroller-General Mr. Macfarlane will probably be offered the chairmanship of the Metropolitan Licensing Court. Mr. Smithers, S.M., holds this position at present. It is understood that Mr. Smithers is about to retire on the pension attached to his many years of service. There will thus be a vacancy on the bench of S.Ms. These positions are invariably filled from the ranks of country police magistrates, or from senior Clerks of Petty Sessions in the metropolitan area.

Northern Hurricanes.—Mr. Clement Wragge intends visiting Queensland shortly to arrange for the establishment of a meteorological bureau by private enterprise. Last year he was offered the position of chief of this bureau, but was unable to accept it owing to other engagements. The hurricane season having now passed, the necessity for the immediate establishment of the bureau no longer exists, but the object is to have it in operation prior to the next hurricane season. Those who were providing the funds were the shipping companies and others interested, and the primary object of the bureau was the forecasting of the hurricanes which periodically devastated the Queensland coast. Mr. Wragge regretfully heard that the instruments of the chain of meteorological stations he established along the Queensland coast years ago had been sold at auction, but he says he will have sufficient data from New Caledonia and other places to enable him to forecast the hurricanes. Had the bureau been established a few years ago the Yongala would never have been lost, and besides saving many lives the shipping companies would have been saved enormous expense.

Border School Children.—The Premier announced on Saturday that arrangements have been made with Victoria for children living near the border to attend Victorian schools when more convenient, and vice versa. The Director of Education advises the Premier "that arrangements have already been made by this department with the Education Department of Victoria providing that, if holders of scholarships from schools in New South Wales diser to take them up to border High schools, such as Echuca or Mildura, this department will be prepared to defray the cost of text-books and necessary material to the extent of 30s per annum, subject to the receipt of satisfactory reports as to the student's progress and conduct during his attendance at school."

Testing the Cadets.—M. Guillaux, the famous French aviator, gave a remarkable demonstration with his monoplane at Newcastle on Saturday. Thousands witnessed the flight, but perhaps those who enjoyed it more than anybody else were 200 uniformed cadets. They had no doubt left their homes with the intention of spending the afternoon in drilling, but, at the invitation of the aviator, they were marched on to the ground, and remained there during the afternoon. M. Guillaux soared to a great height, and, evidently with the idea of testing the stability of the cadets in a crisis, the Frenchman directed his machine towards them. He tilted the monoplane, and took a straight dive directly for the small company of cadets. Down the machine came like an arrow. People held their breath for a moment, and gave vent to a scream as they realised that the airman would be dashed to pieces and the ground strewn with dead cadets. Just when the audience expected to hear the awful crash as the machine struck the cadets, the aviator pulled a lever and gracefully skimmed over the heads of the cadets. Death and the cadets were separated only by about four feet, but they stood their ground, and cheered M. Guillaux when the rest of the people thought that the end had come. There was no commotion among them, and not one sought safety in flight, which, under the circumstances, might have been pardonable. Shortly after M. Guillaux descended from his first flight he inspected the boys. The Frenchman addressed them through his interpreter, and said that he would like to see some of them take up aviation. He wanted to know if there was an aviation school in the district, and if there was not he hoped that they would soon obtain one. As the aviator was leaving they gave him three hearty cheers.

A Great Painting.—With the demolition of the house known as The Rangers, at Mosman it was feared that Sir Oswald Brierley's great painting, "H.M.S. Rattlesnake in a Storm," which adorns the whole of one of the walls, would be destroyed. An effort to raise funds to purchase the house failed. However, it was recognised that such a valuable work should not be allowed to crumble, and an effort was made to preserve it. The wall was backed by cement concrete and otherwise strengthened, and removed en masse. The operation was performed with the greatest care, and is believed to have been successful. A suggestion has been made that the painting should be removed to the Mitchell Library. So far it is practically undamaged.

THE GAP IN PRICES.

SOME OF THE FACTORS.

A MORE EXIGENT PUBLIC.

That the gap between distributing prices and retail prices is widening, and is more to-day than it was 10 years ago, admits of little doubt. A greater percentage is demanded on the cost. The classic example, as far as Sydney is concerned, is bread.

In 1912 the bakers, following on a sharp rise in flour, advanced the price of bread from 3½d to 3¾d per loaf, the reason given being the increased cost of flour, although, as a matter of fact, there was very little bread made during that year from flour bought at the high rate, most of the bakers having bought at the commencement of the season, when flour was 30s per ton lower. And when flour came back to £8 10s, its normal level, the bread did not come back, and no explanation was given. The public has no common will with which to act as the Bakers' Association has. Outside the strength of the association enabling it to maintain prices, any reason is found in the increased cost of making and delivering the bread due to advances in wages of bakers and carters.

COST OF HANDLING.

In other lines it is the same. Thus the gross return of the distributor in certain proprietary lines handled by the grocery and chemical houses has been increased from 5 per cent. to 7½ per cent. Here also increased cost and handling has been the cause, and if the increased cost of handling can only be met by an increase of 50 per cent. in the gross return, when comparatively large quantities are handled as between distributor and retailer, what increase in the return must the retailer require when the small quantities taken by the ultimate consumer are handled? A small retailer will take from the distributor half-a-dozen boxes of dried fruits. He is lucky if to each customer he sells half a dozen pounds of dried fruit in one serving. That would mean that for one transaction which the distributor has with the retailer, the retailer has 56 transactions with his customers. The difference in the cost of handling one transaction and 56 transactions must be immense.

A STRIKING ILLUSTRATION.

Taking currants, the 10-ton price to the retailer last season was /5¼, and the price to the consumer was /7½. The gross return was thus /2 per lb, or 36 per cent.

On the other hand, the distributor who sold to the retailer paid for the currants /5¼, less 2 per cent., less 5 per cent., or 5.068d per lb. His gross return was, therefore, 8½ per cent. The wholesaler is satisfied with a gross return of 8½ per cent.; the retailer requires 36 per cent. In quite a different line, we take the linseed oil. The price paid by the retailer is 3/8 per gallon, equal to /5½ per pint. The retailer charges the public /8 per pint, so that his gross return is /2½, or 45 per cent. We may set down the gross return of the distributor at /3 per gallon at the most, equal to about 7 1-3 per cent.

Mr. Garet Garrett, a New York writer, puts his finger on another cause of the gap in prices.

DEMANDS OF CONSUMERS.

"It is true," he says, "that the cost of distribution has been rising faster than it should in food and other commodities, and that methods are shockingly wasteful, but that is not wholly, nor perhaps very largely, the fault of the distributors. The other side of it is that consumers demand very much more for the service of distribution than they ever demanded before. The people who were formerly not too proud to go to market with a basket now complain by telephone if delivery is not prompt. When it takes a horse, a waggon, and a boy to deliver a pound of butter that the purchaser might as well have carried, the cost of distribution is out of all proportion to the cost of producing food on the farm. People live in tiny apartments, and buy food in ridiculous quantities, as, for instance, potatoes by the quart. Multiply the retailer's price for a quart of potatoes by 32, and you have a price per bushel which seems preposterous. The farmer compares it with what he received per bushel for his potatoes in bulk, and calls middlemen thieves. But what is it worth to merchandise potatoes by the quart?"

It is worth while noting, too, that it is not only in Sydney that the price of fresh fruit to the consumer is so largely above the price paid to the orchardist. Complaint is made that while growers 25 miles from Toronto are receiving 25 cents per basket for Bartlett pears the same fruit is retailed to the consumer at three for 10 cents, which would be about the same price which is charged in Sydney for these pears. Hundreds of barrels of apples are left to rot in the orchards of Ontario because "it does not pay" the grower to market them despite the fact that the consumer in the cities is paying a substantial price per barrel.

In other countries, as well as New South Wales, the problem of obtaining fruit at a reasonable price has not yet been solved.

MEXICO.

WAR INEVITABLE.

ATTITUDE OF THE REBELS.

RIOTS IN MEXICO CITY.

"DEATH TO AMERICANS."

VERA CRUZ, April 24.

A train has arrived from Mexico City with British and German refugees aboard.

They report that a mob in Mexico City trampled the United States flag in the dust. A demonstration was made outside the American Club, the windows of which were smashed, and insults were shouted at those within.

The refugees state that the position of United States subjects resident in the city is critical. Excited bands of Mexicans are continuously parading the streets, shouting, "Death to Americans."

It is feared that if the United States army makes a forward move from Vera Cruz outrages will occur.

British, German, and French residents are preparing to concentrate in certain siege districts, and provisions are being accumulated.

It was understood here that General Huerta had promised strict protection for all foreigners, and had provided guards at the United States Embassy.

Communication between Mexico City and the outside world has now been cut off.

April 25.

A number of United States refugees from Mexico City have reached Vera Cruz, including Mr. Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the United States Chargé d'Affaires.

It is reported that President Huerta has refused to allow any other United States subjects to leave the capital.

The newspapers here publish acts of rioting in Mexico City, during which, it is said, the mob killed three United States subjects in the streets, while another was murdered by the members of a baseball team to which he belonged.

As Vera Cruz is isolated from the capital, however, the news is untrustworthy.

On the other hand, there is no doubt that many United States subjects have been arrested in Mexico City, and are being held in prison.

Reports from Cordoba also state that Mexican soldiers are holding a number of United States subjects prisoners near there.

It is understood that Mr. W. J. Bryan, United States Secretary of State, is enlisting the good offices of the Brazilian Minister in Mexico City to secure the freedom of all the prisoners.

WASHINGTON, April 24.

Information has reached Mr. W. J. Bryan that 20 refugees—19 United States subjects and one Briton—are reported to have been shot by the Mexicans.

Details of the affair are lacking, but it is believed that they were executed in revenge for the deaths of Mexicans in the engagement at Vera Cruz.

CONSTITUTIONALISTS' ATTITUDE.

NOGALES (Arizona), April 24.

The negotiations between the Constitutionalists and the Huertista have proved fruitless, as General Carranza, the Constitutionalist "President," has refused to ally himself with President Huerta.

It is not known, however, whether General Carranza will remain neutral or fight the United States independently.

WASHINGTON, April 24.

General Villa, the military leader of the Constitutionalists, has informed the United States representative at Chihuahua that he has refused to be dragged into war with the United States.

April 25.

General Villa reasserts that he has no intention of fighting against the United States, and he says he believes that General Carranza will also refuse to join President Huerta, despite all statements to the contrary.

The Texas National Guards have been ordered to patrol the entire Mexican border, as little reliance is placed upon General Villa's protestations of friendship.

Many members of Congress criticise Mr. Bryan's supineness in dealing with General Carranza, as, they say, it has led him to think that he is able to fool the United States regarding his real intentions.

UNITED STATES' PUBLIC WANTS WAR.

WASHINGTON, April 25.

The party leaders in Congress are more favourable towards the view that the United States ought promptly to declare war against Mexico.

Senator Penrose declared that the United States' action was worthy of the contempt of the whole civilised world, as while its citizens were being murdered nothing had been done, yet when the flag was insulted lives were sacrificed without remorse.

Public sentiment throughout the United States strongly favours war, and indications point to an outburst of war fever similar to that preceding the Spanish-American conflict.

The House of Representatives almost wholly favours war, and is likely to make representations to that effect to President Wilson.

A PESSIMISTIC OUTLOOK.

Senator Lodge asserted yesterday that nothing remained for the United States but to see the Mexican war through to the bitter end.

He thought there was a much worse prospect ahead of the United States than that which faced Great Britain in connection with the Boer war.

BRITISH COURSE PREFERABLE.

Many Congressmen hold that the course which Great Britain took in recognising General Huerta as de facto President of Mexico was the one which the United States should have taken.

A BORDER SKIRMISH.

LAREDO, April 24.

Nuevo Laredo, a thriving Mexican border town, near here, is in ruins as a result of a dynamite fire started by the Mexican Federal troops.

After wrecking the town the Mexicans turned their guns across the border, and attempted to repeat the damage in Laredo but before their shooting had much effect they were routed by United States troopers who killed several.

The United States soldiers attempted to save Nuevo Laredo, but they were too late. One of the first buildings burnt was the United States Consulate.

Intense excitement prevails, and all available troops have been summoned to this locality.

MEXICAN "SUCCESSES."

VERA CRUZ, April 25.

The Mexican newspapers, which are under strict censorship, are publishing varied stories of Mexican successes against the United States, giving descriptions of wholly imaginery battles.

WAR PREPARATIONS.

WASHINGTON, April 24.

President Wilson is making unexampled preparations for war, which is recognised as inevitable.

Every available warship is now bound for Mexico.

Three thousand troops, with 12 machine guns, are en route from Galveston, Texas, to Vera Cruz.

LATIN AMERICA SIDES WITH MEXICO.

WASHINGTON, April 24.

The State Department is receiving despatches from the South American Republics showing strong disapproval of the United States' action towards Mexico.

April 26.

The Brazilian, Argentine, and Chilian diplomats conferred yesterday with a view to offering, on behalf of their respective Governments, to mediate between the United States and Mexico, with a view to preventing further bloodshed.

The Bolivian, Peruvian, and Cuban representatives later joined the conference, and at the close the Peruvian Minister expressed the hope that a satisfactory settlement would be reached.

The United States Government has agreed to accept the offer of the South American diplomats, but points out that military aggression or hostile demonstration on the part of the Mexicans, might upset the hopes of securing peace.

The Cabinet decided vigorously to prosecute war preparations in the meantime.

It is understood that the South American Republics plan a settlement based on the elimination of Huerta.

President Wilson is not confident regarding the success of the plan of mediation, but hopes that the negotiations will suppress temporarily the anti-United States outbursts in Mexico.

THE CANAL ZONE.

WASHINGTON, April 24.

Colonel Goethals, Governor of the Panama Canal Zone, has placed that territory on a full war footing.

BRITISH SUBJECT ARRESTED.

VERA CRUZ, April 24.

An English engineer has been arrested by Federal troops at Orizaba.

A United States official was also arrested, but was subsequently released.

RIOTING IN TAMPICO.

GERMAN CAPTAIN INTERVENES.

GALVESTON, April 25.

After the United States fleet had arrived at Tampico it withdrew seawards.

At nightfall the Mexicans started anti-United States riots, attacking the chief hotels wherein United States citizens took refuge. The mob stoned the premises, and fired rifles through the windows.

The situation had assumed a serious aspect when the captain of the German cruiser, Dresden, notified the mob that he would land marines unless they dispersed.

The foreigners were then taken aboard the cruiser safely.

ESENADA AND TAMPICO REFUGEES.

WASHINGTON, April 24.

A large number of United States subjects in Esenada, Lower California, were reported to be in danger owing to the riotous conduct of the Mexicans, and the monitor Cheyenne was despatched to bring them away. Their safety has now been officially announced. It is not stated whether the loss of property suffered by them was heavy.

A United States transport has been despatched to pick up 120 refugees at Tampico.

COAL CONTRACTS CANCELLED.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

During the last few days contracts for shipment of Newcastle coal to Mexico have been cancelled, owing to the war breaking out. The annual exports to Mexico reach about 27,000 tons.

GUN RUNNING.

AN ULSTER COUP.

MOBILISATION AS A CLOAK.

LONDON, April 25.

A test mobilisation of the Ulster volunteers in Belfast and Londonderry was carried out amid wild rumours last night.

The men showed great alacrity, and were well under discipline. Each man brought rations for 12 hours.

Anxiety was manifested in Belfast owing to a rumour that the authorities were planning for the police to attack the volunteer organisation.

April 26.

Ten thousand volunteers at Belfast, and 20,000 elsewhere, were readily mobilised, the test being pronounced a complete success. Ambulance and signalling corps men were included in the mobilisation.

The men who responded to the call were unaware of their leaders' intentions, though the alarm was partly explained, the volunteers being ordered, for purposes of testing their efficiency, to assume that the police were preparing a raid.

The authorities apparently expected an attempt at gun-running, hence the police closely watched a coal steamer in the harbour. Meanwhile the volunteers in the vicinity watched the police.

THE REASON FOR IT.

LONDON, April 25.

The Exchange Telegraph Co.'s Belfast correspondent states that the steamer Fanny's Hamburg consignment of 70,000 rifles was landed in three lots, at Larne, Bangor, and Donaghadee, late last night, and distributed early this morning throughout Ulster.

A cordon of volunteers severed Larne from communication with the outside world, while portion of the Fanny's cargo was transferred to two smaller vessels, which sailed for Bangor and Donaghadee.

The police were powerless spectators, being unable to communicate with Belfast.

The unloading began at 10 p.m. and finished at 3 a.m.

Over 100 motor cars, besides motor lorries, were in waiting, and were despatched to various parts. The first consignment reached County Tyrone at four o'clock.

In the meantime a big force of volunteers with waggons had assembled overnight as a blind at the Belfast docks.

April 26.

The Ulster mobilisation kept the authorities engaged while the gun-running was being carried out.

Ulster volunteers patrolled thirty miles of the coast road between Belfast and Larne Harbour.

The Fanny, re-named the Mountjoy, crept into the harbour, followed by two small steamers. A swift transhipment of cargo followed, and her consorts departed for Bangor and Donaghadee.

After landing a large portion of her cargo the "Mountjoy" re-sailed.

Later on a coastguardsman sighted a suspicious vessel off Donaghadee, and was rushing to notify his officers when he dropped dead.

There was great excitement as the vessels entered Bangor and Donaghadee harbours.

Volunteers, armed with staves, surrounded the coastguards and imprisoned them in the coastguard stations.

It is stated that Capt. Major Robert M'Calmont, M.P., commanded the volunteers at Donaghadee, and Capt. James Craig those at Bangor.

MINISTERIAL CONFERENCE.

Mr. Asquith, who was hurriedly summoned from the country last night, conferred with Mr. A. Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, Mr. Lewis Harcourt, Secretary of State for the Colonies, and Major-General Sir Cecil M'Cready, Director of Personal Services, War Office, on the situation.

FORCE MET BY FORCE.

LONDON, April 25.

Mr. F. D. Acland, Parliamentary Secretary for Foreign Affairs, speaking at Selby last night, said there was bound to be a general election before an Irish Parliament was established in Dublin.

If civil war were started, he added, or a provisional government set up in Ulster between the time the Home Rule Bill passed and the measure came into operation, force on the part of Ulster would be met by force on the part of the Government.

AN EMPHATIC GENERAL.

LONDON, April 25.

Speaking at Andover last night Captain Faber, the local Unionist member, said that the following true story was going the rounds.

A noted Field Marshal sent for a certain General at the War Office, and demanded that he should draw up a plan of campaign against Ulster, whereupon the General replied, "I'm damned if I do!"

The Field Marshal, without a word, turned on his heel, and, going to Colonel J. E. B. Seely, then Secretary of State for War, told the latter that "the game was up."

THE MILITARY EPISODE.

A UNIONIST MOTION.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain (Unionist) gave notice in the House of Commons that he would move:—"That in view of the seriousness of the Government's recently-contemplated naval and military movements as regards Ulster, the incompleteness and inaccuracy of the Ministers' statements, and the Government's failure to deal frankly with the situation, there should be a full and impartial inquiry into all the circumstances."

Over 50 questions have already been given notice of in the House of Commons requesting Mr. Asquith to afford further information in regard to the recent movement of troops in Ireland.

THE CENSURE MOTION.

The motion of censure on the Government in connection with the Ulster question, will be debated by the House of Commons on Tuesday and Wednesday.

DEPRESSED BOURSES.

EMPEROR FRANCIS JOSEPH'S ILLNESS.

LONDON, April 26.

The demoralisation of the Stock Exchanges and Bourses is chiefly due to affairs in Mexico, and the illness of the Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria.

His Majesty was yesterday morning reported to be worse.

SOUTH AFRICA.

TAXATION PROPOSALS.

CAPETOWN, April 25.

General Smuts, Minister of Finance and Defence, in introducing the Budget in the House of Assembly yesterday, announced the intention of imposing an income tax, and also a tax on undeveloped lands.

GERMAN ARMAMENTS.

HEAVY TAXATION INCREASES.

BERLIN, April 25.

Herr Kuehn, Secretary to the Treasury, has visited the South German States with a view of gaining their assent to heavy increases in taxation.

It is understood that measures to be introduced by the Government during the autumn will include increased naval votes.

A slump on the Bourse has occurred.

THE ENTENTE.

KING GEORGE'S RETURN.

"PROOF OF GOOD FEELING."

PARIS, April 24.

King George, before leaving Paris for England, invested M. Doumergue (the French Premier) with the Grand Cross of the Victorian Order.

President Poincare attended the farewell to the King and Queen at the railway station.

His Majesty expressed his appreciation of the warm welcome he had received from the French nation.

LONDON, April 25.

The King, replying to an address of welcome at Dover, on his return from France, said:—"We shall never forget the warmth and enthusiasm of our reception in France; and I hope this genuine proof of friendship and good feeling towards Britain on the part of the French nation will be fully realised by my people."

Queen Alexandra awaited the arrival of the Royal train at Victoria Station, and King George on alighting kissed his mother on both cheeks, Queen Mary likewise embracing her.

The spontaneous cheers for France wherewith their Majesties were greeted on the way from Victoria to Buckingham Palace, showed that the visit was as popular here as in France.

GERMAN PRESS OPINION.

BERLIN, April 24.

The "Cologne Gazette," commenting on the Royal visit to France, states that there is nothing in the speeches delivered at the various functions that is inconsistent with the entente with Great Britain, for which Germany is steadily working.

EMPIRE DEFENCE.

SUGGESTED CONVENTION.

SIR JOHN M'CALL'S PLAN.

LONDON, April 25.

Sir John M'Call (Agent-General for Tasmania), in a letter to the press, suggests that concurrently with the next Imperial Conference of Premiers the Prime Minister should summon a private convention of the leaders of all oversea Governments and Oppositions to devise a united scheme of Empire defence.

This scheme, he says, should be submitted to the people of the various parts of the Empire, and any of these parts which stand aloof should not be entitled to demand protection.

THE NEAR EAST.

GRECO-TURKISH RELATIONS

THREATENING PHASE.

ATHENS, April 25.

Owing to the treatment of Greeks in Thrace the relations between Greece and Turkey have suddenly assumed a threatening phase.

Thousands of Greeks have been deprived of their property and driven from towns in Thrace.

The refugees are flocking to Salonika, and 25,000 have already reached that town, while 15,000 are awaiting boats on the coast of Thrace.

The majority of those expelled are ill, exhausted, and shelterless at Rodosto, a Turkish town on the northern shore of the Sea of Marmora.

The Turks declare that only those becoming Mussulmans will be allowed to remain in Thrace.

OUR EMPTY SPACES.

MR. DENHAM IN LONDON.

QUEENSLAND ANNUAL DINNER.

LONDON, April 25.

The annual Queensland dinner was held at the Trocadero last night, among the guests being Mr. Harcourt (Secretary of State for the Colonies), Sir George Reid (High Commissioner for Australia), Mr. Thomas Mackenzie (High Commissioner for New Zealand), the Agents-General for the Australian States, Lord Lamington, Lord Inchcape, and Sir James Mills. Sir T. B. Robinson (Queensland Agent-General) presided.

In proposing the toast of "Prosperity to Queensland," Sir T. B. Robinson said that all old Queenslanders must be gratified at the success of Mr. Denham, Premier of the State, in regard to financial matters during his London visit, and the result of his inquiries on business affairs and emigration would be of great benefit to the State.

Mr. Denham, in replying, said: "It is our business to fill the empty spaces of Queensland, which is an empire problem. Australia's own safety depends upon our peopling the unoccupied fertile part of the north-eastern coast, which is a temptation to the vast hordes of the East. We must occupy it, and to that end continue building railways, and bringing people from Europe."

Mr. O'Sullivan, Queensland Attorney-General, also responded.

Mr. Harcourt congratulated Mr. Denham on the success of the recent loan flotation. He greatly appreciated the advantage gained from the past few weeks' intimacy with the Premier of the great state of Queensland.

Mr. Mackenzie, Sir George Reid, the various Agents-General, and many Queenslanders assembled to say farewell to Mr. Denham at Euston station, when he left en route for America to catch the Niagara at Vancouver.

ANTARCTICA.

SHACKLETON EXPEDITION.

VALUE OF MAGNETIC WORK.

LONDON, April 25.

Sir Ernest Shackleton was the guest of the Pilgrim's Club last night, and in the course of a speech sketched his plans in connection with his forthcoming Antarctic expedition.

He said he would effect a landing in the Weddell Sea in the second week in December, with sufficient food for the whole transcontinental journey. Each daily ration would be of the highest nutritive value, and would be 35oz in weight.

He remarked that the £45,000 spent on the last expedition would within three years be saved by the magnetic work accomplished. Observations near the magnetic pole showed the variation of the lines on the charts used by ships southwards of the equator to be slightly wrong, and their correction would enable ships to save two hours on a voyage.

Emphasising the importance of meteorology, he mentioned that a dense ice season in the Weddell Sea meant heavy rains in Chili and Argentina, and this year's open season in the Weddell Sea led to lighter rains in Argentina. If observations were made over a series of years, farmers and stockbreeders in Argentina would be able more or less to regulate their water supplies.

ANOTHER RAILWAY MURDER.

LONDON, April 26.

An unknown woman was murdered in a carriage on the London-Brighton express near Three Bridges station, yesterday.

The train was brought to a standstill owing to the pulling of the communication cord, and on an investigation being made by the guard the woman was found with her throat cut and stabbed to the heart.

An ex-naval man, Harry Brooker, with a knife in his hand, jumped from the train at Three Bridges station, but was captured by the guard.

SURF FATALITY.

WOMAN DROWNED AT MAROUBRA.

NO LIFE-SAVERS PRESENT.

There occurred on Saturday afternoon the first drowning case that has happened amongst surf bathers at Maroubra. Miss Annie M. Miller, 40, who had lived with her parents at 42 Baltic-street, Newtown, lost her life.

It was about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The beach was almost deserted at the time. The season has practically ended. The members of the life-saving club and most of the regular swimmers are said to have been away at football matches and elsewhere. Almost the only persons in the bay were a party of four women, two of them nurses from the South Sydney Women's Hospital, at Newtown, and two friends of theirs from Newtown, sisters, who had come out to bathe. They did not know the beach, but by some ill-chance they are said to have been told that the safest bathing was from the flat rocks at the northern end of it.

Three of the visitors decided to bathe. The fourth, Miss Nancy Kelly, a nurse at the South Sydney Women's Hospital, sat on the rocks reading. Her three friends had barely entered the water when she noticed that one of them, Miss Annie Miller, who was a little further out than the rest, suddenly appeared to be in difficulties. The other two, Miss Susan Miller and Miss Poiter, either started to help her or were caught by the same undertow. They were quickly in difficulties also.

Almost the only people in sight were two men, who were fishing from the rocks on the point at the north end of the bay. One of these, by name Packer, an alderman of Annandale, had noticed the girls, and had just decided to warn them that they were in a dangerous spot, when he realised that one of them was already in trouble. They were probably not out of their depth, but the water had clearly taken charge, and although they were not shouting or splashing, he could see that they were being twirled round by the force of the current.

The two men immediately ran to the spot whistling and shouting to attract attention of any people within hearing. Miss Kelly on the shore was in great distress. As the case was clearly urgent, Mr. Packer went into the water in his clothes, whilst his friend, a Mr. Mulhall, went off for the reel. Miss Poiter meantime struggled out by herself very exhausted. Mr. Packer managed to help Miss Susan Miller out of the water. But he was in some difficulty himself, not being a strong swimmer.

NO KNOWLEDGE OF LIFE-SAVING.

Miss Annie Miller was by this time out of reach. She was quickly carried out of the bay, and appeared to be floating all the time face downwards. The reel was brought, but nobody could be found who had any knowledge of life-saving. A man named Mac Thorburn made the first attempt. But the drowning woman was a long way out, and when he got about half-way he found himself in difficulties and had to come back. A boy was then sent to see if anyone could be fetched from "Psyche" camp, up the hill, in which some of the men were known to be swimmers. One of the campers, a young man named George Smith, happened to be lying down there, and he ran at once to the beach. The girl could still be seen floating some 200 yards from the beach and about 100 from the point. The reel was taken out to the point, and Smith went in from there. He had never taken a rope out before. The sea was rough and he twice found the rope entangled around his legs. But he reached the girl. He found her floating on her face with her head beneath the water. She was quite unconscious. He caught her beneath the arms and brought her in. The small crowd which was working the reel was very excited, and there was some danger that it would drown the swimmer also by pulling him in too fast, had not its efforts been moderated by the advice of a visitor who appeared to have heard of the disaster that has sometimes been caused by this well-meant haste.

The body was placed on the rocks and artificial respiration was immediately tried, and hot water and blankets were sent down from neighbouring houses. The Randwick St. John Ambulance arrived by motor car with a policeman, and another officer came by bicycle from La Perouse. Their efforts were continued for over an hour. But Dr. Lee-Brown, of Kensington, who was summoned, pronounced that life was extinct.

STEAMERS IDLE.

CHRONIC TROUBLE AT NEWCASTLE.

£10,000 LOST IN A WEEK.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

The Lymington colliery recently lost three days' work owing to a steamer, which had been chartered to take coal, being unable to obtain a berth. Neath and other collieries also lost time for similar reasons.

The manager of one of the largest colliery concerns in the district is very pessimistic about his collieries being able to work full time during the next fortnight, as there are so many vessels in port waiting for coal, and not nearly sufficient facilities to meet their requirements. He pointed out that on Friday there were 24 steamers, besides sailing vessels, standing idle. By Saturday morning, however, seven steamers had been loaded and left the cranes, while two others came in. The number was therefore reduced to 19, and by the evening three or four other vessels had also taken their departure. It was estimated by one merchant that the loss to merchants through the inadequacy of facilities was more than £10,000 last week.

Promises have been made, and cranes are on order in England, which will eventually alleviate the position. The ex-Chief Railway Commissioner gave an assurance about nine months ago that another hoist would be placed just above the present one. Nothing has been done, and the machine is still lying in the shed at Carrington, while steamers are delayed here week after week. The special crane which was ordered from England was also expected to be in use by this time, but as far as is known it has not left England yet.

For these reasons the merchants are anxious that no delay should take place in erecting the cranes when they arrive. A deputation will wait upon Mr. Holman when he visits Newcastle this week to see what can be done in the matter.

DOMESTIC TRAGEDY.

MAN FATALLY INJURED.

BROKEN HILL, Sunday.

Broken Hill was the centre of a domestic tragedy last night, about 7.30, when Wm. Hallett, aged 37, living in Slag-street, shot his wife with a revolver, and then fired one shot at himself behind the left ear. Both persons were found shortly afterwards—the woman in a neighbour's house and the man on the floor of the house, bleeding severely. Both were hurried to the hospital, where the woman, though she had three wounds, two in her shoulder and one in her back, was found not to be dangerously injured. Hallett, however, was fatally wounded, and died about 9.30. The woman to-day is doing well, but is suffering from shock.

Little is known of the circumstances leading up to the tragedy, but jealousy is believed to be the cause. Hallett had several times lately threatened his wife, and recently bought a revolver. This was taken from him, but was returned a few days ago, as he said he would purchase another.

KALGOORLIE.

NEW BISHOP CONSECRATED.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY.

If the progress of a church can be measured by the increase of its bishops, then is the Anglican Church in Australia forging ahead, for during the last 16 years eight new pioneer sees have been endowed and established.

The latest is Kalgoorlie, and on Saturday the new bishop, Dr. Golding Bird, late Dean of Newcastle, was consecrated in St. Andrew's Cathedral, Sydney. The Archbishop of Sydney performed the ceremony, and was assisted by the bishops of the provinces. There was a large attendance, including many clergy and laity from Newcastle.

Bishop Stone-Wigg based the consecration service upon the words in Paul's Epistle to the Corinthians, "Every man hath his proper gift of God, one after this manner, and the other after that." The occasion of the epistle was when the apostle finding the Corinthian Church soft, sensuous, and luxurious, dwelt with strong manly insistence on personal purity and a clean life. The bishop-elect was called to his stern warfare in the west from the older centres of work. The Church would largely stand or fall by the character and gifts of its chief pastor. The Anglican episcopate had men of divers types, men of profound learning, men of statesmanlike gifts, men of hardy endurance, men of intense piety, each had his own gift of God. The scholarly mind might find it hard to endure the little learning of some pioneer priest. There was obvious danger in the system which for the most part permitted only cautious elderly men to leadership, and gave them a life tenure, and until the appointments to parishes and dioceses were limited to ten years the Church must look to the young and vigorous missionary bishops, and the breezy unconventional bush clergy, to keep it from stereotyped views of its mission in the modern world. All too slowly the Church was promoting bush brotherhoods, bush missions, railway missions, communities, and men and women devoted to missions to seamen, immigrants, and to blind alley youths, and supplementing by special agencies the ordinary parochial system. This consecration marked the crown of the Bishop of Perth's strenuous efforts for the fourfold division of his enormous see after 20 years of arduous labour—the longest in any Australian diocese. The consecration of Dr. Golding Bird would bring to his side a vigorous helper. Bishop Riley would soon be Archbishop of Perth. Dr. Golding Bird had built a noble monument in his five years' labour in the second city of the State. He would use the experience of the past to fit him for the great work of the future.

The consecration was then performed.

LOOPING THE LOOP.

FRENCH AIRMAN.

A SENSATIONAL EXHIBITION.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

Monsieur Guillaux, the French airman, made his first public flight in Australia at the Newcastle Show Grounds on Saturday. There were between 6000 and 7000 people present. The airman reached an altitude of 7000ft. As he somersaulted time after time, and swerved down from tremendous heights till he was quite close to the ground, the people received thrill after thrill, and expressed their appreciation of the daring feats by hearty cheering. M. Guillaux made two flights during the afternoon. The first time he stayed in the air 33 minutes, and the second time 20 minutes. He looped the loop several times, and performed a more daring feat in the "corkscrew dive."

The day was ideal, a light wind was blowing, and the sky was cloudless. Long before the gates of the show ground were opened a large crowd had assembled. Between 2 and 3 o'clock there was a long queue of motor cars, sulkies, and buggies entering the gates. The people came from all parts of the district.

Punctually at 3 o'clock the aviator stepped from the grand stand, and while walking towards the ring the band struck up the "Marseillaise," and the people cheered. The machine, which is the latest type of the Bleriot monoplane, with a 50-h.p. Gnome engine, circled around and around, each time going higher and higher, while the burring noise from the rapidly-revolving tractor blades became less and less distinct. The engine stopped, the noise ceased, and the machine dived gracefully down through hundreds of feet of air, till she was close to the ground. Many people thought that they would be struck by the machine, and they ran in all directions. But the engine was again started, and M. Guillaux was carried aloft. He looked back, smiled, and waved his hand. He soared high into the air, and in descending circled around and around. Sometimes the planes were almost perpendicular, and the white clad figure of the Frenchman could be seen by the spectators. He not only somersaulted forward with the machine, but also backwards, and at one stage provided a fine exhibition of a treble backward somersault, for which the crowd cheered enthusiastically.

The aviator decided to see some of the country north of Newcastle, and steered his machine towards Stockton. The day was perfectly clear, and M. Guillaux must have obtained a magnificent view of the district, with its rugged coastline, and the Hunter River winding westward to the mountain ranges. As he flew over the harbour all the steamers tooted, and the men working on the vessels and the wharfs cheered loudly. The French barque La Bruyere dipped her flag in honour of the airman.

The people on the show ground watched the machine till it disappeared from sight. On the return, as the monoplane came nearer, it looked like an eagle soaring gracefully in the sky. When the machine was exactly over the show ground, at an altitude of 7000ft, M. Guillaux gave an exhibition, which surpassed all his previous performances for the afternoon. He looped the loop three times in succession, leaving in the wake a thin line of white smoke from the engine. The rapidity of movement was startling. He undulated across the ground, and with ease made his descent, amidst a loud ovation from the public. The band again played France's National Anthem, and the people cheered.

After being congratulated by the Mayor, M. Guillaux was decorated by Mrs. John Reid, the Mayoress, with a scarf containing the colours of France and England, and presented with a beautiful horseshoe shaped bouquet. The aviator thanked the Mayoress, and presented her with a diamond brooch and a rosette.

After an interval of several minutes M. Guillaux made another ascent, during which he performed feats more daring than before. First of all he noticed a number of cadets, who were on the ground by his invitation, marching from one side to the other. He decided to test them. The machine swooped right down, and went within three feet of the heads of several boys, but no disorder prevailed. Again and again he swept down, sometimes close to the spectators around the ring, but more often nearer to the cadets. An incident which brought merriment with it occurred when a sparrow was flying quite close to the machine. The bird was very timid, and scarcely knew in which direction to fly.

The machine while in mid-air was turned over sideways. Back somersaults were repeated time after time. The monoplane would shoot down perpendicularly, and then after a graceful curve would reach a level and make another ascent. After being in the air 20 minutes he again alighted, and was enthusiastically cheered and applauded.

Interviewed after his flight, M. Guillaux said that when he went out in a north-easterly direction he could see right out at sea. He noticed a big bay up north (probably Port Stephens). Upon returning the show ground appeared to him to be no larger than a florin. "It was certainly intensely cold up there," he added. He was pleased with the receptions that had been given him, and the attendance at the exhibition.

THE SENATE.

THE FARMERS' AIMS.

POSSIBLE CANDIDATES.

The nomination of candidates to run in the Liberal interests for the Senate in the event of a double dissolution of the Commonwealth Parliament, closes on Thursday next, 30th instant. It is unlikely that the list of candidates already nominated will be added to, unless, however, Mr. G. S. Beeby can be persuaded within the next few days to allow himself to be nominated. There is a large section behind the idea of running Mr. Beeby, and not the least influential of this section is the Farmers and Settlers' Association. It is well known that this organisation, which has so recently proved that it has to be reckoned with as a political entity, demanded, some months ago, the privilege of nominating two of the six Liberal Senate candidates. A ballot of something like 20,000 farmers was taken to select two candidates, which resulted in Messrs. T. I. Campbell (general secretary) and A. K. Trethowan (vice-president) receiving a practically unanimous vote. Since then, however, Mr. Campbell has decided that the increasing importance and daily-widening scope of the affairs of the association demand his individual attention. He has resigned the general secretaryship of the Pastoral and Agricultural Societies' Union, and has intimated to the F. and S. A. executive that he would personally prefer to remain at the helm of the association's affairs, rather than seek to enter politics.

Mr. Campbell's retirement, it has been explained to the Liberal Association, does not affect the demand of a voice in the direct selection of two straight-out farmers' candidates. The F. and S. A. executive has appointed a committee of three to confer with the Prime Minister, Mr. Cook, and two other members of the Federal Liberal Association executive, prior to the definite selection of the Liberal bunch for the Senate. This committee has absolute power to decide for the F. and S. A., and it is here that the possibility of Mr. Beeby's candidature is seen. The F. and S. A. committee would probably go strongly for Mr. Beeby to run with Mr. Trethowan as the F. and S. A. candidates, were he nominated. It is known that Mr. Beeby is loth to enter upon the campaign, even with the Liberal organisation behind him, but it is also known that to be the direct choice of the Farmers and Settlers' Association would be very much more attractive to him. But the F. and S. A. cannot nominate him, because he is not a member of that association.

There is no doubt that the sitting Liberals, Senators Millen, Gould, and Oakes, will be re-selected, with the entire concurrence of the F. and S. A. The names of Sir Joseph Carruthers and Mr. James Ashton have been prominently mentioned recently in this connection. Both are members of the State Upper House. Both have long political careers, and extensive Ministerial experience. Mr. Ashton, it is certain, will have the strong support of the F. and S. A., when the joint sitting of the selecting organisations is held, and it is believed that, if the selection of Messrs. Ashton, Beeby, and Trethowan could be brought about, the Liberal six thus constituted would at once consolidate the influence of both Liberal and F. and S. A. organisations, and would start out strongly predisposed to success for that reason. It is not definitely known, however, whether either Sir Joseph Carruthers or Mr. Ashton has decided to enter upon the campaign. Both names may be withdrawn, in which case it is impossible to give any reliable indication of how the selection may go.

CITY FIRE.

TEA WAREHOUSE ALIGHT.

DAMAGE, £10,000.

FIREMAN'S DREADFUL FALL.

Late on Saturday night a fire was discovered in the warehouse of the Oriental Tea Company, 346-8 Kent-street, city, which resulted in the upper portion of the building being burnt out. A fireman, George Nye, of headquarter station, was seriously injured through falling down a lift-well.

The call was received at headquarters station at about 10 minutes to 11, and by the time the first appliance arrived the flames had a firm hold on the fourth and fifth floors, and the remaining floors of the buildings were also alight. Tall buildings adjoined the burning tea stores on each side and at the back, and there was imminent danger of a spread unless the flames were speedily checked. To effect this the chief officer stationed two motor pumps in Clarence-street, and directed the attack through and over the buildings to the rear of the fire. The work was fraught with danger, as the men had to scale dizzy heights and work along narrow parapets high above the street, while all the time hampered by choking smoke and fierce heat.

In the front a set of ladders was run out, and two lines of hose were carried to the top, from which point of vantage they were able to play direct into the fire. Meanwhile, it was becoming speedily apparent that a determined effort must be made to enter the burning building if anything was to be saved. District-officer Grimmond placed himself at the head of a party, and, forcing open the doors, the men began to fight their way up the stairs. The smoke here was dense in the extreme, and more than one man had to fall out, but others took their places. The little band gradually reached the third floor. Here they were able to do good work, and, attacking the fire on the floors above from beneath, were soon able to check the downward progress of the flames. After over an hour's hard labour the brigade gained the upper hand, and were able to report that only the two top floors were burnt out.

It was at this juncture that an accident occurred. The wearied men who had been working all the time were called away from the lines of hose, and fresh men from the various stations were sent in the building to man the nozzles and extinguish the last flickers of the fire.

Two men were stationed on the third floor, and two were sent to the fourth, with strict injunctions to keep in the middle of the floors away from the lift-well, and not to move from the spots selected by the directing officer. The officer left the third floor for a few minutes, and on his return found that the men had moved over to the side of the floor adjoining the lift-well. He at once called them back, and they had just started to move when the boarding round the well collapsed, and Nye disappeared.

A rush was made to the ground floor, and there Nye was seen lying in a heap on the top of the lift. He was groaning slightly, but was quite unconscious. District-officer Grimmond clambered on to the lift, and rescued Nye from where he lay among a heap of hot ashes, and carried him down to the floor. He was then placed in the motor salvage waggon, and hurried to Sydney Hospital, where he was admitted in a serious condition, suffering from a fractured skull. Late last night his condition was unimproved.

An accurate estimate of the damage has not yet been made, but is thought to run well not yet been made, but it is thought to run well on to £10,000.

A LONG VOYAGE.

BRISBANE, Sunday.

The Italian barque Erminia, which has occupied seven months on the journey from Marseilles, arrived in Brisbane this morning. A representative of the agents stated that the protracted voyage was due to adverse winds.

COUNTRY PARTY.

PAST ACHIEVEMENTS OF LIBERALS.

MR. WADE'S ANALYSIS.

The State Opposition leader, Mr. Wade, made the following statement last night concerning the formation of a country party.

"I notice that Mr. Campbell, secretary of the Farmers and Settlers' Association, has stated through the press that the formation of the country party is due to the unsympathetic administration of successive Liberal Governments, and he attributes the present position of affairs to the fact that Liberal Governments with considerable working majorities utterly failed to make good in country districts. This statement is sweeping, and calculated to damage the Liberal party, but on the facts I will now present it is, to say the least, very ungenerous.

"Let us take the leading features of the platform of the Farmers and Settlers' Association in land policy:—(1) The bursting up of large estates; (2) the securing of a living area and no more; (3) freehold tenure, with the right of conversion of leaseholds. Has the Liberal party failed to make good in any of these respects? The Carruthers Government was the first Ministry that ever tackled the compulsory resumption of private estates so as to release land-locked areas. That policy was followed by my Ministry up to the day we left office. Nearly three-quarters of a million acres were thus made available for settlement, and it had a marked effect on the landlocked districts. Further, every settler, whether under the Crown Lands Act or the closer settlement policy, was guaranteed a living area, and so debarred from holding more than a living area. Every occupant of land under authority of the Crown for the last seven years has enjoyed that right. Moreover, this policy has been the means of preventing any area taken up during that period ever again going to build up large estates.

"Again the freehold tenure has been the very essence of liberal land policy. It was the Liberals who placed upon the statute book the right to convert leaseholds to freeholds. Take again the Settlement Promotion Act of the Wade Government, a measure that provided 95 per cent. of the purchase money to intending occupants of privately owned lands—the most liberal Act every placed on the statute book. Water conservation is a plank of the Farmers and Settlers' platform.

"The Carruthers Government was the first to introduce in a practical form, and on a large scale the providing of water for the dry tracts of country. The Barren Jack scheme is one of the largest in the world, and if properly administered is going to solve the problem of closer settlement in the arid regions of the whole of New South Wales. Decentralisation again is a plank common to the Farmers and Settlers and the Liberal platform. The Wade Government was the first to announce decentralisation as a matter of definite policy, and without delay took practical steps by appointing a Royal Commission to advise as to the best ports to open in carrying out this policy, and the best route for connecting these ports with the interior of the State.

"Railway duplication, again, was a burning matter in country districts. My Ministry, realising the paramount importance of this question, provided by Act of Parliament for the raising of a loan which should be specially ear-marked for the purpose of duplicating the main trunk railways. It is true no doubt that all our desires have not been accomplished by the stroke of the pen. Delays and difficulties are inevitable in party life, but nobody can honestly say that the work we have done indicates a want of sympathy with country interests.

"Mr. Campbell urges as a further reason for a country party that there is an attempt in Liberal circles to dictate to country electors from Sydney. Let me say, in reply, that the system of local selection of candidates has been in force for just 10 years, and there is not one case which can be proved where the central body in Sydney has dictated to country electors or forced the candidate of its choice upon the country people. It is true that during the last election the central body, and I personally, did intervene in several country electorates. In those cases the candidates had been chosen by the F. and S. organisation locally. The Liberals in the district—as these conditions were not acceptable—were prepared to find a candidate of their own. This would have meant the certain splitting of votes, with disastrous result, and I used my best influence in inducing local Liberals to abstain from running a candidate of their own, and urged them to sink any personal feelings and vote solidly for the F. and S. candidate. I was successful in checking a three-cornered contest, but I regret that I was not successful in entirely removing existing grievances and securing a solid vote. In those cases the Labour candidate won, and it only served to point the moral most emphatically that any division of forces could only have one result—the strengthening of the labour candidate.

"There seems to be a feeling current that this so-called country party means a split in the Liberal ranks. Statements have been made that in due time a leader will be elected. The fact of this information being made public, and, at the same time, the report of a split in the Liberal ranks, may give colour to a belief that the Liberals are likewise in trouble. I desire to say, therefore, that the resolutions carried by the members of the Opposition in themselves carry a direct confutation to this suggestion. That country interests are to receive special representation is conceded, but the method is co-operation with the main body of the Opposition, and the resolutions repudiate any attempt to form a third party. Indeed members who signed the document are explicit that there is no intention to create a split or a separate party with a separate leader and a distinct party room. It is true that the executive of the F. and S. did put proposals before these members, which involved binding themselves together as a country party, with a separate leader and a separate party room, but these ten gentlemen, realising the danger and the folly of an independent political party, made their views clear in the resolutions which they adopted. What authority the executive of the F. and S. had to make proposals which were contrary to the opinions of a great majority of the members of the conference last year, is a matter between them and these members. All I know is that these ten members of the Opposition declined the proposition presented them, and I am confident no attempt need be feared by them to injure the common interests of Liberals and farmers and settlers by the suicidal policy of a third party."

BUSH MYSTERY.

REMARKABLE IDENTIFICATION.

PERTH, Sunday.

The remains of the murdered man recently found in the bush near Guildford have been identified as those of William Ernest Ellison, who had been missing since he visited Perth, in December, 1912.

In that year he was working at the Government boring plant a few miles from Mingenew with a gang, which included Spargo, who was executed some time back for the murder of his mate at Broome, and who is suspected of a number of other murders.

Ellison was last seen in company with Spargo, at Perth, in December, 1912. The remains were identified by Ralph Potts, a dentist, by means of an amalgam-filled tooth and the condition of the jaw. Ellison visited Potts to have his teeth attended to. A number were pulled out, and a cast made of the man's mouth for the new set of teeth. Ellison never called for the teeth, although he asked that they should be supplied promptly, as he intended leaving for the bush.

LABOUR DISPUTES.

BRICKWORKS CLOSED FOR OVERHAUL.

MEN OUT OF WORK.

PREMIERS LETTER.

Bad news for the State brickworkers is contained in a letter from the Premier which the secretary of the United Labourers' Protective Society, Mr. A. Vernon, received on Friday. It cuts the ground from the deputation from the Labour Council which the Minister for Works has promised to receive at 12.15 to-day. The letter is to the following effect:—

"I have gone into the whole matter of the trouble at Botany with Mr. Griffith, and to-day with Mr. Hutton. The conclusions arrived at are as follows: (1) The works are to be laid up for three or four weeks, during which time the machinery is to be overhauled, and certain repairs effected. (2) At the close of that time I do not doubt that the majority of the men, if they are still available, will be re-employed. There are a few men who will not be; but there is no intention of terminating the employment of the bulk of the men. (3) At the same time, Mr. Hutton stipulates that the men that he does re-employ at once join the Brickmakers' Union. No doubt this would be disappointing to your union, and I regret its necessity; but I am bound to admit, after full discussion of it, that it is a reasonable request on the part of the management. The work in brickmaking work, and they do not want to have to deal with two unions. The loss of the small number of men effected will not materially weaken your union, I trust, and the interests of the men about whom you deputationised me will be, as far as possible, safeguarded."

There was a stage in this strike (which is one to have alleged grievances rectified, and two men reinstated) when there was a possibility that the whole of the building industry would be thrown idle. Delegates to the Building Trades Federation, however, took the view that the U.L.P.S. should not have declared the bricks "black" until the federation had been consulted. A resolution was, therefore, carried referring this matter to the unions affiliated with the federation for consideration and report. This means that the bricks will not be "black"—for the present at all events.

REDFERN TUNNEL.

Negotiations are proceeding in connection with the dispute on the question of payments for work done by members of the Railway Workers and General Labourers' Association at the Redfern tunnel. The union secretary, Mr. D. A. O'Sullivan, stated on Saturday night that there had been no developments. The Sydney branch of the Association, which includes the 90 men concerned, held a meeting at the Trades Hall on Saturday night, and decided to allow the negotiations to proceed.

BAKERS DISAPPOINTED.

The refusal of Mr. Justice Rich, in the Federal Arbitration Court, to grant to bakers the long-looked-for innovation of the abolition of night working, is causing union leaders serious apprehension. So far as New South Wales is concerned the award has expired, and the employers have received the legal 21 days' notice of the termination of the then existing conditions. What the employees will do remains to be seen. The ballot was overwhelmingly in favour of ceasing work.

FEDERAL ELECTIONS.

ILLAWARRA SEAT.

MR. FULLER A CANDIDATE.

WOLLONGONG, Sunday.

A largely-attended conference of delegates from branches of the Liberal League in the Illawarra electorate was held here on Saturday afternoon. Major Honey (Kiama) presided. In addition to the delegates, Senator Oakes, Mr. Massey Greene, M.P., and Mr. Parkhill were present. It was decided to form an Illawarra Federal Electoral Council. Senator Oakes briefly addressed the conference.

Mr. T. D. Collins proposed that the Hon. G. W. Fuller's candidature as Liberal candidate for the Illawarra Federal electorate be recommended to the central executive for endorsement. This was seconded by Mr. W. Carson (Kiama), supported by a number of delegates, and carried unanimously.

In returning thanks for his selection, Mr. Fuller urged the necessity for the thorough organisation of the electorate. Mr. Parkhill and Mr. Clutten also delivered addresses on the question o organisation, and certain suggestions put forward were adopted by the conference.

Mr. Massey Greene conveyed a message to the conference from the Prime Minister, to the effect that the Liberals of Illawarra were to buckle on their armour and start fighting, and never stop until they had won Illawarra for Liberalism.

It was decided to hold the next conference at Wollongong.

EDUCATION IN NEW ZEALAND.

NEW SOUTH WALES SYSTEM WANTED.

The Rev. R. E. Davies, M.A., minister of the Knox Presbyterian Church, Dunedin, N.Z., is visiting Sydney, prior to his departure with Mrs. Davies for a holiday trip to England. Mr. Davies was formerly minister of the Petersham Presbyterian Church, but a few years ago he received a call to his present charge. Since he has been in the Dominion Mr. Davies has taken a keen interest in the education question, which is a very live one there. Great interest is being taken in the New South Wales system of education. So great is the interest that it is expected the question of the adoption of a similar system will be submitted to the people by a referendum at the next elections. Already the Church of England, Presbyterian, and Methodist Churches have affirmed the necessity of adopting the New South Wales system, which, it is contended, would improve the present national system.

LOCAL OPTION POLL.

A WIN FOR CONTINUANCE.

On account of the closeness of the local option vote taken in the Granville electorate at the last general election, and the bungling in taking the vote at one of the polling centres, the Minister for Justice ordered a fresh poll, which took place throughout the electorate on Saturday.

Nearly 8000 votes were recorded, and the "continuance" won over "no-license" and "reduction" combined by a majority of less than 30 votes. On this occasion the votes for "reduction" were few, the total being less than 100.

The voting was very close at Homebush, Flemington, and Granville, at the lastnamed place there being a difference of only 48 votes in favour of "continuance." At Auburn "reduction" was carried by over 200 votes, but at Auburn North there was a substantial majority for "continuance." Holroyd gave a majority of one third for "continuance," whilst Guildford voted "dry" by something like 80 votes to the good. Lidcombe helped "continuance" considerably. The official figures will be made known to-day.

Mr. James Marion, general secretary of the alliance, stated that the results were in no way discouraging to the anti-liquor workers. The percentage of no-license votes cast last December was 45.9. On Saturday it rose to 48.7. The fact that the liquor bars were open all day on Saturday had given the continuance party a strategic advantage.

KEMP'S HANDICAPS.

CUP TIE FINAL.

WON BY BURNLEY.

LONDON, April 25.

Two hundred motor 'buses have been engaged to deal with the local traffic in connection with the English Cup final, between Liverpool and Burnley, which will be played at the Crystal Palace to-day.

In addition, 175 special trains will convey visitors from the provinces.

April 26.

Burnley won the cup by one goal to nil, scoring in the second half.

The match was witnessed by 100,000 spectators, and the King presented the cup to the winners.

The clubs that contested the above final, although established many years, had never before attained such pre-eminence in the renowned English Cup competition. Both are Lancashire clubs, Burnley having been one of the original participants in the English League in 1888, whilst the Liverpool Club was formed in 1892. The cup finals have been played at the Crystal Palace since 1895, and on three occasions the attendances have exceeded 100,000. At last year's final, played on April 19, 1913, there were 121,919 spectators—a record for a cup final—although it was stated that many saw nothing of the match. The gate receipts amounted to about £9000.

THE SENGHENYDD DISASTER.

HOME OFFICE REPORT.

LONDON, April 24.

The report of the Home Office in connection with the inquiry into the Senghenydd colliery disaster states that there had been a disquieting laxity in the management of the colliery.

It is stated that the mine was in an unsatisfactory condition through the presence of coaldust, and that it is probable the explosion was preceded by heavy falls from the roof of the mine, thus liberating gas, which electric sparks ignited.

CAPTAIN COOK'S LANDING

BREAKING THE FLAG.

AUSTRALIAN NATIONAL IDEALS.

On April 28, 1770, H.M.S. Endeavour, 368 tons, Commander Lieutenant James Cook, R.N., sailed into Botany Bay, and anchored in six fathoms of water.

This was the first scene in the drama of Australian colonisation, and on Saturday afternoon, 144 years after the intrepid navigator landed on these shores, a representative gathering of Australian citizens assembled to commemorate the event. Appropriately enough, it was another English seaman who on this occasion stood on the spot where Cook had stood and "broke" the Union Jack which fluttered in the breeze just as it did 144 years ago.

There were several orations on Saturday, but the most characteristic was that of the Admiral. Sir Geo. Patey said:—"Captain Cook 144 years ago anchored there in the bay where H.M.A.S. Yarra is anchored now. After that he hoisted the Union Jack on the spot we are standing on now. In order to commemorate that event, we are gathered here to-day. I have read a great deal about Captain Cook. He was a tremendously hard worker. He was a very silent man. I can do him no greater honour than immediately to endeavour to follow his good example. To commemorate that great day, and in memory of the greatest navigator and one of the finest seamen of all time, I hoist this flag."

The flag unrolled and waved gaily, while the crowd cheered. The Police Band, under Captain Bentley, played the National Anthem, and from the Battery of Field Artillery on La Perouse Point came booming a loyal salute. The crowd scattered over the picturesque Kurnell Reserve.

There were other addresses at the flagstaff. The Chief Justice spoke on national ideals, emphasising the fact that material prosperity was not the only thing which made for the greatness of the nation. The occasional oration was delivered by Mr. H. C. Hoyle, who represented the State Government, and told of the wonderful achievements of the white man in Australia. To give point to his remarks, there hovered on the fringe of the crowd a few of the dispossessed Australian aboriginals, who threw boomerangs, and then levied toll from their conquerors.

THE ARRIVAL.

The launch Premier conveyed the official party from La Perouse to Kurnell. On board were the Chief Justice, Sir Wm Cullen (president of the Kurnell Trust), and Lady Cullen, Rear-Admiral Sir George and Lady Patey, Flag-Captain Radcliffe, Flag-Lieutenant Poe, Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Hoyle, Mr. C. H. Bertie (president) and Mr. C. T. Burfitt (secretary of the Australian Historical Society), Alderman Pritchard (president of the A.N.A.), Mr. W. J. Dickenson (secretary of the Yorkshire Society), the Consul-General for France (M. Chayet), Captain and Mrs. Brownlow, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Coghlan, Mr. J. Lethbridge King, Mr. H. G. Smith (president of the Royal Society), Major Heritage, Mr. A. Meston, and Captain Sherbon.

The Kurnell landing pier was decorated with bunting. A Union Jack displayed on a raft near H.M.A.S. Yarra showed where the Endeavour anchored. The Navy flag of Cook's time (the Union Jack of Anne) was flying from a staff in the rock on which Captain Cook first landed. Near by was Cook's well, where the water casks of the Endeavour were filled. The visitors were received by the trustees, Messrs. W. Houston, C.M.G., J. J. Cohen, M.L.A., J. C. Gannon, M.L.C., and John Nobbs. A guard of honour of the Royal Australian Naval Reserve, under Lieutenant Murnin, and the Botany Cadets, under Lieutenant Clark, were drawn up on the lawn. During the afternoon the list of historic trees on the reserve was added to by three more Norfolk Island pines, planted by the Admiral, Lady Patey, and Lady Cullen. The Cook monument, Kurnell Cottage, and the grounds were decorated.

WHITE MAN'S WORK.

Mr. Hoyle, after referring to the historic associations, dealt with the achievements of the white man since Captain Cook landed at Kurnell. When the first fleet landed the population was only 1000, yet at the end of last year it had reached 1,800,000, and would be 2,000,000 in a couple of years. The little Endeavour, with its 368 tons, had been the forerunner of a mighty trade, for during the year they saw 3500 vessels with a tonnage of nearly 8,500,000 enter the New South Wales ports, and the value of that trade was over £65,000,000. The black nomads had no crops, but the white man had now 4,500,000 acres under cultivation. The aboriginal gunyah had been succeeded by palatial residences, the flour mill took the place of the nardoo, the clothing factory supplanted the opossum skins, and the industrial enterprises of the white man at the end of 1912 produced goods to the value of £61,000,000. The forests primeval were now crossed by 3850 miles of railway, while round the shores of Port Jackson and Botany Bay were 210 miles of tramways, and the capital invested in the railways and tramways reached £65,000,000. Attending to the educational needs of young Australia were 4000 schools, with an enrolment of over 300,000 (Applause.)

Sir William Cullen said that whatever criticism Australia's defence policy may have had for having endeavoured to do something instead of talking all the time about it, two things were certain—they could make the navy efficacious for the purpose for which it was established, and Sir George Patey possessed all the qualities necessary to make it efficacious. They welcomed the representatives of other nations who had participated in the geographical survey of the Australian coast. They might be quite as good, but they did not get here first. (Laughter.)

In remembering the pioneers who made Australia, then needed to be reminded again and again of the principles and ideals which underlie everything great in the work of the pioneers. They might boast of their material prosperity and progress, but if they forgot that truth-speaking, straight acting, honour, and justice, patriotism, and generosity to those who need it, be at the bottom of everything that makes a nation great, then they would need more reminders of the ground from which they sprang. It was because Australians had few historical occasions, and were so far from European civilisation, and were not like the nations which had to stand back to back facing an enemy in arms, that they did need such historic occasions as this to think back and ask themselves what their children's children would ask—had their forefathers courage and intelligence and a sense of justice and patriotism? What did they do to make the conditions of life more prosperous and better for the people?

"May they not look in vain for these signs amongst our records," Sir William Cullen continued. (Applause.) "I do not think they will look in vain; but prosperity was nothing unless the hearts of the people were sound."

FOOTPADS.

A MELBOURNE ROBBERY.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Frank Fitzsimmons, who is employed at the Bijou Theatre, made a sensational report to the detectives to-day.

He said that at 10 minutes past 4 this morning he was walking along Brunswick-street, Fitzroy, towards his home, when two men rushed at him from out of the darkness. One caught him by the neck, and pressed the muzzle of a revolver against his forehead, saying "we will put a bullet through you if you make any noise." The other man, who also held a revolver in his hand, then rifled his pockets. They took all he had on him—6d and his gunmetal watch and chain, valued at 15s.

PREMIERS' CONFERENCE.

LABOUR LEADER'S VIEW.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The Eight-hours' Anniversary Committee gave a dinner at the old Trades Hall last night in honour of the pioneers of the eight-hour movement, and delegates from other States and various parts of Victoria who will take part in to-morrow's demonstration.

Mr. Elmslie, M.L.A., leader of the State Labour party, in responding to the toast of the State Parliament, said he held that they should not have foisted on them the Premiers' conference when they had constitutional Governments. They should not tolerate that "Legislative excrescence," which, in point of fact, emanated from the edifice of the enemy. (Cheers.) When they were up against that form of government they would find it very difficult to combat it. It was, therefore, essential that the public mind should be warned. They should not give their friends any extra power than they had themselves.

SENIOR CADETS.

NEWINGTON COLLEGE CHAMPIONS

ANNUAL COMPETITIONS.

The annual competitions amongst the senior cadets of the State for the selection of a team to represent New South Wales in the Commonwealth competitions, to be held in Brisbane next month, were held at the Showgrounds and the Long Bay rifle range on Saturday. These competitions were inaugurated three years ago, the Barker College winning the first State championship in 1912. In that year the Commonwealth competitions were held in Melbourne, and the Melbourne Grammar School won the championship. In 1913 Newington College won the State championship, also the Lady Dudley banners and the Commonwealth competitions, which were held in Sydney. This year Newington College again annexed the championship of the State, though they were closely pressed by the Bulli and Bathurst cadets. The Newington College team will now represent the State in the Commonwealth competitions in Brisbane in May.

On this occasion eight teams entered the State competitions, namely, Newington College, Bulli, Bathurst, Church of England Grammar School, North Sydney, Botany, Cleveland-street, West Maitland, and Glebe. The teams consisted of 24 cadets, two section commanders, and an officer. The brigades represented and the officers were:—

4th Brigade, West Maitland, F Company, 14th Battalion, Captain Burgess.
5th Brigade, North Sydney, A Company, 18th Battalion, Captain J. Harris.
6th Brigade, Botany, E Company, 23rd Battalion, Lieutenant Simpson.
7th Brigade, Cleveland-street, K Company, 28th Battalion, Lieutenant Milne.
8th Brigade, Glebe, A Company, 29th Battalion.
9th Brigade, Newington College, K Company, 26th Battalion, Lieutenant Robertson.
10th Brigade, Bulli, C Company, 37th Battalion, Lieutenant J. J. Hiles.
11th Brigade, Bathurst, M Company, 41st Battalion, Lieutenant A. Meade.

The District Commandant, Colonel E. T. Wallack, C.B., was the umpire, and other officials were: Lieutenant-Colonel J. M. Antill, C.B., Captain J. C. Brosnan, A. and I.S., Captain A. Cooke-Russell, P.T.I.S., Captain C. S. Coltman, C.O., 25th B.S.C., and Captain T. P. Conway. The cadets were paraded on the Show Grounds, and were there examined in company drill and physical training. They were also inspected by the Commandant, and were marched past. At Long Bay the cadets indulged in skirmishing and military rifle shooting. At the outset the Commandant disqualified the Glebe cadets for attending in insufficient strength, and for being late on parade. The remaining seven teams were then put through the various tests. In drill, Bathurst and Newington College each obtained 150 points, West Maitland being next with 147. In physical drill, Newington College headed the cadets with 119, the Church of England Grammar School, North Sydney, being three points away. Bathurst beat Bulli and Newington College by three points in inspection. In fire control, Newington College was two points clear of Bulli. In shooting, the Church of England Grammar School was 23 points ahead of any other team, but in skirmishing the Bulli lads easily topped the list. The final adjustment of the points gave the Newington College 653, Bulli 634, Bathurst 631, Church of England Grammar School 629, Cleveland-street 588, West Maitland 564, and Botany 492.

The following are the details of the points scored by each team:—

Brigade.	Shooting.	Fire Control.	Inspection.	Physical Drill.	Drill.	Skirmishing.	March Past.	Total.
4th	30	26	79	96	147	147	40	565
5th	58	29	64	116	136	191	40	629
6th	5	27	69	91	134	122	44	492
7th	30	36	66	108	141	162	45	588
9th	15	43	161	119	150	100	45	653
10th	28	41	91	88	136	211	39	634
11th	8	28	94	106	150	200	45	631

The positions of the teams were:—

K Company, 26th Batt., 653 points	1
C Company, 37th Batt., 634 points	2
M Company, 41st Batt., 631 points	3
A Company, 18th Batt., 629 points	4
K Company, 28th Batt., 588 points	5
F Company, 14th Batt., 564 points	6
E Company, 23rd Batt., 492 points	7

After announcing the results, the Commandant handed the Lady Dudley banners to the winning team. He said that as Newington College had gained the highest number of points the Dudley banners would remain with them, and they would be the team to represent the State of New South Wales in the Commonwealth competitions to be held in Brisbane next month. He heartily congratulated the winners, but he wanted to say something about the second team. They had come from Bulli. They had secured a very good second. He noticed a decided improvement in last year's work. But there were faults, especially in the fire control.

VICTORIAN CHAMPIONS.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The 18th Brigade team of Senior Cadets (Ballarat Agricultural High School) yesterday won the district championship. This team will represent Victoria in the Commonwealth matches, to be held in Brisbane in June.

STOLEN JEWELLERY.

AN AMUSING MISTAKE.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Detective Sergeant Bannon is probably one of the best-known members of the Criminal Investigation branch in Melbourne, but up till yesterday morning a young constable at South Melbourne was unaware of his identity.

Believing that he had accidentally come across a notorious jewellery thief who had returned to recover his plant, the ambitious policeman placed Bannon under arrest, and was on the point of escorting him handcuffed to the police station when the detective enlightened his would-be captor by producing his warrant card.

The incident was the sequel to a robbery of jewellery valued at £40 from a shop in North Melbourne a few nights ago. On Friday night the detectives arrested two men near the Rockery in South Melbourne. They had in their possession a bag containing jewellery. Detective Bannon returned to the Rockery yesterday morning to see if the remainder of the missing jewellery was hidden there. Meanwhile the constable had been informed by two lads that they had found some jewellery in the Rockery, and the policeman was waiting for the thief to return for it when Detective Bannon came on the scene, and was in danger of being locked up.

YOU SHOULD USE IT.

"Robur" is used daily by thousands of people, amongst whom are: Tea-tasters, Analysts, Doctors, etc. We need only say in its favour that we guarantee it to be absolutely pure Tea—that it will make more cups of Tea to the pound than any ordinary Tea—and that the way we put it up in packets and tins retains the flavour better than loose tea, besides keeping it away from dirt or anything likely to spoil it.

We would suggest your using the No. 1 Grade; it is delicious tea, and wonderfully saving; most Grocers keep it in stock.

TWO HOURS TEAMS' RACE.

A brilliant sprint in the closing stages of the Ashfield League Club's two hours teams' race at Pratten Park, on Saturday afternoon, placed T. Cannan, and incidentally his team-mate K. Forty-five miles were covered during the two hours the teams were on the track. Ten teams started, and nine completed the distance lap for lap with the winners. The tenth team retired after 18 miles had been reeled off. At the end of one hour's riding a special sprint prize was won by W. F. Roebuck from L. Hammond and T. J. NEW SOUTH WALES CYCLISTS' UNION.

NEW APPOINTMENTS.

The New South Wales Cyclists' Union Council has elected Mr. W. Donnellan, of the Marrickville Club, to fill the position of hon. handicapper to the union, made vacant by the retirement of Mr. J. F. Firkin, whose change of residence to Canley Vale has forced him to sever his connection with the active control of amateur cycling in the State.

The retirement of Mr. E. Hannell, an esteemed executive officer, who could not again accept office, was to the advantage of Mr. W. Sneesby, the energetic secretary of the Lidcombe-Auburn Club. During the past two seasons Mr. Sneesby's successful management of the old-time Rookwood Club, has been frequently commented on, and his election to the Union executive has met with general approval among the amateur factions.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

The Antarctic disturbance has now disappeared somewhere to the east of New Zealand. The high pressure system at present covers the whole of the continent, with the exception of a small portion in the extreme south-western corner and the far northern parts.

This "high" is about the first of the winter type, and has consequently resulted in many frosts, and a few temperatures below freezing point.

The centre is situated in Riverina, where the barometers are as high as 30.39 inches.

A new Antarctic disturbance has made its appearance to the east of the Leeuwin, while the monsoonal depression still hovers between the Cambridge Gulf and the Gulf of Carpentaria.

Ocean Forecast.—Squally westerlies and rough weather over the Western Bight, later extending eastward over ocean towards Tasmania. Fresh squally south-easterly on the Queensland coast; sea smooth to slight elsewhere.

FINANCIAL.

GERMANY'S FINANCIAL POSITION.

The report of the Deutsche Bank, in its annual review of the economic position throughout the Empire, points towards the fact that in 1913 German exports exceeded for the first time the amount of 10 milliards of marks. Compared with the previous year the increase of exports amounts to 1,124,000,000 marks, whereas imports have only increased to the extent of 4,000,000 marks. As regards her foreign trade, Germany is only 3½ milliards of marks behind Great Britain; while in regard to imports and exports she surpasses the United States by nearly three milliards, and France by 8½ milliards of marks. Imports of gold into Germany exceeded exports to the extent of 310,000,000 marks, as compared with 167,000,000 marks and 124,000,000 marks for the two preceding years. The German Imperial Bank, which, at the beginning of March, 1909, held gold to the amount of 824,000,000 marks, had, at the same period in 1913, increased this amount to 1,300,000,000 marks, whilst its stock of silver, etc., amounted to 300,000,000 marks. Deposits with savings banks increased by 1,000,000,000 marks, and now total nearly 20,000,000,000 marks, while the premiums paid throughout the Empire for insurance against sickness, accident, and old age amount to more than 1,000,000,000 marks per annum. The report points out that there is no other country in the world where so much is being done for the well-being of the middle and lower classes. In spite of the heavy expenditure which the Empire and the various German States are incurring for social purposes, for railways, and improved communications generally, as well as for defence purposes, the finances, both of the Empire and of the individual States, are absolutely sound. A proof of this lies in the fact that the net receipts of the various German Government railways more than cover the interest payable on all German State loans as well as the amount necessary for amortisation. Were the German Government railways capitalised, and were there a company wealthy enough to buy them all, the price to be paid would be sufficient for covering the total liabilities of the Empire and the separate States. Furthermore, if the fact is taken into consideration that both the Empire and the States own property in the shape of buildings and land, the total value of which cannot possibly be accurately estimated, the conclusion is justified that the creditors of the Empire and of the individual States have nothing to fear. The ever-increasing wealth of Germany is not only to be attributed to the enormous activity and splendid organisation shown in commerce, industry, and shipping, but also to the development of agriculture, which plays an important part as an economic factor in Germany, and it is worthy to note that the report of the Deutsche Bank dwells in detail upon the services that agriculture is rendering to the German nation at large. From this detailed statement it is seen that, as regards rye, barley, oats, and potatoes, Germany produces the largest crop to a given area. That Russia, where agriculture is still very primitive, should be behind Germany, is not exactly surprising. But the report shows that countries enjoying a far greater natural fertility and a far better climate than Germany, such, as for instance, France and Austria-Hungary, are also behind Germany in regard to the relative quantity of corn and potatoes grown. The explanation is that although the soil in Germany is comparatively unfertile, intensive cultivation and the application of all that science can teach have succeeded in placing German agriculture on a better footing than it enjoys in many other countries endowed by nature with a more favourable climate and a better soil.

SLOT MACHINE SAVINGS BANKS.

Consul-General Coffin reports from Budapest that about three years ago a bank in the city named began the establishment of a series of slot-machine savings banks. The machines are arranged for the receipt of two coins, the crown, and the 20-filler, or heller piece. They return a ticket for each coin deposited; the tickets bear interest from the date of their insurance. The rate paid varies with the current bank rate, and ranges from 3 to 4 per cent.; 410 tickets may be exchanged for a bank book. The machine is so constructed that if counterfeit coins are deposited, the numbers of the tickets issued for them can be ascertained; it can be arranged to take coins of other sizes and weights than the crown and 20-filler pieces. At present there are fourteen machines in operation in Budapest, six of which are located in front of different branches of the bank, six in front of public markets, and two in front of a large factory. It is noteworthy that the receipts of the two latter machines have always been less than any others. The use of the slot-machine savings banks has increased every year, and the bank states that it intends to extend the service. The total deposits in 1912 amounted to 65,000 crowns. The bank's actual profit in operating these machines is small, but there is an advertising value in them, and they also put the bank into business relations with a class of people which it would be difficult to reach in any other way, besides performing a social service in the inducement and opportunity for saving which they offer.

THE CITY BANK.

An artistically-prepared jubilee souvenir has been issued by the City Bank of Sydney. It shows that the prospectus of the company was issued in August, 1863. Therein it was stated that "11 years have elapsed since the establishment of the new Colonial Bank, and the growing wants of the colony render it necessary that another similar institution should be provided." The imports and exports during that period have very considerably increased, notwithstanding the separation of Queensland—the former in 1861 to £6,391,555, and the latter to £5,594,839." The souvenir contains a mass of detailed information respecting the bank, together with photographic reproductions of the various branches.

STAMP DUTY PROBLEMS.

RECEIPTS FOR PROMISSORY NOTES.

S. V. L. writes:—

Sir,—I should like to avail myself of the opportunity afforded in your columns to ask your opinion on the following:—

(1) Some houses issue a printed receipt for promissory notes similar to the ordinary cash receipt, except that it states thereon that the receipt is for a pro. note. Assume it is not a receipt "for or upon payment of a sum of money," but merely acknowledges receipt of a promise to pay money, does such receipt require a 2d stamp?

(2) Will the requirements of the Act be met by adhesive stamps affixed to pro. notes, or must the stamps be embossed?

(1) No. (2) Yes; adhesive stamps will do. "Pro. Note" asks a similar question.

FIRE INSURANCE POLICIES.

"Inquirer" writes:—

Sir,—I notice the Stamp Duties Act, fire insurance companies must affix stamp duty of 4d for each £100 or fractional part of £100 of insurance to the policy, and on renewal to the renewal receipt. This tax is passed on to the insured, consequently the company does not pay any stamp duty. Is the company liable to pay stamp duty of 2d in addition to the amount borne by the insured for every premium of £2 or upwards received?

2. An agent, on behalf of a fire company, collects a premium of £2 or upwards, for which he gives the insured a receipt. Has this receipt to be stamped in view of the fact that the company issues a stamped receipt?

(1) Yes. (2) Yes.

SALARY AND WAGES.

G.D., writes:—

Sir,—I am in clerical employment, being paid weekly, and receiving over £2. Up to the present I have never given a receipt for my wages. Please say if it is necessary for me to give a receipt, and thereby pay stamp duty.

The payment for clerical work would be regarded as salary, not wages, and if a receipt be given a stamp is required; no receipt is, however, necessary.

WHEN LAND IS PURCHASED.

Mr. C. T. Young writes:—

Sir,—Can you inform me within what time must a contract for the sale of freeholds be stamped, the amount of stamp duty payable thereon, and whether, after the contract has been stamped, there is any further fee payable on the conveyance, and, if so, within what time it has to be paid.

In contracts for the purchase of land an ad valorem duty of ½ per cent. of the purchase money is payable on the contract, if the contract is executed in New South Wales, and if such duty is not paid within one month a fine of 20 per cent. of the amount of the stamp duty is inflicted, while if it is not paid within two months a penalty of £25 is inflicted. If the contract is executed outside the State two months is allowed in which to pay after the receipt of the contract in the State. Subsequently, upon the conveyance or transfer of the property, the Act provides that a fixed duty of £1 must be paid. Two months from the date of transfer or conveyance is allowed in which to pay the £1. In the event of the transfer not being completed, the amount paid on the contract is returned.

Discussing the above clauses of the Act, Mr. Johnson (the Commissioner for Stamps), stated that it was not his intention to strictly enforce the fixed duty of £1 on the transfer. If the ad valorem duty of ½ per cent. on the contract was under £1 he would charge a like amount on the transfer. That is to say, if the ad valorem duty on the contract was 12/6, he would charge 12/6 on the transfer. Of course, in cases where the ½ per cent. amounted to over £1, he would charge only £1—he could not charge more. Mr. Johnson concluded by saying that he did not think any Colonial treasurer would cavil at what he proposed doing.

REAL ESTATE PROBLEMS.

"Estate Agent" writes:—

Sir,—Would you kindly add to the debt of gratitude the public already owe to the "Herald" by publishing answers to the following queries:—

(a) Have contracts for the sale of real estate to bear a shilling stamp in addition to the ad valorem duty?

(b) In a subdivision sale, when there is one contract, and the individual buyers sign a schedule opposite the blocks they have respectively purchased, does each signature constitute a separate contract liable for 1s, and also ad valorem duty, or what duty is payable?

(c) What is the ad valorem rate?

(d) Within what time have contracts to be stamped, and is there any penalty?

(A) No; (b) yes; but only ad valorem duty; (c) ½ per cent.; (d) see reply to Mr. C. T. Young.

PARTNERSHIP CONTRACTS.

"Como" writes:—

Sir,—Re partnerships and businesses sold by agents on the ordinary printed forms, should stamps be affixed thereon, and, if so, the amount of duty to comply with the Act?

No.

HIRE AGREEMENTS.

Mr. P. North writes:—

Sir,—I am selling goods on hiring agreements, and am receiving money for payments of instalments daily, mostly over £2.

Form.

Sydney............

Paid to the credit of .... of .... account, with P. North, the sum of ....
on account of .... by the hands of.................., £.........

(Cashier's initials.)

Are acknowledgments to customers on this form taxable? If so, then, why are deposit slips given by financial institutions for overdraft accounts not taxable?

P.S.—If I added triplicate acknowledgment across the corner, does it make any difference?

No. Acknowledgments of money deposited in any bank to be accounted for are among the exceptions provided for under the principal Act.

INCOME TAX PROBLEMS.

PROFITS FROM LAND.

"Land" writes:—

Sir,—Eight years ago I bought land on the instalment system, and completed the payments three years ago. That land was sold last month. Must I furnish an additional income tax return, showing the profit; if so, am I entitled to deduct shire rates, and the interest which I paid on the unpaid balance of the purchase money each quarter?

No. But it would be different had the purchase been made within four years.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

We have received a copy of the fourth edition of "Station Bookkeeping," by Mr. Francis Ernest Vigars, F.C.P.A. The ever-increasing income and other taxes make it compulsory that station and all other accounts should be carefully kept. In the case of trust estates and partnerships it is also essential. The edition now ready contains explanations of what has been found after many years' practical experience of station accountancy a simple system of accounting for those for whom it is intended.

LONDON FINANCIAL CABLES.

CONSOLS.

LONDON, April 24.

The Stock Exchange to-day was depressed and rather panicky, owing to the war in Mexico. Consols fell to 74⅛, but recovered at the close of the day, when they were quoted at 74⅝.

AUSTRALIAN MERCANTILE LAND.

The Australian Mercantile Land and Finance Company has declared an interim dividend of 10 per cent.

NEW PRODUCTS.

INTRODUCTION INTO COMMERCE.

Experimental production has made enormous advances in the last 25 years. Waste products and waste lands have been used to advantage in the service of the arts and of commerce. The progress of agriculture—especially of tropical agriculture in its practical bearing—is becoming increasingly a question of the first importance.

A writer in the "International Review of Commerce and Industry" asserts that the great and increasing demand for fibres and other vegetable products used in the manufacture of paper and paper-pulp has led to the introduction of many substitutes for esparto grass—first introduced, in the middle of last century, by Thomas Routledge—and rags of various textile fabrics; but only a few of these have acquired any permanent commercial importance. Wood-pulp is by far the most important paper-making material at the present day; and, owing to the wide distribution of the sources of supply—coniferous trees being the most suitable—it is the cheapest material, and the one best adapted to the manufacture of various classes of paper. Large quantities of straw-pulp are imported into Great Britain for the manufacture of brown papers and straw boards, and bamboo is coming into prominence as a source of paper-pulp.

Attention also may be called to the utilisation of "elephant grass" as a paper-making material, and of "cheyi" fibre, as a substitute for hemp, which it resembles in appearance. The former is a perennial grass occurring in a wide zone across tropical Africa, and the latter is a herbaceous plant found commonly in tropical West Africa, the seeds of which yield a valuable edible fat. Samples of "cheyi" fibre, recently received from Northern Nigeria, were examined in the laboratories of the Imperial Institute and compared with Sunn hemp from India; and it was considered by experts to be equal in value to fine Bombay hemp, which 18 months ago was quoted in London at £26 to £27 per ton, the normal value being about £17 to £18 per ton. Zapupe fibre, which has been introduced into commerce as a substitute for Sisal hemp, is another tropical product which should have a ready sale in the United Kingdom. Two samples recently examined at the Imperial Institute compared favourably with Mauritius hemp and Sisal hemp, and they were valued at about £32 and £30 per ton in London, with Mexican Sisal at £34, and best quality Mauritius hemp at £28 to £30 per ton.

The utilisation of Sudan dura (millet) as a substitute for maize has also been a matter of investigation by the Imperial Institute. The results of three independent feeding trials show that Sudan dura is a satisfactory feeding-stuff, about equal in value to maize, and that it can be substituted for the latter—which it closely resembles in chemical composition—without disadvantage. Technical trials indicate also that this grain probably could be substituted for maize in the manufacture of certain kinds of spirits. Dura is cultivated throughout the Sudan, and, being the staple food of the people, most of the product is consumed locally; but an export trade is being built up, tentatively.

The increasing demand for wood-oils draws attention to the fact that the supply from China is practically limited, in consequence of the economic conditions regulating the supply, and might well be augmented by production in the vast tracts of country in the British Empire little suited to general agriculture or to the cultivation of more exacting economic plants. In warm, temperate, rocky parts of Australia, South Africa, the East Africa Protectorate, India, and elsewhere the attention of agricultural departments might well be directed towards wood-oil trees. These brief indications may suffice to show that the pioneers of commerce must be constantly on the alert for new developments in their particular industry.

COMMERCIAL.

VICTORIAN GROCERIES ADVANCE.

Retail prices of groceries in Victoria have advanced, the ostensible reason being an advance in wages given to the hands by the wages board. The new prices have been drawn up by the Retail Grocers' Association of Victoria, and all members have promised to charge these rates. Thus, in the list for Melbourne and suburbs 25lb bags of flour have been increased 4½d to 2/9, common soap a halfpenny to 4d, oatmeal a halfpenny to 6d, milk ½d to 7½d per tin, coffee essence 1d to 10d per tin, sugar ½d per lb to 3d, peaches ½d to 1/, pineapples 1½d to 8d, jams ½d and 1d per tin, biscuits 1d per lb up to 8d, and 1½d over 8d. A suburban grocer not a member of the association informed the "Age" that in regard to branch shops, where only one man, a carter, and a boy were employed, the increase in wages would only amount to 17s 6d a week at the most. Under this new list, the rates stipulated for sugar alone would enable a grocer "doing" ten bags a week to add to his profits to the extent of £1/9/2 a week. A shop with a weekly output of ten bags of sugar would not employ more than three hands. In the past, however, grocers were able to make very little out of sugar. In the larger shops, where the employer managed his own business and employed several hands, the new award only provided for an increased wage of 5s a week for each adult hand. Kerosene was raised from 3/9 a tin to 4/3. This would give the grocer a good margin of profit. The increase of a halfpenny a quart was also a big item. Grocers had been getting a good margin of profit on jams all along. The new rates would give an increased profit of 2/ a case. Dark plum, the cheapest jam, of which a large quantity was sold, had been increased from 6½d per tin to 7d. This also was a big consideration. Now that winter was coming on, the sales of oatmeal would increase. From a wholesale standpoint, it was never cheaper than at present. The price of the popular packets was advanced from 6½d to 7d. On a large turnover this was really a good thing. Looking carefully over the list, it was clear that advantage had been taken of the new wages board determination to make another attempt to fix prices. It remained to be seen whether the effort would be successful.

CURING OF FISH.

A revolution in the fish industry, wherever carried on to an important extent, is foreseen by the Vice Consul-General of the United States at Halifax, N.S., E. M. Lamb, from the new fish curing method brought out at that city. It is supposed that early putrefaction of fish cured by the old methods is due to bone taint from partly leaving the animal heat within the fish, and the new process completely removes the animal heat. The fish, instead of being salted, sun-dried or shipped in refrigerator cars, are dumped into a tank of sea water that has been filtered through willow charcoal. Brown sugar is added to destroy any organisms that may be active at freezing temperature, and the temperature is then lowered to below freezing point, 16.1 per cent. of salt being added to prevent ice and to cause the formation of a protective coating over the fish. After two hours, the fish are removed, and put in barrels for shipment.

A STATISTICAL BUREAU FOR COFFEE.

Some reason for the heavy fall in coffee may be found in statistics published at Rio de Janeiro. The increase in the volume of the crop at Rio and Santos to February 12 was 1,115,353 bags, or 12 per cent., and the increase in value £5,451,796, or 15 1-3 per cent.

"The American Grocer" attributes to some unseen influence the reaction that of late has followed every attempt to raise prices, as it goes on to explain, in consequence of the uncertainty regarding the size even of the current crop and distrust of reports as to that of the next. The notice of entries of 32,000 bags in a single day during January knocked off 19 to 20 points in an hour at the New York Exchange. The financial sky is brightening, says that journal, and under ordinary conditions the coffee market should show increased strength. If it does not it can only be attributed to the extraordinary receipts in Brazil. "The American Grocer" blames Brazil for not supplying the trade with more accurate estimates of crops, and looks to the representative that the National Coffee Roasters' Association is about to send to this country for more reliable information in the future. For years, as editor of the "Brazilian Review," Mr. J. P. Wileman urged on the trade the necessity of some regular organisation, similar to that for wheat and other crops in the United States. Without some such organisation the most sincere and careful estimates can be little better than guesses or conclusions drawn from the very same sources that now go to form "opinion."

Cold water was liberally applied to Mr. Wileman's proposal some ten years ago for the organisation of a coffee statistical bureau, the houses consulted being of the opinion that it was de trop, as at that time, when roasters were in the ascendant, the great houses were in a position to arrive at sufficiently accurate estimates themselves, and the organisation, they thought, would only result in sharing their privileged position with outsiders. But times have changed. In the old times the roasters, who were making fortunes out of the fall of prices, were interested in keeping consuming markets as much as possible in the dark. To-day the boot is on the other foot, and it is the roasters who are thirsting for information that will keep prices from going up. The explanation of the excess of real over estimated entries at Santos, which, after all, is not so far very great, is to be found, not so much in defective estimates as in the monetary squeeze that, with the exception of rubber, has been felt in no other commodity so severely as in coffee, because in no other had individual credit been stretched to the same degree. As the boom was the result of cheap and abundant money, the reaction was brought about, directly or indirectly, by monetary stringency. But it is logical to believe that the need for realising has swept bare the coffee reserves of even the wealthiest planters, and that a good deal of the apparent increase of entries really represents coffee usually carried from one crop to another.

COLD STORAGE FOR FLOWERS.

Beyond the recognised florists' gardens a little trade is done in flowers for sale in the florists' shops of the city, with private gardens, and this, no doubt, would increase were it possible to prevent the results of a glut of flowers at varying periods of the year. Flowers cannot be held over till the glut is past under present conditions, but it has been ascertained by the French growers that a great deal may be done by cold storage. In the course of various trials it was found that if flowers immediately on being cut were placed in cold storage for from 24 to 48 hours, they afterwards preserved their freshness much better, even after a long railway journey in mild weather.

THE BUTTER MARKETS.

Prescott, Ltd., reports concerning the butter market of Australia:—

Sydney.—The quantity of butter arriving is considerably above local demands, but any surplus of choice quality can be readily placed in Victoria or W.A. The market advanced on Monday to 104/ per cwt for firsts, but there has been no improvement in the value of seconds, which are difficult to place on the local market. Fortunately, there has been a small demand from South Africa for this description. Exports for the week ended April 18 total 1778 boxes, out of which 514 were unsalted.

Melbourne.—The market is dull, owing to heavy interstate arrivals. The total for the week is 7284 boxes. This is more than the market can absorb, and it is possible to buy cheaper on spot than to import. Choicest brands are in good request. Quotations are as follows:—Superfine Victorian, 1/2, other choice 1/1; Queensland, 1/ to 1/1; New South Wales, /11½ to 1/. Arrivals for the week ended April 17 total 7382 boxes butter and 49 tons of cream. This is on a par with last week, and it looks as if the lowest point had been reached.

Brisbane.—It is unfortunate that there is no refrigerated space available for shipment to Melbourne for three or four weeks. In the meantime, the market remains firm at 104/, to which price it advanced on Monday. Seconds are still difficult to place, and the difference in price between first and seconds is likely to be considerable during the winter months. London sales of seconds for this week are reported at 95/ to 97/. Last week's production is estimated at 13,500 boxes.

PRODUCE.

RAILWAY MARKET.

Only a small amount of business resulted at the railway forage and grain sales on Saturday morning, and prices were still poor; if anything they were lower.

Wheaten chaff realised 4/9 per cwt, as the highest price; other lots commanding from 3/10 upwards.

Two trucks of oaten chaff, one from Mandurama, the other from Blayney, were knocked down at 4/6, and remaining consignments sold at much under value, a number being passed in without a bid.

The best price in the yard was obtained for a parcel of lucerne chaff from O'Brien, of Nemingha, which sold at 5/4 per cwt.

Consignments placed in position for sale:—Hay and chaff 45 truckloads, potatoes 5.

Produce manifested to arrive:—Chaff 22 truckloads, hay 6, potatoes 3, wheat 1, barley 1, maize 1, pumpkins 1.

Closing quotations on Friday were:—

Lead, soft foreign, £18/5/ per ton (5/ up).

Tin became demoralised on heavy realisations, which were largely due to the financial position arising out of the Mexican troubles, but a good consumptive business is proceeding.

LINSEED OIL.

Linseed oil is again easier, spot pipes selling at £24/5/ to £24/7/6 per ton, equal to 1/11 7-16d per gallon, a fall of 8/9 per ton, or 7-16d per gallon since Wednesday.

RABBITS.

The market for rabbits is dull, and without change.

FROZEN MEAT QUOTATIONS.

Smithfield market quotations for the undermentioned classes of frozen meats are based on actual sales of not less than 100 carcases of mutton and lamb, and 25 quarters of beef of fair average quality. These quotations are not for selected lines, but for parcels fairly representative of the bulk of the shipments now on the market:—

CHESS CHAMPIONSHIP.

WON BY M'ARTHUR.

After a desperate battle, lasting to the 70th move, McArthur succeeded in drawing against Crane, thereby securing the title of chess champion of New South Wales.

The tournament proved to be a great success, and much public interest was taken in it. The management, which was creditable throughout, was in the hands of Mr. E. T. Calvert, hon. secretary of the association, assisted by Mr. C. J. Coombs and Mr. H. Taylour.

Several excellent games were played. A feature of the play was the absence of dulness and the eagerness of the combatants for attack.

The new champion, Mr. Donald McArthur, was born in Chichester, Sussex, 28 years ago. His father was the late Sergeant-Major McArthur, secretary of the Sussex Chess Association, and an eminent problem composer. Young McArthur left England for Cairns, Queensland, about four years ago. Eighteen months back he came to Sydney, and joined the School of Arts Club. He was at that time only a third-class player, but, with regular practice, he rapidly improved, and was chosen to play as one of the colts against Queensland last year. He drew against Mr. Moseley. In the last tournament for the School of Arts championship he tied with Mr. Parker for fourth place. Mr. McArthur is a hospital attendant at the Callan Park Asylum.

The runner-up, Mr. H. V. Crane, is also a native of England. He played several good games, and had there been a brilliancy prize his game against Mr. O'Connor would have won it easily. With a little more luck Mr. Crane should have tied for or won the championship. Mr. L. S. Crakanthorp, third prize winner, played steadily throughout, but hardly up to his best form.

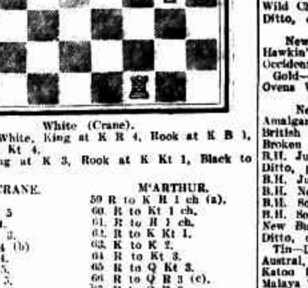

Mr. Robinson and Mr. Parker played good chess at times, but on occasions they spoilt their chances by blunders. Mr. Baynes played with steadiness, as a rule, though he missed a couple of wins, one of them being against Mr. McArthur. Mr. O'Connor, the Newcastle representative, did well, seeing that he has few opportunities for match practice. Mr. Spence hardly did himself justice, though he played good chess against Messrs. Baynes and Crakanthorp. Mr. Robins, who is but 18 years of age, was not strong enough for his opponents. Doubtless his experience of tournament play will benefit him.

McARTHUR v CRANE.

The adjourned game between these players was watched by an excited crowd of onlookers at the School of Arts on Saturday. The game was all-important, as if Crane had won it he would have tied his opponent for the championship. A draw, however, resulted. At the conclusion of the game about an hour was spent by a dozen players in analysing the instructive and difficult end game. The opinion arrived at was that the line of play pointed out in our notes to the game would have given Crane fair winning possibilities.

Position after White's 59th Move.

Black (McArthur).

White (Crane).

Position: White, King at K R 4, Rook at K B 1, Pawn at K Kt 4.

Black, King at K 3, Rook at K Kt 1, Black to play.

CRANE.	M'ARTHUR.
	59 R to K R 1 ch (a).
60. K to Kt 5	60. R to Kt 1 ch.
61. K to R 4.	61. R to R 1 ch.
62. K to Kt 3.	62. R to K Kt 1.
63. R to B 4 (b)	63. K to K 2.
64. K to R 4.	64 R to Kt 3.
65. K to R 5.	65 R to Q Kt 3.

69. K to Kt 5 (d).	69 R to K Kt 8 ch.
70 R to K Kt 4 (e).	71 R takes R ch.

Drawn Game (f).

(a) The adjournment move. He could have forced a draw now by 59 K to K 2, followed by R to K B 1, challenging the exchange of rooks, and getting his K in front of the dangerous P.

(b) The best move. White will now be able to advance the K and P.

(c) Waiting moves.

(d) An error of judgment. He should have played K to K 6, with the chance of black going wrong, e.g. 69 K to Kt 6, 69 R to K Kt 8 ch, 70 K to R 7, 70 R to R 8 ch, 71 K to Kt 8, 71 R to K R 7 (or A), 72 R to K B 7 ch, 72 K to K 1, and draws.

A.—If 71 R to K Kt 8, 72 R to K R 4, 72 K to B 3, 73 R to K R 7, followed by K to R 8, wins. The position admits of extensive analysis, as there are many alternative lines of play for each side. The possibilities of success favour White, as Black's defences are difficult.

(e) Throwing the draw into Black's hands, and destroying any chances of a win.

(f) Of course, 71 K takes R is forced, then Black wins the pawn by 71 K to B 2.

RECORD OF RESULTS.

SHOULD DYSPEPTICS DIET?

A SPECIALIST'S VALUABLE ADVICE.

Dyspepsia, indigestion, flatulence, and practically all forms of stomach trouble," writes a leading specialist "are in nearly every instance the direct result of food fermentation and the consequent production in the stomach of acid and gas which irritate and distend the stomach and make normal digestion impossible. The gas by distending the stomach and pressing upon the surrounding vital organs seriously interferes with their work, and frequently causes palpitation of the heart; but the acid is much more dangerous because it irritates, then inflames and even ulcerates the delicate lining of the stomach, producing dangerous stomach ulcers and even cancer. Food fermentation being primarily responsible for all the trouble, it was long the custom of physicians to permit the use only of such foods as could not ferment, but unfortunately these unfermentable foods were soon found to be so lacking in nutrition as to result in partial starvation and rapid loss of strength and vitality. In view of this fact, physicians nowadays seldom, if ever, recommend dieting, but adopt instead the more logical plan of permitting the eating of any food that may be desired, and then preventing fermentation by neutralising the acidity. This they do by prescribing half a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little warm water immediately after meals. This simple antacid is obtainable from any chemist, and so remarkable are its peculiar properties that dyspeptics and stomach sufferers can "eat practically anything they want so long as a little bisurated magnesia is taken immediately afterwards." Dieting for dyspeptics is seldom necessary, and will soon be a thing of the past. Be sure to get the same as what the doctors prescribe. It is bisurated magnesia, spelled b-i-s-u-r-a-t-e-d. Other forms bearing somewhat similar chemical names are lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties.—Advt.

MINING.

A NERVOUS WEEK.

LONDON MARKET DISTURBED.

METAL MARKET UPSET.

Extreme nervousness characterised the market during the past week, and a similar state of affairs ruled in Adelaide and Melbourne.

This was a reflex of the London Stock Exchange, and metal markets, both of which are a barometer of international politics and industrial enterprise. The indicator points to "stormy," and the effect upon oversea markets was undoubtedly adverse. According to cable advices, a gloomy tone pervades the London Stock Exchange, consequent on the prospect of war between the United States and Mexico, and the renewed illness of the Emperor of Austria.

As a matter of fact, when rumours of that ruler's illness were first circulated a fortnight ago, some local operators, anticipating the death of the aged monarch, sold freely Australian scrip listed on the London Stock Exchange, feeling certain such an event will adversely affect the Continental bourses, and that, in turn, they will assist to depress the London Stock Exchange.

Moreover, the want of stability in metal values had a disturbing effect upon speculation, and gives colour to the statements of English correspondents that there has been a falling off in industrial enterprise in the old country, and that there are signs of the position growing worse. The unsettled political problem over the Home Rule question still darkens the horizon, and is keeping the London Stock Exchange on tenter-hooks.

With all these factors at work, it is no wonder that the London market continues depressed, and that the Australian Exchanges reflect this state of affairs. Until the barometer alters to "fair," there is no hope of a change for the better.

In these circumstances, the business transacted last week was very limited, whilst the transactions were mostly on easier lines. The most noticeable feature was the big drop in the price of tin, the spot price of which last Thursday was £159/15/, as compared with £225 a year ago. This circumstance, together with the restless, nervous, and undecided state of the markets all over the world, had a marked effect upon speculation in Eastern tin ventures.

The market on Saturday was largely on similar lines to those ruling earlier in the week—that is to say, the business was small, and the transactions without significance.

Our London correspondent, cabling at the close of Friday's metal market, furnishes additional figures that are not too bright in the case of copper and tin. As regards the former, the "spot" price was £63/5/, or £1/2/6 down, the three months' price was £63/3/, or £1/5/ down; whilst electrolytic copper at £65/15/ was 5/ easier. In the case of tin, the "spot" price slumped £4/10/ to £155, whilst the three months' price at £157/5/ was a like amount down. Our correspondent explains that: "Tin became demoralised, owing to heavy realisations, which were largely due to the financial position arising out of the Mexican troubles, but a good consumptive demand is proceeding."

MINING NOTES.

The dredges of the Araluen Redbank Co. this week obtained 39oz. smelted gold. No. 1 recovered 20oz. 8dwt. for 223 hours' work, and No. 2 18oz. 12dwt. for 230 hours.

The latest report from the manager of the Central Tin Mining Company, Renison Bell, states:—"E. Workings.—During this week, ore winning has been confined to the intermediate level, and 43 tons have been broken and delivered to the mill. A prospecting rise on the south end of the ore body in top level has been started, and has advanced to 10 feet in ore of fair grade. F. tunnel has been advanced to 31 feet 6 inches, face pyritic. The C. tunnel has been enlarged a further 13 feet, total 53 feet."

MALAYA TIN CORPORATION.

The chairman of the above corporation writes:—"A long cabled report has this (Saturday) morning been received from Mr. K. S. Hungerford, confirming the value of the Ratrut Basin property, Siam, and the correctness generally of the boring data previously reported to the board. Mr. Hungerford states that his own check bores, 35 in number, embraced 180 acres, with an average depth of 20ft, and show an average of 2⅛lb tin to the cubic yard; value of tin, 73 per cent."

MAMMOTH COPPER MINE.

Supplementing his telegram, the mine manager, in the close of his progress report for the first half of April, furnishes the following particulars:—

"No. 2 lode: The face at date of report showed 5ft 6in; assay, 7 per cent. copper. A borehole has been put in towards the hanging wall, and has proved a further width of 4ft of ore, the last 2ft of which was solid pyrites, 12 per cent. copper. The end of the borehole was still in ore, so that the ore body at this point is at least 10ft wide.

"Widths of ore with assays reported by the manager are exposures at date of report, and do not refer to full width of ore body."

KYLOE COPPER MINES.

Mine report for two weeks ended April 18:—

"Hunting's Shaft (150ft level, north drive): The drive has been extended a further distance of 10ft, and is now in 113ft from the shaft. The horse of mullock mentioned in last report has cut out again, and the face looks very well. The lode is now 2ft 6in wide in the back of the level, and 5ft wide underfoot, and appears to be widening as it is driven upon. The values have been a little lower for the fortnight, owing to the horse of mullock, but have improved again, and are now up to the average. New sinking pump is being installed."

WHITE CRYSTAL TIN MINE.

The weekly report of the manager of the above mine states:—"Main shaft continued to 41ft; ground getting more vertical in east end of shaft. Crosby's section adit advanced to 15ft, hard quartzite, with little tin. Alluvial No. 8, 9, and 10 shafts bottomed, showing 4ft of wash, giving good dish prospects. Battery plant and water supply tank making good headway."

DIVIDED CHRISTIANITY.

DR. KELLY'S SPEECH.

"KEEP YOUR MOUTHS CLOSED."

Yesterday Archbishop Kelly referred to some recently-published criticism.

"To those people who have been the subject of large headlines in the newspapers lately I say," the Archbishop said, "give up your talk as representing subdivisions of Christianity. Christianity should never have been divided. Whilst it is divided and subdivided we should keep our mouths closed, and join in working in the direction of charity and peace. Come and help us, here, I say to these people who criticise us, or go yourselves and found institutions such as this." (Applause.)

The occasion was the blessing and opening by the Archbishop of additions to the Home of the Good Shepherd at Victoria-street, Ashfield, yesterday. Supporting the Archbishop were the Minister for Railways, Mr. H. C. Hoyle, M.L.A., Mr. T. Waddell, M.L.A., Mr. O. C. Beale, Mr. W. J. Donnelly, and a large gathering of priests. Nearly 1000 people were also present.

The institution has been purchased as a reformatory for women, irrespective of their religion, and has sufficient accommodation for about 100. The property, together with alterations and machinery, cost about £18,000, and towards that sum nearly £300 was collected at yesterday's ceremony.

After performing the ceremony, Dr. Kelly said Sydney had 10,000 temptations, and there were men in its midst who made no scruples about these things. In conversation and in literature one found things calculated to influence the passions of men. Apart from intoxicating drinks there were plenty of temptations, and these same young men in indulging their excesses had their victims.

Mr. Hoyle moved that a subscription list be opened in aid of the funds of the institution.

Mr. Waddell, in seconding the resolution, said that whilst he was not a Catholic, he was pleased to attend such a gathering and subscribe towards the fund.

AMUSEMENTS.

"THE LIARS."

Under the patronage of the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, "The Vagabonds," at the Repertory Theatre, on Saturday night, revived Henry Arthur Jones's Comedy, "The Liars." The proceeds are to endow a cot at the Renwick Hospital for Infants.

The production was successful, and perhaps the best interpretation was that of Mr. Robert Forster, as Sir Christopher Deering. The character was well interpreted and under the embarrassment of a mantelpiece that had the peculiar habit of overbalancing, he may be said to have acquitted himself admirably. Miss May Eldridge as Lady Rosamund Gatton, displayed much talent, adding greatly to her success by an easy and graceful deportment. Miss Ruby Coxhead was successful as the frivolous Lady Jessica Nepean, but she was a little mechanical. Others in the cast were Misses Violet Granger, Muriel Herbert, Muriel Quelch, Frieda Bennet, and Messrs. Geo. Stokes, J. W. Martin, M. M'Namara, W. H. O'Brien, John Leslie, W. Jackson, and H. Croudace. The Austral College students, conducted by Miss Eva Grace Nicholson, rendered a musical programme during the evening.

CHILDREN'S CARNIVAL.

A children's carnival was held at the White City on Saturday afternoon. The competitions, which were keenly contested, covered a wide range of characters, from princesses to peasants. The first prize, a doll nearly as big as the winner, went to Sophie Wager, as the Princess Elizabeth; the second, a doll's house, to Audrey Holdaway (bride); the third, a French doll, to Valerie Noble (Snowball). Norman Plumb (Papuan) won the boys' first prize (a bicycle); the second, a rockinghorse, was taken by George Porter (Punchinello); and the third, a yacht, by Jack Daniels (Admiral of the Fleet).

MISS FLORENCE PAIN'S RECITAL.

Miss Florence Pain gave a successful vocal recital at the Concordia Hall on Saturday night. The building was crowded, and Miss Pain was recalled time after time. Her fine voice was heard to advantage in "The Promise of Life," the "Flower Song," from "Faust," "A Farewell," "Husheen," and several solos which were contributed as encores. The extra numbers were loudly applauded, and the audience would have been pleased had the evening's entertainment lasted even longer than it did. Signor de Alba has every reason to be proud of his young pupil. The other items on the programme were also much appreciated. Recitations—humorous and dramatic—were rendered by Mr. Stanley Warwick. Mr. John Kelley (a bass-baritone) gave an operatic selection "She Alone Charmeth My Sadness." He also sang acceptably Allitsen's "The Lute Player." 'Cello solos were contributed by Mr. Bryce Carter, and piano solos by Mr. John Carlton Fay. The recital was under the direction of Nicholson and Co., Ltd.

COMBINED PUPILS' RECITAL.

The recital given at St. James' Hall, Phillip-street, on Saturday evening by the pupils of Madame Don-Aldon (singing) and B. Sheldon Green (professor of banjo) was well attended. A thoroughly enjoyable programme was presented, several of the pupils showing considerable talent. The vocal items were contributed by Misses Effie Campling, Daisy Butterworth, Thelma Henderson, and Messrs. Ernest Lockrey M'Donald, Norman Kaye, and Charles Voss. Banjo selections were played by Messrs. Sheldon Green, Wiggins, Miss Santon, and pupils. Madame Don-Aldon acted as accompanist.

MISS ADA BAKER'S PUPILS.

An "audition," the fourth of the series by the pupils of Miss Ada Baker, attracted a large audience in the King's Hall, on Saturday evening. Miss Baker introduced two new pianologues, "Betty and Johnny," and "Baby and Daddy." Those who assisted included Mlle. Jessica, Misses Agnes Fleming, Elsie Astridge, May Croft, Rose Clarey, Miriam Payn, Alice Burgess, Annie South, Marjorie Wray, I. and G. Baker, F. Annabel, Leila Smith, A. Stenning, B. Law, G. Farleigh, D. Turner, Mr. Tom Esplin, Mr. Eric Jones, and the Leichhardt Amateur Orchestra, conducted by Mr. F. Croft. Miss Baker and Mr. Warrington Reynolds acted as accompanists.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Up to 4 p.m. to-day the secretary (Mr. J. B. Olliffe) will receive nominations for the half-dozen events on the programme for the May meeting of Tattersall's Club at Randwick, on the 9th prox. The prize money totals 2000 sovs, of which 600 sovs goes to the Winter Stakes, 400 sovs to the Flying Handicap, 300 sovs to the Two-Year-Old Handicap, 250 sovs each to Tattersall's Stakes and the Welter Handicap, and 200 sovs to the Hurdle Race.

The weights for the Warwick Farm May meeting should see the light to-day.

The programme for the Boolaroo race meeting on the 2nd prox. demands the attention of owners and trainers to-day, for at 9 p.m. nominations close with the secretary, Mr. L. Solomon, Newcastle and at 4 p.m. with Mr. H. B. Dando, at the office of the Warwick Farm Club, city. The prize money aggregates 300 sovs, distributed as under:—Welter Mile of 50 sovs; Flying Handicap of 60 sovs; Novice Handicap of 50 sovs; May Handicap of 85 sovs; and Flying Welter of 50 sovs.

A fine of £2 was imposed on the owner of Kopane at Randwick on Saturday for sending the gelding to the post under wrong colours in the Hurdle Race.

Nominations will be received up to 8 p.m. to-day by the secretary (Mr. R. C. Hungerford) for the half-dozen events on the card for the meeting to be held at Epping on Saturday next under the auspices of the New South Wales Trotting Club. The prize money aggregates 250 sovs, of which 50 sovs each endow the Flying Handicap and the Epping Handicap.

Messrs. W. T. and W. J. Kerr met with a serious loss on Saturday when Iolite, while taking part in the Club Welter, broke one of his fetlocks, and was subsequently destroyed. Iolite was a four-years-old gelding, by Maltster from Violet, by Idalium from Hecla, by Maribyrnong.

The transit arrangements by rail for the meeting of the Gosford Racing Club to-morrow include special trains, starting from the Central Railway Station at 10.10 a.m. (horses), 11.25, and 11.45 a.m. (passengers), stopping at the principal stations en route.

For the five races on the card for the meeting of the Wollongong Turf Club on the 5th inst., entries will be received by the secretary, Mr. J. Denmeade, up to 4 p.m. to-day. The prize money totals 240 sovs.

Four of the six events decided at Caulfield on Saturday were secured by horses bred at the studs in this State. Telecles, who appropriated the Katandra Two-Years-Old Handicap, was bred at the Eumaralla Stud by Mr. H. R. Denison, and is by Poseidon from Trinket, by Trenton from Crown Jewel, by Fitzjames from Rose of Lancaster, by Doncaster, and the filly cost 360gns as a yearling. La George, who annexed the Glenhuntly Cup, was bred by Mr. A. Morgan and is by George Frederick (son of Carbine) from La Traviata, by Sunrise from Kaloola, by Splendor (imp.); Winnipeg, who captured the Glenferrie Welter, is a Widden-bred son of Royal Artillery and Artemis, by Haut Brion (imp.) from The Meddler, by Trenton; and Golden Wire, the winner of the Brighton Handicap, is by Havoc from Odd Wire, and was bred in the northern district.

The aged Fortunatus gelding, Penniless, is evidently in good nick at present, for, on Saturday, he won a double—the Opening Handicap and Members' Handicap at Bathurst—both run over six furlongs.

The race for the Youthful Stakes at Randwick on Saturday was run at a clipping pace, and Don Salvo, who won from end to end, covered the five furlongs in 1m 0¼s, which equals the record for that distance registered by Pride of Murillo in the corresponding race over the same track in 1911, and by Walwa at Maribyrnong (Vic.) in 1893.

The General entry for the Cup meeting of the Newcastle Jockey Club closes on Monday, the 4th prox., with the secretary, Mr. J. Grisdale. For the 10 races for which nominations are invited for the prize money aggregates 1250 sovs., of which 250 sovs goes to the Club Handicap, 150 sovs each to the Opening Handicap, Hamilton Handicap, Shorts Handicap, and Merewether Handicap, 125 sovs each to the Pace Welter Handicap and Highweight Handicap, and 100 sovs each to the Nursery Handicap, Novice Handicap, Two-years-old Handicap, and Park Stakes. Entries can be lodged at the offices of the A.J.C. to 4 p.m. on the same date.

A few gallops were executed on the middle grass track at Randwick on Saturday morning. Nombi and a companion ran half a mile in 52½s, and Miss Collar disposed of six furlongs in 1m 21s. Sweet Malt moved freely over five furlongs, and Chiffonette went nicely over a similar distance. Arrowform spurted freely over half a mile, and a useful five furlong spin was run by Psyttyx and a companion. Others to spurt shorter distances were: Erungella, The Christian Brother, Britain, Lochano, Sir Vive, Grail, Cider, Charleville, Malthusian, Marculfus, Owen Roe, Atora, North Woodleigh, Third Prize, Virgilia, Sir Alwynton, Lady Denman, Beck's Lager, Matouree, and Malvana.

Cocatea, the winner of the Kalgoorlie Guineas, on Saturday, was bred by Messrs. Cox Bros. Rylestone, and is by Royal Artillery from Malana, by Maltster from Rubiana, by Clieveden, and was purchased for 50 guineas as a yearling. Renegade, who captured the Golden Mile, is a Turee-bred son of True Blue and Apsley, by Waterfall from Hester, by Beauchamp (imp.); while Scotch Viscount, who won the Mullinger Purse, is a Widden bred son of Scotland and Lady Isabel, by Haut Brion from Miss Westbourne (imp.), by Westbourne.

The programme drafted for the Canterbury Park May meeting on the 16th prox. comprises half a dozen events, carrying in the aggregate 625 sovs, of which 125 sovs goes to the Canterbury Handicap and 100 sovs to each of the other events. Entries will be received by the secretary, Mr. W. L. Davis up to 4 p.m. on Monday, May 4.

V.A.T.C. APRIL MEETING.

LA GEORGE WINS GLEN HUNTLY CUP.

WINNIPEG GLENFERRIE WELTER.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The weather was fine and cool for the V.A.T.C. April meeting, and the attendance, which included the State Governor and Lady Stanley, was a good one.

A start was made with the hurdle race, for which there were seven runners. Clontaft, who won both hurdle races at the A.J.C. autumn meeting, opened at 5 to 2, but at the finish of the betting was a strong favourite at 6 to 4. Milkabah and Ettie Kirk were the best backed of the others. Clontaft waited on the field until the straight entrance was reached, when he took the lead, and won, hard held, by half a length from Milkabah. Milkabah's rider failed to draw weight, and second money went to McAlpin.

The two-year-old event looked very open, and odds of 9 to 2 were offered on the field. Prudent Action opened favourite, but at the finish Kilspindie was in most demand. Telecles, who had failed badly in a third division handicap at Epsom, was solidly backed at the last moment, but went out favourite at 6 to 1. Telecles came to the front at the straight entrance, and, stalling off Wormwood, won, after a good finish, by a short neck. The English jockey, W. Tully, had the mount on Telecles.

The start of the Glenhuntly Cup was delayed through Antoinette and Safrano playing up. There were 12 runners, and Hamburg Belle opened favourite at 3 to 1, but when J. Accola, who does not get much practice in public, was announced as the rider, she retired to 11 to 2; while Mountain Princess, who opened at 4 to 1, went out favourite at 5 to 2. Glenbolt went to the front at the far turn, and led into the straight, but was almost at once supplanted by La George, who kept his place to the end, and won easily by a length from Hamburg Belle. La George has now won four races in succession, but fortunately for his connections the public did not attach much importance to his recent form, and he went out at 8 to 1. Mountain Princess was last at the home turn. Turner was evidently waiting for an opening, which he failed to secure. He had to bring the mare on the outside, and she finished third.

The Epsom winner, Altar Boy, was always favourite for the Neerin Steeplechase, with Pladda next in demand. The pair were always at or near the front, but Altar Boy had Pladda well beaten at the last fence. Altar Boy led into the straight and looked all over a winner to the distance, where Moroka came along, and he beat the favourite home easily.

Backers failed in their efforts to pick the Glenferrie Welter, as there were three better favourites than the winner, Winnipeg. Miss Gower, who supplanted Jemlah in favouritism at the last moment, was in front three furlongs from home, and in the end was beaten by a length and a half.

The day's racing concluded with the Brighton Handicap, for which Golden Wire was always a pronounced favourite, though a number of the other starters were well backed. Golden Wire took the lead at the distance and won easily from Lord Walla.

FOOTBALL.

FINAL UNION AND LEAGUE PRACTICE GAMES.

OPENING OF AUSTRALIAN RULES SEASON.

BRITISH ASSOCIATION CLUB GAMES.

The active football season is near at hand, as on Saturday both the Rugby Union and Rugby League played their final round of practice games, and the competition season will commence on Saturday next. The British Association clubs met in friendly games, but the Australian League made a start with its competition matches. This was found necessary, owing to the Australian carnival being played in Sydney this year.

RUGBY UNION.

EASTERN SUBURBS v SOUTH SYDNEY.

Eastern Suburbs and South Sydney met at the Sports Ground, and the former won by 12 points to 9. However, a goal was allowed to the winners by Mr. French, the referee, in the early part of the second half, but the ball actually dropped under the bar, so that the actual scoring was 9 all. Lucas was the kicker, and the effort was a good one. Gordon, Coulson, and Walker gained tries for Eastern Suburbs, while Boardman and Moloney scored tries, and Walker kicked a penalty goal for South Sydney. It was a most exciting match, as South Sydney tried desperately hard for a win. Towards the finish they drew level, and were still pressing, when a fine run by Duffy, followed by good work by Lucas and Coulsen, gave the winning points to the premiers.

GLEBE v UNIVERSITY.

Glebe defeated University at University Oval by 15 points to nil. M. Massey Westropp (2) and G. Bowen scored tries, while F. Buckle kicked a field goal, and also converted one of the tries.

NORTH SYDNEY v RANDWICK.

North Sydney defeated Randwick at Randwick by 19 points to 13. For the victors Reynolds, Pratt, Britton, and Hughes scored tries, while Hay and Reynolds converted one each, and Hay also kicked a penalty goal. Randwick's points were made up from tries by Carruthers, O'Hern, and McRorie, and two conversions by Carruthers.

MANLY v NEWTOWN.

Manly defeated Newtown at Manly Oval by a point, the scores being 18 to 17.

ST. GEORGE v Y.M.C.A.

Y.M.C.A. visited Hurstville, and were defeated by St. George by 19 points to 8. For St. George M'Lachlan, Hatchman, and Atkinson scored tries, Freeman converted one, and kicked two penalties, while West also converted one of the tries. For Y.M.C.A. Owen and Hartinstein scored tries, Bowser converting one.

SECOND GRADE.

Eastern Suburbs defeated South Sydney 8 to 6.
University defeated Glebe 16 to nil.
Randwick defeated North Sydney 6 to nil.

THIRD GRADE.

South Sydney defeated Eastern Suburbs 22 to nil.
Randwick defeated North Sydney 8 to 8.
Glebe defeated Five Dock, 22 to 3.
Ryde defeated Darlinghurst 26 to nil.

MANILLA, Saturday.

Baan Baa visited Manilla to-day, and were beaten by 8 points to 3.

RUGBY LEAGUE.

LAST ROUND OF PRACTICE MATCHES.

The last of the practice matches arranged by the New South Wales Rugby League were played on Saturday, with the following results:—

GLEBE v WESTERN SUBURBS.

These teams met at Wentworth Park, and, after an interesting game, the former team won by 25 points to 8. For the winners, M. Scannell, F. Burge, Algie, and Redmond scored tries, while Thiering kicked four goals and A. B. Burge one. Easterbrook and Courtney secured tries for Western Suburbs, Griffiths kicking a goal.

EASTERN SUBURBS v NEWTOWN.

Played on the Sydney Cricket Ground, and won by Eastern Suburbs by 16 points to 10. Challis, Nicholson, Williams, and Cubitt scored tries for the winners, one of which was converted by W. W. Messenger. Towsend and Collins scored for the losers, Russell converting both tries.

BALMAIN v ANNANDALE.

Balmain beat Annandale at Birchgrove Oval by 18 points to 5. Kelly (two), Green, and Robinson crossed the line for the winners, Fraser converting three of them and also kicking a penalty goal. Bassill, a try, and Kyle, a penalty goal, scored for the losers.

NORTH SYDNEY v SOUTH SYDNEY.

At North Sydney Oval South Sydney were defeated by North Sydney by 15 points to 13. Broomham, Scully, and O. Sherrit scored tries for North Sydney, to two of which C. Sherrit added the extra points, and Taplin kicked a field goal. For South Sydney H. Horder, R. Norman, and Almond obtained tries, Dymant converting one, and Hillard kicked a penalty goal.

SECOND GRADE.

Balmain beat Annandale on the Birchgrove Oval by 7 points to 5. M'Laren scored a try, and Joyce kicked a penalty goal for the winners, and Doyle got a try, which Muller converted, for Annandale.

At Wentworth Park, Glebe beat Western Suburbs by 13 points to 7. Wright, Mackay, and Dorrity scored tries, and Regan and Farrelly kicked goals for Glebe; Mison, a try and a penalty goal, and Freeman, a goal, scoring for the losers.

South Sydney (16 points) beat North Sydney (5) at the North Sydney Oval, R. Horder, Dalton (2), and Bates scoring tries for the former, two of which were converted. For North Sydney Conway crossed the line, and a penalty goal was kicked by Fuller.

At the Sydney Cricket Ground, Newtown beat Eastern Suburbs by 7 points to 4. For the winners Talbot secured a try, which Seel, who also kicked a penalty goal, converted.

Sydney beat Mosman, at Mosman, by 5 points to 2. J. Smith and F. Lopps scored tries and E. Smith kicked a goal for the winners.

THIRD GRADE.

Eastern Suburbs beat South Sydney Kinkora at the Agricultural Ground by 18 points to 3. For the winners B. Rice, H. Martin (2), and B. Esman obtained tries, and B. Rice, E. Dennan, and H. Martin kicked goals. P. Woods scored a try for the losers.

South Sydney beat North Sydney at the Agricultural Ground by 11 points to 2, the winners' score being made up of tries by F. Murn, A. M'Lean, and J. Murphy, and a conversion by E. Briley. For North Sydney, Lynch kicked a goal.

At Mosman, Sydney beat Mosman by 11 points to nil, J. Linklater, M. Eggins, and A. White gained tries, one being converted by F. O'Donnell.

NEW BRANCH FORMED.

MOSS VALE, Saturday.

At a meeting last night of representatives of this district, and also of Picton and Thirlmere, it was decided to form a branch of the Rugby League, and play a competition during the season. The office-bearers were elected, Mr. A. Troy, Mittagong, being appointed secretary. Seven or eight clubs have notified their intention of joining.

BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

Saturday's games afforded clubs their last chances of trying out players who have offered for the forthcoming season, which opens at the Sports Ground on Saturday. A moderate attendance at Epping witnessed the three games played, and, though the desire to succeed was not as much in evidence as in competition games, still interesting practices were forthcoming.

In the district grades, Annandale beat Royal Navy 2-0, and Glebe beat Newtown, 2-1. At Clyde, Sydney and Granville drew 2 all, and at Booralee Park, Pyrmont scored 5 against Botany. Northern Suburbs journeyed to Five Dock Park, and, after a close game beat Drummoyne, 2-1.

The club League teams provided good games, Y.M.C.A., at Epping, beating Railway (for whom Willian played splendidly in goal), by 2 to 0; and R.A. Engineers, at Middle Head, beat Rozelle Valeta by 2 to 0. The hospital teams (Callan Park and Gladesville) won their games, and Sargents beat Botany Albion by 7 to 2. H.M.A.S. Tingira and Balmain Crusaders, in the junior division, opened with wins against the junior and juvenile teams from Pyrmont District.

AUSTRALIAN.

SEASON OPENS.

The New South Wales Football League opened the season on Saturday. The games were confined to three league engagements, the second grade clubs having set down their opening for next Saturday. The attendances showed an improvement on the opening day last season.

Sydney, last year's premiers, beat Paddington at the Australian Football Ground, without the aid of several of last season's prominent players.

During the half-time interval, Mr. J. P. Osborne, M.L.A., for Paddington, unfurled the premiership pennant, won by Sydney last season.

At Hampden Oval, South Sydney beat North Sydney. Mr. L. Reynolds, a field umpire, who has had experience in Melbourne and Adelaide, handled the game admirably. At Erskineville Oval, Newtown beat East Sydney in a mediocre game.

Saturday's games thus leave Sydney, South Sydney, Newtown, and Central Western (the latter by reason of having the bye) as leaders in the premiership list, with Paddington, North Sydney, and East Sydney as the beaten clubs.

SYDNEY v PADDINGTON.

Played at the Australian Football Ground, and won by Sydney by 55 points to 40.

Sydney: M'Cormack, Hyett, Mack, M'Cullagh, Hankin, Clarke, Moodie, Estment (captain), O'Grady, Gordon, Dunnicliff, Hume, Perrin, Mumford, Grant, Harrison, Keating, Harris.

Paddington: Abotomey, Wickham, Payne, Taylor, Gough, Vockler, Hanrahan, Parr, M'Inerney, Orr, Peace, Ryall (captain), Gray, Law, Robinson, Brown, Mahoney, Phillips.

Field Umpire: T. Richardson.

Sydney, playing a man short, opened up in fine style. Paddington, however, were the first to score, with two behinds in succession. Sydney transferred play to the northern goal, where O'Grady kicked a nice goal. Keeping Paddington on the defensive by their ground work and handling the ball well, Sydney added to their score with goals by O'Grady and Perrin. The quarter ended with the scores:—Sydney, 3-2 (20 points); Paddington, 3 behinds (3 points). Paddington improved in the second term. They only added four behinds for the quarter, and Sydney scored a single. The half-time scores were:—Sydney, 3-3 (21 points); Paddington, 7 behinds (7 points).

Play was even in the early portion of the third quarter. Eastment, playing in good style for Sydney, broke through Paddington's defence, and O'Grady added another goal. Wickham goaled for Paddington, and for a time they had much the better of play. After Mahony, by a good kick, had scored Paddington's second goal, Sydney came with a rattle, and goals were kicked by Keating and Clarke. Three-quarter scores—Sydney, 6-7 (43 points); Paddington, 2-9 (21 points). Play continued even in the final term, Paddington adding three goals and Sydney replied with 2 goals. The game was disappointing and disjointed; but the form shown by several of the lower grade juniors, who filled the places of absentees from the Sydney team, was excellent.

The final scores were:—Sydney, 8-7 (55 points): Paddington, 5-10 (40 points). Sydney's goal-kickers were O'Grady (3), Clarke, Perrin, Mumford, Keating, and Hankin; Mahony (2), Brown, Wickham, and Robinson scored goals for Paddington.

SOUTH SYDNEY v NORTH SYDNEY.

Played at Hampden Oval before a moderate attendance, and won by South Sydney by 69 points to 41.

The opening quarter was marked by evenness, both sides showing excellent form, though South Sydney scored 11 points to North Sydney's 5. South Sydney, in the second quarter, played well together, and increased their total by 30 points, while North Sydney only added 9. North Sydney made a splendid effort during the third quarter; but though they reduced the lead their opponents had a margin of 11 points at the end of the term, which they increased during the fourth quarter, and finally ran out winners by 8-21 (69 points) to 6-5 (41 points). Lane (2), Bignell (2), Kelly, Davenport, Maine, and Stevenson scored goals for South Sydney, and Littler (2), Anthoness, Tait, Pearson, and Smith for North Sydney.

For the winners the most prominent were M'Kenna, M'Fadden, Bignell, Pascoe, Murphy, and Maine; and for North Sydney Robertson, Anthoness, Littler, Shannon, Tait, and Pearson.

NEWTOWN v EAST SYDNEY.

Played at Erskineville Oval before a fair attendance, and won by Newtown by 98 points to 21.

Newtown, kicking towards the eastern goal, at once jumped into their stride, and by fast, nippy play, which, however, lacked concerted action, kept East Sydney hard at work in defence. After singles had been scored by Meadows and Davis, the latter, from a snap shot, scored a goal, and Meadows goaled shortly afterwards. Cross, M'Kenzie, Stewart, Murphy, and Nesbitt showed some brilliant play, but were not well supported. Newtown predominated, and at the end of the quarter had scored 3 goals 10 behinds to 2 behinds. Fast, determined play by Newtown kept their opponents defending during the second term. A fine rush by East Sydney ended in Stewart scoring a single from a long drop-kick, the ball being touched at the goal posts. The scores at half-time were:—Newtown 6-20, East Sydney 3 behinds. Meadows opened in the third quarter with a goal for Newtown, and then East Sydney, showing improved form, quickly scored two behinds, which Stewart supplemented with a goal. After three more behinds had been added to East Sydney's total, Newtown monopolised the scoring until the end of the term, when the board showed Newtown 8-26, East Sydney 1-8.

There was little difference in the play in the last quarter, and Newtown ran out easy winners by 11-32 (98 points) to 2-9 (21 points).

The goal-kickers for Newtown were Meadows (7), Munro, Davis, J. Smith, and L. Smith; while Stewart and Patterson scored goals for East Sydney. For the winners Ellis, Sheahan, Davis, Meadows, Blackburn, Provan, and J. Smith were prominent on an even side. For East Sydney Cross, M'Kenzie, Murphy, Nesbitt, Patterson, and Stewart strove hard to avert defeat. L. J. Pitcher was the field umpire.

The draw for the second grade competition will take place to-night.

NEW SOUTH WALES ASSOCIATION.

ASSOCIATION FIELD DAY.

There was a large attendance at Petersham Park on Saturday afternoon to witness the events of the fourth annual field day. All the events were run off in good time, and the items set down for the seniors were well contested. The entries for the schoolboy events were very meagre, and the association will have to consider seriously the advisability of eliminating these items from future field days. A splendid exposition of baseball was given by the two selected teams for the championship game, the play being of a surprisingly good class, considering that the majority of the participants have not previously had any practice this season.

THE EXHIBITION GAME.

An exciting contest, which went for six innings resulted in a win for the No. 2 team, 3—2. No. 1 team's battery comprised J. A. Machado (pitcher) and F. E. McElhone (catcher), who put in some good work, and were well supported by both infield and outfield, the latter not having much to do. R. J. Oram, on first base, had the most work, and made no mistakes. H. Franks was the pitcher, and J. Franks the catcher for No. 2 team, and, as usual, combined well. The fielding for the side was good. V. Donowa (third base), A. S. M'Cloy (left field), E. H. Dean (centre field), R. Law (short stop), being the most prominent. J. A. Machado and H. Franks struck out five each. Messrs. W. C. J. Kelly and T. J. Proud umpired. Scores:—

No. 1 team, 0, 0, 0, 0, 2, 0=2

BOXING.

HOLLAND DEFEATS FITTON.

Fritz Holland and Jim Fitton, two American welterweights, met at the Rushcutter Bay Stadium on Saturday evening, before a moderate attendance, in a 20-round contest, Holland being declared the winner in the ninth round. Both men were strangers to Sydney, and this no doubt accounted for the smallness of the crowd. Holland accounted for M'Coy in Melbourne a little while back, whilst Fitton recently arrived under engagement to the Olympia Stadium, from America. Both men can use their hands to advantage. Holland has a powerful right, which he continually sets in and uses on the body to some purpose. Fitton made more use of his left, and it was with his left that he scored. In the opening rounds there was little between the two men. In the fourth Fitton connected with his left three times in succession. Then Holland boxed more vigorously. His right repeatedly found the body, though he was inclined to let his arms fly about wildly. Towards the end of the round Fitton brought forth cheers for his clever work at close quarters, and Holland had to bear the brunt of the punishment. From the sixth round to the end Holland easily had the better of the contest, Fitton tiring over the last minute in each round. Just after the ninth round had commenced Holland, with a right jab, sent Fitton to the boards for the count of two. He then went in to end the contest, using his right and left on the body. Fitton tried to keep out of reach, but Holland forced matters. He brought down a hard right on the neck, and Fitton took the count for nine. He was very sick on gaining the perpendicular, and another weighty right again sent Fitton down. During the count the towel was thrown in from Fitton's corner. The weights were given as:—Holland, 10st 6lb; Fitton, 10st 3lb. Mr. H. Baker was the referee.

Two preliminaries of six rounds each were put on, Reg. Ferris gaining a points decision over J. Hobbs, and Reg. Sproule winning on points from Tommy Uren. Mr. F. Baker was the referee of these two contests.

OLYMPIA TOURNAMENT.

The eighteenth night of the contests in connection with the £1000 tournament, promoted by the Olympia Athletic Club, was decided at the Stadium, Newtown, on Friday, before a large attendance. Mr. Wally Weekes refereed. Results:—

8st 6lb Division.—Jimmy Britt (Newtown) gained the decision over Jack Townsend (Redfern), in the first round, the referee stopping the bout. George Crawford (city) and Sid Masters (Waterloo), who both showed a lack of skill, boxed for two rounds, when the former slipped and fell, and his towel was thrown in, Masters being declared the winner.

Novice, 9st Division.—Fred Fry (Petersham) outclassed "Billy" Burgess (Newtown), and won in the second round.

9st Division.—Mat Edwards (Alexandria) received a forfeit from Jim M'Ewan (city).

9st 9lb Division.—Jack Ryan (city) and "Patsy" Power (Newtown) went the full six rounds, the former winning. Ben Pengelly (Redfern) won by a narrow margin from Bede Rigby (Granville), after going the full term.

10st 7lb Division.—Ted O'Brien (Glebe) forfeited to Jack Mayne (Paddington), and Alb. Livingstone (Newtown) to Joe Lonegan (Waterloo).

11st 6lb Division.—Jim Hindmarsh (South Coast) received a forfeit from Jim Maloney (Redfern).

Heavyweight Division.—The contest between "Tommo" Thompson (Surry Hills) and "Billy" Black (Glecot) was stopped in the second round, Thompson gaining the decision.

Special Contests.—Jack Humphries (Alexandria) and Len Wilson (city) boxed for six rounds, and the former, who led all through, won on points. Jim Hindmarsh (South Coast) was beaten on points by Les Wilden (Alexandria). Mat Edwards (Alexandria) was counted out in the first round of his bout with "Billy" Molyneux (Newtown).

N.S.W. AMATEUR BOXING AND WRESTLING CHAMPIONSHIPS.

The following is the programme for the above championships, which will take place at the Stadium on Tuesday evening, commencing at 7.45:—J. P. Mullane v W. Bell (bantam), P. J. Martin v C. Joyce (feather), T. H. Hook v P. L. O'Donnell (light), F. Cronk v R. Finley (welter), W. Davis v B. Lindsay (bantam), F. Poulter v W. Hamilton (feather), C. Joseph v B. Wright (light), E. Foley v J. King (bantam), P. Jones v E. Knoll (middle), L. S. Turner v J. Ewart (light), F. J. Smith v E. Ransden (bantam), S. R. Dolan v P. Conley (feather), L. Herman v N. J. Burns (light), W. R. Webb v R. FORTHCOMING CONTESTS.

LONDON, April 25.

Wells and Coffey have practically agreed to fight on June 29.

Jack Johnson and Moran have been matched for a contest on June 27.

SAYLOR BEATS WILLIAMS.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

At the Stadium last night Milburn Saylor, of America, beat the English lightweight, Nat Williams, so hopelessly, that the referee stopped the contest and awarded it to Saylor. The end came in the seventh round.

The contest was witnessed by 8000 people.

ELLIS v MELVILLE.

BRISBANE, Sunday.

At Baker's Brisbane Stadium last evening, Frank Ellis, of New Zealand, and Hector Melville, provided an excellent contest, which went the full 20 rounds. The referee declared for Ellis, and the verdict was received with hoots and cheers.

Acting under medical advice, Jimmy Hill, who has a damaged hand, will not box Frank Thorne at the Stadium on Saturday night. The management has arranged that the American, Lee Johnson, shall enter the ring as Thorne's opponent.

GIRL COVERED WITH SORES.

ZAM-BUK MADE SKIN QUITE CLEAR AND HEALTHY.

Parents cannot have a much greater trial than that of witnessing the agony and disfigurement of children who are in the grip of some torturing skin disease. Zam-Buk has cured hundreds of cases similar to the following, and brought forth striking expressions of gratitude from parents.

Mrs. Annie Hayes, 495 Boundary-street, Spring Hill, Brisbane, says:—"My little girl, now aged 12, recently broke out in itchy sores all over her arms and legs, and also on the face and upper parts of the body.

"The child suffered dreadfully with the constant pain and irritation, and I couldn't keep her hands away from scratching at the bad places. As a result the sores became more inflamed, and increased in size until some were quite as large as two-shilling pieces. In my endeavours to ease the child's suffering I tried almost everything that I knew of, but the usual ointments and salves seemed quite powerless to bring relief.

"Then I heard about Zam-Buk, and got a pot. The first few dressings of the balm soothed the child's skin wonderfully, and repeated applications thoroughly cleansed the sores, and caused the healing to start.

"I only used Zam-Buk for a little more than a week, but in that short time every one of the sores was cleared away. Now the child's flesh is firm and her skin quite clear and healthy again. We are never without a pot of Zam-Buk in the house now." Zam-Buk is always ready for immediate use, and it never loses its remarkable soothing, antiseptic, and healing power. Zam-Buk is excellent for bad legs, sore feet, ulcers, piles, ringworm, poisoned wounds, itchy rash, insect bites, swellings, cuts, bruises, sprains, etc. 1/6 and 3/6 of all chemists and stores.—Advt.

MOTOR TUITION means to Drive Motor Cars. It is a profession far above many. You will receive a higher salary than many other occupations. I can make you competent in 10 to 20 days, I will give you a guarantee to that effect. If I fail to make you proficient I will refund your money. I teach on 5 cars, not one, as in some schools. If it breaks down you may be a month waiting for a lesson. My fee is reasonable; it's my success. No pottering about cleaning cars, etc., but driving daily. Theory is useless. To make the student competent he must drive miles before he can hope to obtain the police license. Car lent pupils for police test free. The police, ambulance, firemen, etc., come to me for tuition. My garage is the largest as a motor school in the State. Two hundred students have been taught by me since Jan. 22 of this year. There is some reason for so many coming to me. It's honest dealing. My business has been built up from one car to six, from 16 students a month to 80. Course £1 10s for car and services. Also Night Classes. 81 Campbell-st, n. Eliz.-st.

"GOING TO THE DENTIST?"

The man who answers in the affirmative to this question is usually regarded as a hero, or as a man condemned. But not when he is coming to me. When a patient of mine has any further work to do—he comes back with the utmost confidence that the filling or extraction will be quite painless.

Yes, I said painless filling. And I mean "PAINLESS FILLING." I have an apparatus—the only one in Sydney—which enables me to achieve this long-hoped-for result. No matter how tender that tooth of yours may be, I will drill and fill it quite painlessly. I guarantee my work in writing. If any rare defect should appear in my fillings, platework, crowns, and bridge work from fair wear and tear during five years after treatment, I cheerfully remedy the mishap.

If you've a tooth which cannot be saved I will extract it painlessly. I guarantee my special method absolutely. I will hand you £5 if you feel anything. And there will be no painful pricking, and no swollen gums to fear. Where artificial teeth are ordered, necessary extractions will not be charged for.

OPEN TILL 6 P.M. DAILY (Sats. included); UNTIL 9 P.M. FRIDAYS.

A SPLENDID PRESCRIPTION
FREE FOR SUFFERING WOMEN.

Hundreds of English Doctors daily prescribe for their lady clients 60 grains of KEPHALDOL to be taken as directed. The average fee is one guinea, plus the cost of the prescription. Here is the prescription free. It will cost readers of this paragraph 1/6 only to follow this advice, and to do so means absolute insurance against pain and disability. To be had from all Chemists and Storekeepers.

Hundreds of thousands of women who prior to the use of KEPHALDOL had been martyrs to pain regularly, now proclaim that relief broadcast.

Kurri Kurri, 10/3/14.
Messrs. Kephaldol and Co., Sydney.
Dear Sirs:—
Will you please send me at your earliest convenience one bottle of Kephaldol—1/6 size. I have tried your Kephaldol with good results. I have been in the State almost two years, and suffered dreadfully at times with headaches, etc., with three days in bed, and I am pleased to say that I have escaped it for the first time after taking Kephaldol. I am very grateful to you, and shall never be without it. I have recommended it to several of my friends.
Yours truly,
MRS. J. K. WARDAUGH.

KEPHALDOL is guaranteed under the Pure Food laws of N.S.W. It is harmless and absolutely safe to use, and stops pain without affecting the heart in any way. It is absolutely reliable, and works almost instantaneously in Headache and Neuralgia, and the pains that regularly make many women's lives miserable.

It is infallible for Neuritis, Headaches, Lumbago, Sciatica, Rheumatism, and various nerve pains. (3100)

FOR THE COMPLEXION.

There are many kinds of Face Powder, but there is only ONE

DR. MAGINN'S
LIQUID FACE POWDER.

When you ask for it, see that you get it, as there is no other "quite as good as." It is not affected by perspiration, wind, or rain. It does not rub off, and it produces that dainty, soft, velvety, and youthful glow to the skin that is so much admired.

ONE APPLICATION LASTS ALL DAY.

It can be obtained in White, Cream, or Rose Blush Tints, at 2/6 per bottle, from The Civil Service Stores, McCathies, Ltd., David Jones, Ltd., F. Lassetter and Co., Ltd., Hordern Bros., Grace Bros., Washington H. Soul and Co., Pattinson's Branches, and most Chemists.

MARK FOY'S, LIMITED.

The huge attendance of last week spoke far louder than mere words of the wonderful manner in which the REMARKABLE VALUES abounding at "The Piazza" have impressed themselves upon a discerning public.

The throngs around the Fashion Departments, leaving out altogether the steady purchasing taking place in all other sections, proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that the wonderful success of the present season is due to no other cause than that its offerings are quite unprecedented, and ARE POSITIVELY GIGANTIC IN VALUE and STYLE SIGNIFICANCE, as well as gigantic in comprehensiveness.

Among to-day's attractions are:—

COSTUMES,
